QUITS AS SPAIN'S PRESIDENT

TAKE PRESIDENT AT WORD; MOVE TO AID BUSINESS

Conservatives Draft Plans for Action.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.] — With the President again sounding the signal for "retreat from Moscow," the conservative Democrats in congress are preparing to push through a program of repeal and revision of New Deal legislation calculated to remove obstacles to business revival and thereby effect some measure of prosperity before the 1940 elections.

The conservative Democrats, headed by Vice President Garner, Senators Pat Harrison [Miss.], Carter Glass [Va.], and Harry F. Byrd [Va.], Speaker William B. Bankhead [Ala.], and Representatives Robert L. Doughton [N. C.], and Hatton W. Sumners [Tex.], are going to take Mr. Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, and Secretary of Commerce Hopkins at their word in their recent utterances on the problem of recovery.

Map Six Point Program.

The congressional leaders exchanged views informally today on their program of action which is to be initiated this week. The program envisages:

1. Immediate repeal of the undistributed profits tax, further reduction of the capital gains tax and revision of other taxes to eliminate deterrents on investment and business expansion.

2. Drastic reduction of expenditures as an earnest of the retrenchment essential to balancing the budget.

3. Revision of the Wagner national labor relations act to place employers on a par with employés in the matter of rights, privileges and penalties.

4. Revision of the social security act to reduce the amount of the pay roll tax and place the system on a pay as you go basis.

5. Revision of the securities and exchange act to modify provisions that discourage investment.

6. Restriction of government competition with private enterprise, including privately owned public utilities.

Higher Debt Limit Opposed.

There is also considerable talk of refusing the administration's forthcoming request for legislation raising the public debt limit from the existing 45 billion dollars to 50 billion or more, by way of serving notice on the administration that the budget must be balanced in the not distant future. The debt is now about 40 billion.

The conservative Democrats have noted with satisfaction the various administration manifestations of misgivings that the New Deal has gone too far on the radical road to Moscow and must retreat if recovery is to be achieved.

To revive business confidence the President made it known that he has abandoned the proposal of new taxes aggregating 422 millions which he made in his budget message last month and said no further taxes for New Deal innovations would be asked.

Morgenthau Backtracks.

Secretary Morgenthau appearing before the house appropriations committee on Jan. 18 requested the additional 422 millions of taxes, but after the President's retreat last week he backtracked. He went even further, admitting that business expansion is deterred by punitive taxes and invited congress to remove such deterrents.

Secretary of Commerce Hopkins in his Des Moines speech admitted that business lacks confidence and said that government must act to restore confidence in private enterprise for profit.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, said that economic affairs in the United States have become so confused that he is not sure just how they can be straightened out.

"I am not hopeful about a solution," he added in answering questions put by business men after a Chicago speech. "No one realizes the difficulty more than I. I haven't lived in Washington five years for nothing."

JUDGE TO FACE OUSTER FOR AID TO BOSS HINES

Mayor Files Charges on Graft Evidence.

New York, Feb. 26. — [Special.] — Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia wrote another chapter in the conviction of Tammany boss James J. Hines today when he ordered impeachment of Magistrate Hulon Capshaw unless he resigns at once. Testimony in the trial of Hines named Capshaw as a tool of Hines in the sale of political protection to the underworld. Capshaw testified for Hines and denied the charge.

Judge Hulon Capshaw.

Hines, who faces a maximum prison term of twenty-seven years as the result of his conviction by a jury last night, was considered the most powerful Tammany leader. Besides having control over a large number of city jobs, Hines has been President Roosevelt's chief dispenser of federal patronage in Manhattan.

An Original Roosevelt Man.

Hines won his powerful position with Roosevelt when he disagreed with other Tammany leaders and supported Roosevelt before his first nomination in 1932. While forty-nine Tammany delegates to the Chicago convention were voting against Roosevelt, Hines was playing golf with Basil O'Connor, Roosevelt's law partner. He previously had built up a strong friendship with James A. Farley, then state and national Democratic chairman.

As a result of Hines' conviction Mayor La Guardia today ordered Chief Magistrate Jacob G. Schurman Jr. to draft formal charges against Capshaw, who has been suspended from the bench since a bill of particulars in the first trial of Hines revealed charges against him.

Capshaw's conduct was a direct issue in the Hines trial, the mayor wrote to Judge Schurman, and the verdict, he said, not only covers his conduct as a judge, but his credibility as well.

Capshaw Denies Charges.

On the witness stand Judge Capshaw indignantly denied District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's charge that he was influenced by Hines to dismiss policy racket prosecutions against henchmen of Dutch Schultz, late gang leader.

In the first trial of Hines, George Weinberg, who had been business manager for Schultz, testified he was present when Hines asked Capshaw to dismiss an important policy case before him. "Capshaw whined," Weinberg testified, and asked, "I haven't failed you yet, have I, Jimmy?"

In the second trial which ended in Hines' conviction last night Capshaw testified Hines had nothing to do with the dismissals and charged arresting police had not obtained proper evidence because they did not prove the defendants had physical possession of policy slips.

Legal Opinion Assailed.

In his charge to the Hines jury, Judge Charles C. Nott Jr. shattered Capshaw's hide bound legal view of possession and said there was no rule in law that holds that to possess a thing it must be held in hand, on the person or in the pocket. "Constructive possession is just as much possession under the law as possession on the person," he concluded after remarking that a man with a cup of coffee in his hand is in possession of the saucer, too.

Capshaw owes his appointment to the bench by Mayor James J. Walker in 1929 to Hines' support. He was reappointed in 1933 by John J. O'Brien, last of the Tammany mayors.

Capshaw came to New York from Tennessee in 1913 to attend Columbia law school. Before he was graduated in 1916 he had joined a Hines Democratic club and worked to get out the votes for Tammany candidates. Tonight he gave no indication that he would resign. He said he would welcome an investigation of his conduct by the appellate court, the only body with power to remove him.

Sentencing of Hines has been postponed until March 13. His counsel Lloyd P. Striker said an appeal would be taken to the highest court and indicated he was preparing a legal fight that might keep Hines out of prison for three years.

TERROR IN THE JUNGLE

Italy Cheered by Poles Amid Jeers for Nazis

WARSAW, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Pro-Italian demonstrations by Warsaw students tonight turned into anti-German manifestations on the second day of the visit of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy.

A large crowd, which was gathered in front of the Institute of Italian Culture where Ciano was meeting members of the Italian colony, changed its friendly hurrahs for Italy, when the foreign minister appeared in the doorway, to shouts of "Down with Berlin! Down with the Rome-Berlin axis!"

Police immediately began to disperse the demonstrators, but when they changed their chant to "Long live Italy, long live Duce!" officers ceased their efforts to scatter the crowd. No arrests were made and no casualties were reported.

Students Demand Danzig.

Later a high school organization scattered leaflets through Warsaw's principal streets demanding that the Polish army enter Danzig and incorporate the free city into Poland.

It was the third successive day on which students have showed defiance of Nazi Germany as a result of alleged mistreatment of Poles by Germans at Danzig. Danzig formerly was a part of Germany but since the world war a free city under the nominal supervision of the league of nations.

At meetings and in demonstrations earlier students made their anti-German feeling clear. Police sought to save Ciano embarrassment by steering his swift automobile through streets where he would avoid the manifestations as much as possible.

Decide to Bar Germans.

Warsaw university students, called to discuss military training, decided all Germans attending Polish universities should be denied admission to their classes next Wednesday. Polish students will spend that day collecting money for national defense funds.

The demonstrations were an aftermath of last night's rioting at the German embassy, where two window panes were broken by enraged students.

Count Ciano, here on a five-day visit, continued political discussions with Col. Beck after a luncheon given by President Ignace Moscicki.

The two foreign ministers spent two and one-half hours together yesterday but the results of their talks were kept secret.

50 TRUCKS TO START AT 5 A. M. ON DELIVERY OF ELECTION SUPPLIES

Fifty trucks—one for each ward—will begin delivering ballots and other election supplies to judges of Chicago's 3,648 precincts at 5 o'clock this morning in final preparation for the primaries tomorrow.

Board of election commissioner employés at the city hall were busy yesterday filling bags with tally sheets, affidavit forms, and other supplies.

John Rusch, clerk of the election board, said the trucks would pick up these bags and then go to the warehouse at 4917 Broadway for ballots and ballot boxes. These, he said, will be delivered to the home of one of three election judges of each precinct, who will place them in the polling places tomorrow morning.

TAKES 25 YEARS, BUT SHE RETURNS THAT UMBRELLA

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 26.—(AP)—It took her 25 years to make up her mind but a Rome, Ga., housewife has returned an umbrella she carried from a street car here back in 1914.

"I have never felt right to keep it," she said in a letter received by the street car company. "I shall appreciate it very much if you can find the owner and return the umbrella."

Company officials were doubtful about finding the rightful owner, but admitted that the umbrella arrived at a very opportune time. It was raining.

INFANT CEASES TO BREATHE, BUT DRUG SAVES HER

Five days ago Joyce Ann Vana, 6 months old, of 2520 South Austin boulevard, gasped, turned blue and stopped breathing. Seemingly she was dead. Dr. John F. Bartizal of Riverside, hastily summoned, could hear no heart beat, sense no pulse action. He injected coramine, a stimulant, and rushed the baby to West Suburban hospital in Oak Park, where she was placed under an oxygen tent. Yesterday Joyce Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vana, was well on the way to recovery from pneumonia.

SNOOPER SPIES ON CHILDREN IN RUSSIAN SCHOOL

Testimony published in the newspaper Soviet Siberia said one defendant, A. I. Savkin, a former official of the NKVD [secret political police] at Leninsk-Kuznetski, watched "with vigilant eye" and found espionage, terrorism and counter-revolutionary activity in all juvenile misdemeanors.

Savkin, two other former agents and R. M. Klipp, former acting city prosecutor, who was accused of having permitted the imprisonment of children 10 and 12 years of age, have pleaded guilty to "inciting discontent among toilers." One witness said that "it was quite enough to find two or three schoolboys carrying penknives to incriminate them for terrorism."

RALPH, MOTHER IN CALIFORNIA TO VISIT AL CAPONE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Scarface Al Capone's brother, Ralph, and mother arrived from Chicago today to visit the Chicago gangland czar in the federal correctional institution at Terminal Island, Union Pacific railroad officials reported.

The brother was released from McNeil Island prison five years ago after paying a $10,000 fine and serving two years and five months for income tax evasion.

Traveling as "Albert Martin," he admitted plans to visit Al Capone and said it would be the first visit since Al was imprisoned.

"Please leave us alone," he urged in declining further comment.

Union Pacific officials said the couple arrived too late to reach the terminal island institution during daytime visiting hours.

Scene of Ship Crash Off New Jersey.

At 8:27 p. m. Chicago time, two hours and fifteen minutes after the collision the Wiegand reported by radio that it had picked up the second of two lifeboats put overside by the foundering 3,482 ton cargo boat.

There were thirty-four men, including Capt. Boyer, in the two boats. Before being hauled aboard the Wiegand they bobbed in the foggy darkness for almost two hours, frequently lost from sight by the rescue ship.

Turns Back to New York.

With her forepeak damaged and one hold taking water, the Wiegand, of 5,869 tons, turned back to New York, having sailed from there earlier in the day for Moji, Japan. The freighter proceeded slowly, with her pumps working in the damaged hold. The Lillian was bound to New York from Porto Rico with a sugar cargo.

At 7:06 p. m. William Helmbold, radio operator of the Lillian, who coolly held his post and summoned aid though the ship was sinking under his feet, locked the key of his instrument. The steady hum from the radio still could be heard hours later, Mackay Radio said, indicating the ship was still afloat.

The Lillian flashed an SOS at 6:10 p. m. and was abandoned within an hour, slowly sinking a dozen miles off Barnegat lightship, which is fifty-five miles south of New York.

Rams Wiegand in Fog.

The Lillian reported she rammed into the Wiegand in a dense fog, with the visibility so short and uncertain that the rescue was effected only with the aid of whistle blasts that kept the men in the lifeboats advised of the Wiegand's position, and with the help of a great searchlight.

In May, 1937, the Wiegand's then captain, Otto Liedert, 45 years old, ended his life with a pistol bullet after thirty-six hours in vain efforts to refloat the ship after it had run aground on a coral reef in clear weather off the Florida coast.

To Chicken Thief: Those Hens Lay Two Eggs a Day

Mrs. Mary Russell, 45 years old, colored, 3026 Prairie avenue, reported to Pekin police last night that thieves stole two roosters and two hens from her basement. "I don't mind the roosters so much," she complained, "but I'll miss the two eggs those hens laid every day."

AZANA AND STAF CLOSE DOORS OF PARIS EMBASSY

Franco Regime to Be Recognized Today.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 26.—The Spanish republic was given the final blow in Paris tonight when President Manuel Azana stole out of the city for the village of Collonges-Sous-Saleve, near the Swiss border. He abandoned the Spanish embassy on the eve of the expected recognition of the Nationalist [rebel] government of Gen. Francisco Franco by France and Great Britain.

Gen. Jose Miaja, loyalist army commander, prepares to quit Spain.

The president left without making the long awaited proclamation of his resignation, coupled with an expected appeal to the republicans [loyalists] to lay down their arms. It was reported in informed quarters that Azana had written such a statement and left it in the hands of embassy authorities to be released some time tomorrow.

Ambassador in Party.

Smiling in a barrage of flashing camera bulbs laid down by photographers in the Lyons station, Azana left on the 10:20 o'clock Geneva express, accompanied by a few intimates. He refused to make any declaration upon his departure. Blinds on the windows of his compartment were pulled down as soon as he boarded the train. With him was Dr. Marcelino Pascua y Martinez, Spanish government ambassador to France.

An air of mystery shrouded Azana's departure. It was announced early today, then subsequently denied. The denial was accompanied by an announcement that the president would hold a conference at the embassy tomorrow afternoon with Martinez Barrio, president of the cortes [parliament] and loyalist ambassadors to Paris and London.

Ruse to Cover Flight.

Apparently the announcement of this conference—like the reported radio declaration which Azana was supposed to make today—was merely part of an elaborate ruse to enable him to escape from Paris with a minimum of publicity.

It was impossible to get any statement from the Spanish embassy on Azana's plans or on the expected announcement of his resignation as president of loyalist Spain.

According to informed sources, the archives of the embassy and various objects not considered the rightful property of the Spanish state have been sent within the last few days to the port of Arcachon, where they have been taken aboard a yacht belonging to a high Spanish republican personality. It was said the yacht will sail for Mexico in a few days, also carrying to safety a number of loyalist leaders now in the Madrid-Valencia zone.

Solves France's Problem.

With or without formal resignation, Azana's departure is considered as removing the difficulties which faced France in the way of transferring recognition from republican Spain to Franco. Azana has left the embassy vacant and it will be occupied in the near future by the newly accredited ambassador from Burgos.

The new ambassador probably will be José Marie Quinones de Leon, who formerly held that post and who has been Franco's unofficial agent here during the thirty-one months of civil war.

Quinones de Leon was prominent among the personalities who welcomed Senator Leon Berard when he returned this morning from Burgos, where he negotiated the delicate problem of restoration of official relations between Spain and France. The two left the railway station together in earnest conversation. It would surprise nobody if the council of ministers, which is going to recognize Franco tomorrow, should decide also to send Berard back to Spain as official representative of France.

Sources close to the French foreign office said that Gen. José Miaja had been granted a visa to enter France. Gen. Miaja was reported yesterday to have relinquished his post as commander in chief of all government forces and to have applied for a visa.

10,000 Leaders to Flee Spain.

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(AP)—With the end of Spain's civil war apparently in sight, Britain and France were understood tonight to be arranging the removal of 10,000 Spanish government civil and military leaders and their families.

Their efforts were spurred by government Premier Juan Negrin's acceptance yesterday of an armistice—actually a surrender, in everything but name, to the nationalist [rebel] forces of Generalissimo Francisco Franco and tantamount to the end of more than 31 months of civil strife.

The proclamation of an armistice was being withheld temporarily, Spanish government officials here declared, pending definite plans for the removal of the government's army, political and labor leaders from the Madrid-Valencia-Alicante zone, the one-fourth of Spain still government held.

Ships to Be Surrendered.

The British and French governments, it is understood, have agreed tentatively to carry out the withdrawal with passenger ships escorted by war vessels.

Should Spanish ships be used, authoritative sources said, it will be with the understanding that they be turned over to nationalists on their arrival in foreign ports, probably Marseilles or Port Vendres, France.

France and Britain were reported to have presented this proposal to Franco and to be awaiting his reply. Republican [loyalist] sources also said Negrin had asked for time so that the prospective émigrés might gather their families and prepare to leave.

Officials said that only conclusion of these negotiations stands between capitulation of what remains of government Spain and its occupation by Franco's nationalists.

Negotiations Go On.

As soon as the exodus begins, Spanish government leaders said, the time will be set for the armistice. Negotiations for the peace were said to be continuing among the British government, Franco's representatives, and Pablo de Azcarate y Flores, Spanish government ambassador to London.

Spanish republicans said here last night that Negrin had agreed to accept an armistice on the British government's assurance that Franco had promised—in writing—that there will be no reprisals against former government sympathizers and that Spain's independence will be maintained free from German-Italian influence.

Informed quarters said Franco had given Britain assurances that only civil law criminals would be tried—and those in civil, not military courts.

Paves Way for Flight.

MADRID, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Premier Juan Negrin of government Spain tonight issued a decree providing passport facilities to all men between the ages of 17 and 55 who are not affected by mobilization orders. Men affected by the mobilization orders must have safe conduct passes issued by the ministry of defense. Women do not need such a visa to leave the country.

Interpretation of the decree was lacking, since the efforts of outside powers in connection with the war are not generally known here.

It was pointed out, however, that even possession of such passports and a desire to leave the government's beleaguered central zone mean little unless outside transport facilities are tendered the people. There are no regular ship schedules and airplane schedules by Air France are restricted.

NAZIS SEE GAIN FOR DICTATORS IN REBEL VICTORY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—"The victory of Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain has decided the first war of ideals in favor of the authoritarian forces in Europe," the Nazi press proclaimed today.

"France and England today must reckon with the new authoritarian bloc in the Mediterranean—a bloc in which Spain will make her weight felt," said the Montagspost.

MILE POSTS IN 2½ YEARS' WAR FOR RULE OVER SPAIN

Franco's Rebellion Leads to Victorious End.

Before there was civil war in Spain there was an election. That was nearly three years ago, on Feb. 16, 1936. Actual organized fighting did not begin until months later, yet this balloting was the match that lighted the fuse of battle. The Popular Front of Left Republicans, Socialists and communists won the election, forcing out the pro-Fascist, pro-church régime. Strikes and riots followed. Thousands of political prisoners were released. Churches were burned. The era of destruction had begun.

Gen. Francisco Franco was among the rightist leaders who were deprived of their powerful positions in Madrid. Franco was sent to the Canary Islands' garrison. There, with the help of other generals in Spain, he evolved a plan calculated to gain control of the country within three days. All military garrisons were to rise up swiftly and paralyze the government's supposedly feeble forces.

Rebel Plans Miscarry.

On July 17, 1936, Franco led an uprising which gave him command of the Canary Islands, part of the Balearic Islands, and Spanish Morocco. The next day the garrisons rose throughout Spain. But the plans of the rebels miscarried. The government quickly took control of the populous and industrial east coast and the industrial northern coast. Uprisings in Madrid and Barcelona were put down.

Gen. Emilio Mola marched from Burgos, in northern Spain, to the aid of the rebel garrison in Madrid. He was stopped in the mountains fifty miles north of the capital city by loyal civil guards and regular army men. Madrid sent another army south and blocked the principal passes of the Sierra Morena, which separate Andalusia from central Spain.

Rebel officers took over the best warships, but on many others loyalist sailors threw their officers overboard. The government also had the submarines, and with them bottled up the Strait of Gibraltar, keeping Gen. Franco in Morocco.

DICTATORS AID FRANCO

Then Franco began to receive help from Hitler and Mussolini. German and Italian transport planes and bombers helped ferry Moors and foreign legionnaires from Morocco to the mainland. The blockade was broken. Gen. Franco and his Moors marched north and captured Badajoz on Aug. 14.

Twenty-seven nations signed a nonintervention pact in London, pledging to keep "hands off Spain." Germany ceased supplying materials to Franco for a while, but Italy continued. Diplomats started their maneuvering to keep the war from spreading to the rest of the continent.

By Sept. 12 Franco had rail and road communications open from north to south along the west of Spain along the Portuguese border. The rebels' 68 day siege at Toledo ended on Sept. 28 with the capture of the city and the release of prisoners of the Alcazar. Gen. Franco then turned his attention to a drive against Madrid, but he was too late. Madrid had had time to rally its defense forces.

Russia Enters the War.

In the month of October the flow of men and materials to both sides grew more pronounced. The assistance of Russia became evident on the loyalist side.

The loyalists set up a new capital in Valencia as the siege of Madrid went into the winter months.

In January, 1937, on the recommendation of Italian advisers, Gen. Franco made a successful move in southeastern Spain. Italian troops and German field batteries helped the rebels take Malaga on Feb. 7. The loyalists said German and Italian warships followed the advance along the sea coast and screened off loyalist vessels.

Early in March Franco, using crack Italian troops, started a drive toward Guadalajara, thirty-two miles northeast of Madrid. The loyalists put up terrific resistance and not only threw back the Italians but scattered them in a disorderly flight.

BOMB CITIES FROM AIR

This setback, however, did not deter the rebels long. They continued to knit their conquered territories together. If they could not march into Madrid, their bombs could fly over it. Bombs spared neither lives nor centuries old treasures of art and architecture in this and other cities.

On July 17, 1937, the first anniversary of the beginning of the war, the Franco territory resembled a great ink blot advancing inexorably from west to east of Spain. There was a small strip on the north coast also that remained to the loyalists. This was Franco's by Oct. 21. He had started his Biscayan campaign on June 19 with the capture of Bilbao and the Basque iron mines. He took Santander on Aug. 25 and cleaned up with the capture of Gijon.

A series of submarine and plane attacks on ships in the Mediterranean carrying supplies to loyalist Spain began in the summer of 1937. Merchant ships flying flags of Great Britain, soviet Russia, France, and the Scandinavian countries were hit.

Sign Anti-Piracy Pact.

A conference of the powers met in Switzerland and drafted an "anti-piracy" agreement, which was more or less successful in curbing the attacks until early in 1938. British, French, and other ships patroled the seas with instructions to fire on planes, boats, or submarines attacking merchant vessels.

After the capture of Gijon Franco shifted the main body of his troops and ships to northeastern Spain. He established a blockade of the eastern coast—not with ships but with bombing planes.

The loyalists moved their capital again in November, going from Valencia to Barcelona. They also took the offensive on the battlefields, launching the Teruel campaign. They captured that provincial capital on Dec. 21 after a seven day siege, but paid a stupendous price in casualties.

That Teruel offensive was termed the greatest blunder of the war. It was a boomerang to the loyalists, for Franco struck back immediately at their weakened forces and recaptured Teruel on Feb. 22, 1938.

SPLITS LOYALIST SPAIN

On the impetus of this success Franco moved forward to fresh victories. New Moorish and Italian troops helped him on the Aragon offensive over a seventy mile front. By March 15 he was ready to open his Catalonian drive. A month later he had split Catalonia [the northeast wing of the country] from the rest of loyalist Spain.

About the loyalists' only consolation during this period was a sea victory. A destroyer's torpedo sank the rebels' crack 10,000 ton cruiser Baleares with a loss of 600 men.

Franco had reorganized his régime and cabinet on Jan. 31, 1938. He made himself president-dictator and fixed the parliamentary seat at Burgos Rebel Spain had been ruled by a national council modeled after the Italian Fascist grand council since Oct. 1, 1937.

Many British Ships Bombed.

It was in 1938 that a series of intense aerial attacks on ships in Spanish ports began. They were directed chiefly at British merchant men. In the month of June sixteen British ships were attacked, making a total of fifty-nine since the start of the war. Italy and Germany were accused unofficially of responsibility for the attacks. Britain protested to Franco.

France also had cause for protest when on June 5 nine planes from Spain flew over France and dropped bombs near Orlus and Orgeix. France sent more troops to the frontier, strengthened anti-aircraft defenses and gave orders to fire on any encroaching planes.

The two most damaging air raids of the first half of the year inside Spain were conducted by rebel planes. In mid-March Barcelona was bombed for forty-eight hours by planes flying in relays. Nearly 1,000 persons were killed and 3,500 wounded. On May 31 Granollers, sixteen miles north of Barcelona, was bombed and 400 killed.

On July 17, 1938, the second anniversary of the beginning of the war, Franco's forces held nearly 142,000 square miles of Spain's area of 196,607 square miles. The loyalists still held the three largest cities—Barcelona, Madrid, and Valencia.

Valencia was Franco's next objective. Late in July he entered Valencia province, but counterattacks by the loyalists stopped him short of the city itself. The loyalists drove a wedge into rebel territory along the Ebro river and captured ten towns. Their total gains were estimated at about 200 square miles.

This appeared puny, however, beside rebel advances in the southwest at the same time. Two rebel armies conquered 3,125 square miles in five days in a surprise drive north of Cordoba.

REBELS DRIVEN BACK

Battle lines changed little from then until Oct. 12, when a government offensive drove the rebels in Catalonia back toward Gandesa. Less than a month later the rebels had about-faced and were again biting into what remained of loyalist Catalonia.

The rebels' final massed drive, which resulted in the capture of Barcelona and hastened the end of hostilities in Catalonia, began two days before Christmas. The attack began slowly, with Franco's forces of Italian legionnaires moving up six miles in the Tremp sector, northeast of Barcelona, with the help of airplane and artillery bombardments.

In addition to the attack in the mountainous sector south of Tremp, the rebels drove another spearhead into government territory from the wide southerly bend of the Ebro river and the junction of the Lerida, Tarragona, and Huesca province borders. Ten towns fell in Christmas day fighting on snow whitened fields. The next day the rebels captured Borjas Blancas, one of the loyalists' key points in the defense of Barcelona.

Counterattack Fails.

In a counterattack on Dec. 30 the loyalists sought to split the northern and southern wings of Franco's offensive. Franco, however, continued his progress toward the coast and toward Barcelona. On Jan. 15 he captured Tarragona, second most important city of Catalonia.

The third anniversary of the formation of the Spanish Popular Front found the government in the gravest position in its history.

Franco, massing 150,000 men on a front only fifty miles long, urged the government by radio to lay down its arms. In reply the Madrid loyalist command made plans to rush 60,000 men to the aid of Barcelona. Franco set up a blockade to stop them.

Civilians Flee Barcelona.

On Jan. 23 the loyalist government ordered the civilian population to leave Barcelona. The rebel forces, increased to 300,000 men, drew every narrowing circles around the city. American cruisers Omaha and Badger prepared to take American refugees from the Catalonian zone. This was accomplished on Jan. 25 under salvos of bombs from rebel planes.

On that same day Franco demanded the surrender of Barcelona and its 2,000,000 inhabitants, refugees, and defenders. The rebels had penetrated the city proper at its southern outskirts. Bomb and shell shattered buildings in the port section were in flames. Siege lines cut the city from the outside world, save by radio.

FRANCO'S TRIUMPH

On Jan. 26 Franco made a triumphal entry into Barcelona. It was his greatest victory. His troops relentlessly pushed on with the object of conquering the rest of Catalonia while thousands of refugees and loyalist troops fled before them. The end of the war appeared nearer.

On Feb. 6 the Spanish government abandoned Catalonia to Franco's army. President Manuel Azana and his family crossed the border into France at Perpignan, carrying Spanish treasures with them. President Luis Companys of Catalonia and José Aguirre, head of the former Basque republica, entered on foot, having traveled many miles with the refugees pouring into France.

Azana set up headquarters in the Spanish embassy in Paris. Determined to see the war brought to an end, he conducted negotiations with the remnants of his government in Madrid, seeking an armistice and surrender. Hopes of some Spanish military leaders to continue the war were shattered when France and England announced they would recognize the Franco régime as the legal government of Spain.

Yesterday terms of an armistice were arranged and Azana vacated his quarters in Paris.

Visits Dutch Isle

President Roosevelt aboard the cruiser Houston stopped at Dutch Isle of St. Eustatius, where first foreign power recognized the United States in 1776.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—While President Roosevelt was cruising leisurely near the Lesser Antilles tonight aboard the cruiser Houston on the eighth day of his fishing vacation, the first radio message from the ship in forty-eight hours was received at the temporary White House here.

Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan, naval aid, said the Houston was stopped yesterday for two hours at Oranjested, capital of the Dutch owned island of St. Eustatius. It was on this island that the United States first was recognized by a foreign power in November, 1776. At that time an American naval officer went ashore and read the Declaration of Independence to the Dutch governor, who ordered a salute fired to the new nation.

Capt. Callaghan's message said nothing about progress of the naval maneuvers in Caribbean waters, nor when President Roosevelt would return to shore. He is due in Washington Saturday to take part in exercises commemorating the 150th anniversary of the opening of congress.

3,000 ITALIANS ANSWER DUCE'S CRY 'COME HOME'

Quit France in 5 Trains; Get Fascist Salute.

ROME, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Three thousand Italians returned to their homeland from France today in the greatest mass movement yet undertaken in Italy's program of repatriation of her sons abroad. They crossed the frontier in five special trains.

Many more will be brought back to Italy in coming weeks. Two shiploads were scheduled to arrive Wednesday in Leghorn from the south of France.

As the returning Italians swelled the total man power on which Premier Mussolini can draw in event of war, several recently adopted decrees designed to give Italy greater power in wartime went into effect. Italy began mobilizing the nation's man power after agitation for a slice of France's Mediterranean empire threatened to plunge the two countries into war.

Military Control Over Industry.

Among the new Facist decrees are measures providing for militarization of the entire economic life of the nation at the moment of a general or partial mobilization, for dividing the country into military zones for administration of economic life in wartime, and for distribution of gas masks to all government employés and industrial workers.

Fascist newspapers telling of the repatriation program gave prominence to dispatches from Malta reporting a student demonstration against the new constitution of the British held island in the Mediterranean south of Sicily and the Italian mainland.

Of today's contingent about 1,000 arrived on two special trains which had stopped en route from Paris to pick up additional Italians at way stations. These trains were followed by a special from Lyons which crossed into Italy by way of the Modane tunnel.

Hear of Fascist Greatness.

Two other specials bearing Italians from Bordeaux, Marseilles, and other parts of southern France entered Italy at Ventimiglia.

The homecomers—men, women, and children, including some infants born abroad and seeing Italy for the first time—were led to Fascist headquarters by a brass band. There they were given meals of spaghetti and other Italian food specialties. In brief addresses officials told of the greatness of the new Italy and the joy of the mother country in having them back.

In addition to the return of Italians to Italy the repatriation commission, established last November, apparently is endeavoring to attract Italians now living in non-Italian parts of North Africa to Libya, where they will be under the Italian flag once more. It was announced that in the last month 250 Italians from Tunisia, Algeria, and Egypt had settled in Libya.

EMPIRE AT STAKE

France is determined not to give way to Italian demands for a slice of her colonial empire. This was indicated only a week ago when France strengthened her African defenses and took over a coastal area between French Somaliland and Italian Eritrea which once had been ceded to Italy.

The clamor for concessions from France has been aroused by Italian deputies, the press and the public. First indications that Italy had serious designs on all or part of France's holdings in the Mediterranean and in North Africa were given on Nov. 30 when members of the chamber of deputies raised cries for Tunisia. France protested, demanding an explanation.

To these cries later were added student demands for Corsica, Savoy, Nice, the port of Djibouti, the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway, and a voice in control of the Suez canal. Even visiting Nazis joined in the Fascists' shouts of "Long live Italian Tunisia!"

From this beginning has grown the present tumult in which England and Germany have joined—Britain on the side of France, Germany aiding and abetting her axis and anti-communist partner.

Here's What Italy Demands.

TUNISIA.—Share of administration. Tunisia is a French protectorate lying east of Algeria on the Mediterranean coast of North Africa. Its eastern frontier borders Italian Libya. There are 91,000 Italians in Tunisia—about equal to the French—but they have no voice in government.

PORT OF DJIBOUTI.—Outright cession. The port of Djibouti is in French Somaliland, strategically located on the Gulf of Aden. It would be the principal outside link for Italy's Ethiopian empire, which lies to the west.

DJIBOUTI-ADDIS ABABA RAILWAY.—Outright cession. The railroad connects the port of Djibouti with Addis Ababa, and forms the only rail outlet from interior Ethiopia to the sea. It is owned by France.

SUEZ CANAL.—Share in control. The canal, predominantly French owned, is the path through Egypt from the Mediterranean sea to the Red sea and represents an important link in the far east life lines of France and England. Italy wants to broaden its right of way there.

Italians Want Corsica.

CORSICA.—An island owned by France in the Mediterranean sea, halfway between Italy and France; the birthplace of Napoleon. France bought its sovereignty from the republic of Genoa in a treaty signed May 15, 1768. It is a principal coaling station for the French navy.

SAVOY.—Formerly a part of the territory controled by the house of Savoy, from which King Victor Emmanuel III. of Italy descends. It was ceded to France by the king of Sardinia in 1860. It has an area of about 4,000 square miles and a population of nearly 500,000. It is bounded on the north and east by Switzerland and on the east by Piedmont, a part of Italy.

NICE.—A seaport on the Mediterranean sea. Nice, like Savoy, was ceded to France in 1860. It has a population of 241,000.

Tunisia Is Most Important.

Of all these areas included in the unofficial Italian demands upon France, probably Tunisia is the most important to Italy's ambition to refurbish its colonial empire.

Tunisia—with its capital, Tunis—has been a French protectorate since 1881. It was not until Jan. 28 of this year that France took the first step to annex the country as a possession. This move was made in the appointment of Gen. Amadee Blanc, commander of the French armies in Tunisia, as minister of war in the government of the bey of Tunis, ruler of the country.

The protectorate is about 48,300 square miles in area and has a population of nearly 2½ millions. The area was under the rule of Britain, France, and Italy during a period of bankruptcy in 1869. In 1880 Italy bought a principal railway connection from the British, but a French military expedition invaded the country in 1881, ostensibly to chastise the independent tribes in the northeast. However, this pretense was dropped and the French occupied the capital, compelling the bey to accept the French protectorate. In 1896 Italy consented to the French protectorate on the condition that Italians in Tunisia should be permitted to retain their nationality.

Film Star Improves

NORMA SHEARER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Norma Shearer's condition was "quite satisfactory" today, her physician, Dr. Joel Pressman, said. Miss Shearer was taken to a hospital last Wednesday suffering from a streptococcus infection of the throat. The actress' condition last night was considered serious, but gradual improvement was noted in the last twenty-four hours.

POLICE ORDER 3 REPORTERS OUT OF ITALY IN WEEK

ROME, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Police agents today ordered three Swiss newspaper correspondents to get out of Italy by next Sunday. They are among the most prominent correspondents in Rome. One is the Rome representative of Le Temps of Paris.

Those ordered to leave are: Robert J. Hodel, former president of the Foreign Press association and grand officer of the crown of Italy, correspondent of Neue Zuercher Zeitung of Zurich; Paul Gentizon of Le Temps of Paris and Gazette de Lausanne, Lausanne newspaper, and Luigi Pedrazzini, correspondent of Gazette Ticinesa, newspaper in the Italian speaking part of Switzerland.

Today's order brings the total of Rome's foreign correspondents expelled since Jan. 1, 1938, to twenty. Il Giornale d'Italia, Rome newspaper, two weeks ago carried an article criticizing Switzerland on charges of allying herself too closely with the democracies, especially France.

SWISS OFFICIALS CLOSE SPAIN'S LEAGUE OFFICES

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York News.]

GENEVA, Feb. 26.—Swiss authorities closed the office of the Spanish permanent delegation to the league of nations yesterday. All property other than personal belongings, including files and records, was placed under seal.

The staf, in charge of Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo's son, immediately left by train for Paris, where the permanent delegate, Luis Jiminez Asua, arrived several days ago.

It is reported here that the Franco government plans to retain league membership. League circles accept this as evidence that Generalissimo Francisco Franco has no intention of taking orders from Rome or Berlin.

FORLI, Italy, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Albina Mussolini, spinster aunt of Premier Benito Mussolini, died here today. She was 70 years old.

Revive Romantic Talk

GRETA GARBO.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Confirmation here today of cable advices that Leopold Stokowski, famed orchestra conductor, will conduct a concert in Stockholm late in May brought a pre-spring revival of that hardy perennial of Hollywood romance: Greta Garbo and Stokowski to wed?

All the old stories of a serious Garbo-Stokowski romantic idyll bloomed anew when it was reported that the Swedish film star and the conductor will sail for Sweden on the same boat.

Miss Garbo and Stokowski spent some time in Sweden and Italy last year, but the actress denied that she had any intention of marrying.

SOUTH AMERICAN NATIONS ACCEPT FRANCO REGIME

BURGOS, Spain, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The nationalist foreign office of Spain announced today that Venezuela and Bolivia had accorded full diplomatic recognition to Gen. Francisco Franco's government. This brings to twenty-two the number of countries recognizing the nationalists as the legal government of Spain. Ten others have granted de facto recognition.

Argentina Recognizes Envoy.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 26.—Argentina extended partial diplomatic recognition to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government today by recognizing his agent, Juan Pablo Lojendio, as Spanish chargé d'affaires.

Ossorio y Gallardo abandoned his post as Spanish government ambassador and turned the embassy over to the Argentina foreign office, which delivered it to Lojendio.

Historic Brooklyn Church Burns; Damage Is $350,000

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Fire today damaged Brooklyn's 97 year old Christ Episcopal church to the estimated extent of $350,000. A hand carved Siena marble altar, studded with gems and valued at $150,000, was ruined, as well as a $100,000 stained glass window.

'CHAMBERLAIN MUST GO!' CRIES LONDON CROWD

Police and Fire Engines Curb Anti-Franco Mob.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Police guards and fire engines held anti-Franco demonstrators from Downing street tonight as Prime Minister Chamberlain completed the speech he will deliver tomorrow recognizing Generalissimo Francisco Franco's nationalist régime as Spain's legal government.

But they found their way up the narrow, dead-end street blocked. Outside modest No. 10, the prime minister's official residence, three red fire engines and 100 policemen backed by thirty mounted police barred their way.

Send in a Protest.

Even the demonstrators' vanguard, veterans of the Spanish government's international brigade, found the opposition too formidable. They sent a protest in to the prime minister and dispersed.

Their resolution, after assailing the government's whole Spanish policy, decried "as the culminating treachery the present vulgar and undignified scandal on the part of the government to curry favor with the assassin of Spanish democracy."

Clement R. Attlee, Laborite opposition leader in the house of commons, also submitted a resolution of protest at the Spanish embassy.

There, however, the staf of Pablo Azcarate y Flores, Spanish government ambassador to London, advised of Chamberlain's intention of recognizing Franco, was preparing to move out tomorrow.

Treachery Charged.

Earlier, Attlee had accused Chamberlain of "selling" the Spanish government and had charged Britain now was "going to consummate the treachery by recognizing a rebel, puppet government."

The prime minister will read an important written declaration from Franco in the house of commons tomorrow.

It is understood the national leader has given written assurances that his government will refrain from any reprisals against the defeated Spanish government and has guaranteed that Spain will remain free of German or Italian influence.

Sir Robert M. Hodgson, British commercial agent at Burgos, Franco's capital, already has been instructed to advise the nationalists of Chamberlain's plan.

The next British move after recognition was expected to be the granting of a large loan to the Spanish nationalists to help rehabilitate Spain after more than two and one-half years of war.

GREEN MANAGER WARNS AGAINST 11TH HOUR TRICKS

Democratic Conspiracy Is Seen by Watkins.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

A warning to Republican voters to beware of eleventh hour trickery by both factions of the Democratic party was issued yesterday by Ferre C. Watkins, campaign manager for Dwight H. Green, G. O. P. mayoral candidate.

"As a result of the increased strength Dwight Green has developed, both Democratic sides are desperate," Watkins said. "On the basis of what already has been done, I expect further attempts to bunko Republicans into taking Democratic primary ballots."

Watkins ripped into what he termed a "conspiracy of silence" by the election board concerning the law that binds voters for twenty-three months to the party whose ballot they accept in tomorrow's primaries.

Calls One Claim "Black Lie."

He made five charges to explain why he is issuing the warning:

1. A letter has been sent to Republican voters from the Democratic headquarters of State's Attorney Courtney, urging support of this candidate, which closes with the statement: "This does not bind you to a Democratic ballot in the primary of 1940." Watkins termed this "a black lie."

2. Thirteen broadcasts by the election board have omitted any reference to the twenty-three months law.

3. A book of instructions from the election board was silent on this vital point.

4. A supplemental letter of instructions from the board said nothing about the twenty-three months law.

5. John F. Tyrrell, counsel for the Republican county committee, has attempted in vain to inspect script for the board's broadcasts in order to prevent mistakes injurious to his party. In previous elections Tyrrell was permitted to examine and correct instructions by the board.

"All of this points to the probability that last minute surprises will be sprung," Watkins said. "Republicans must be on guard."

Attorney Joins in Warning.

Attorney Tyrrell joined in the warning. He said that on Saturday he applied for permission to see the election instructions and was told that his request would be taken under consideration. Yesterday he had received no reply.

Dwight Green spoke yesterday at three meetings. He struck at the Democratic monopoly in local government and declared that it is at least partly responsible for Chicago's school and traction problems and unemployment.

Tonight Green will end his first election contest with a broadcast from WMAQ at 9:30 p. m. His headquarters said his final appeal to voters will stress the seriousness of this election.

Girl, Too Long at Movies, Starts Search by Police

A police search for Ann Engman, 9 years old, ended abruptly last night when she returned to her home at 4411 Walton street. She had been gone nine hours and her mother, Jennie, had become alarmed. Ann told police there wasn't any reason for worry. She had been to a neighborhood movie. She had stayed through three shows of double features.

Fisherman Stricken at Sea; Cutter Finds He's Seasick

Boston, Mass., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter went 200 miles out to sea today to take a sick fisherman off the trawler Kingfisher and reported by radio it was hurrying to the nearest port, Provincetown, to give the fisherman dry land treatment. He was seasick.

JUDGE TO RULE ON KOSHER MEAT DISPUTE TODAY

Lieut. Thomas Brennan of the Albany Park police yesterday gathered the facts in a situation that has upset a number of Orthodox Jewish families in his district. He will present them to Judge Leon Edelman in Shakespeare avenue court today.

Hyman Goldberg told Lieut. Brennan Saturday night he was expecting a disturbance at his market at 4746 North Kedzie avenue. Policeman Adolph Wolf was detailed there. He found two dozen elderly men and women in front of the market, protesting that the meat Goldberg sold was not kosher although he advertised it as such.

One objector, Jay Glod, 65 years old, 5017 North Sawyer avenue, was charged with disorderly conduct. Two rabbis later told Lieut. Brennan they had advised their congregations not to buy from Goldberg.

If it is proved that Goldberg's meat animals were not slaughtered by rabbis as prescribed by Orthodox Jewish custom the customers will be compelled to destroy utensils in which the meat was cooked and plates on which it was served.

SAVE CREW OF 23 AS VESSEL SINKS IN SEA MYSTERY

PORT VENDRES, France, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The 800 ton Greek freighter Loulis sank mysteriously off Cape Creus in Spanish waters today a few hours after leaving Port Vendres for Valencia.

The French destroyer Tigre picked up the twenty-three members of the Loulis' crew and landed them at Port Vendres. The captain said his ship sank "because it was too old to be seaworthy."

Officers aboard the Tigre confirmed the crew's story that there was no sign of an explosion nor anything to indicate the freighter had hit a mine or been struck by a torpedo.

French authorities investigated the loss of the ship, which was heavily insured and had been engaged in trade with government Spain since the beginning of the Spanish civil war.

Dies of Burns After Furnace Flames Set Dress on Fire

Mrs. Bertha Cavanaugh, 69 years old, a widow, died last night in Little Company of Mary hospital of burns incurred Feb. 2. She was standing near the furnace in the basement of her home at 5927 South California avenue when her dress caught fire. Her grandchildren, Vincent O'Brien, 9 years old, and Joan, 12, beat out the flames.

KELLY PREDICTS BRIGHT FUTURE FOR ALL CHICAGO

Describes City's Gains in Last Six Years.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor Kelly last night told some of his plans and hopes for Chicago in the next few years. He spoke over the radio.

The mayor reviewed his record, pointing out that he does not claim the entire credit for himself and giving credit to those he called his teammates. He devoted chief attention to his plans for the future of the city.

The speech also included an expression of thanks to those who have encouraged him, not only during the campaign, but also throughout the six years he has been in office. He observed his policy of silence toward campaign critics who have condemned and censured him. Only in general terms were there references to quack medicine men, back seat drivers, and personal ballyhoo.

Bright Future Predicted.

"The city of the big heart and lasting friendships," he said early in his talk, "is facing the brightest future since its origin."

That was his text, and he returned to it again and again as he neared a summing up of what he believes to be the outlook for Chicago.

"Chicago's credit is restored," he said, "but, more important, her civic morale is restored: and we won't barter that in anybody's campaign.

"What I have done, I have done in good conscience—a conscience that fears no witness. I have dedicated myself to the job of making Chicago the first city of America—in material progress—in cultural growth, but this above all else—the first city in neighborliness and homespun good living.

Lists Prospects for City.

Later, when he returned to his text, he said:

"What do we face today and tomorrow on the practical side of the ledger for a progressive Chicago?

"A definite plan for arterial highway construction to link our communities, to prime business and create employment on sound public works;

"Extension of our filtration system to guarantee our leadership as the city of the best water supply and the best sanitation in the nation;

"The retention of our championship as the convention city of America—last year 900,000 convention visitors liked our friendly atmosphere and our open attitude toward personal liberty;

Pledges Transportation Work.

"Completion of the subway and the bringing of our dream of unified local transportation into reality;

"Development of more small parks for community recreation and better protection for the children;

"A real attack on the problem of blight and the protection of neighborhoods through a modern Chicago plan commission that will coördinate and unify the city for a comprehensive housing, industrial, and commercial upbuilding;

"Inducements to bring new industries to Chicago—over thirty were launched in the city last year and we are now concentrating on the aeronautical industry.

Tells Need for Enterprise.

"We are on the solid ground of solvency and moral security today. But we can't muddle through to a healthy prosperity. That will require constructive team play, criticism, and enterprise.

"Many things are now in the blueprint stage for Chicago's progress that will shortly be ready for the steam shovel and the welcome noise of hammers and saws.

"Chicago must go forward to its destiny as the first city of America."

Schreiber Describes Changes.

A different farewell touch to a special phase of the campaign, the question of the direction of Gov. Horner's influence in this battle, was given in an afternoon radio speech by Ludwig D. Schreiber, candidate for city clerk on the Kelly ticket. Schreiber was Horner's selection when he was elected treasurer of the Democratic state committee last year.

"Many things have happened in the last year," he said, "and Courtney's actions have lost him the confidence of Gov. Horner."

Schreiber mentioned that Mayor Kelly spoke at both the Democratic state convention and at the celebration of Governor's day at the state fair. Courtney was absent on both occasions and Schreiber described this as "sulking."

$131 COINCIDENCE IS VISITED UPON THE KOGAN BOYS

A coincidence was visited yesterday upon the Kogan brothers—Aaron and Louis, drug store owners.

At 9:20 a. m., a gunman held up Aaron in his store and postal substation at 3863 Lincoln avenue. He took $20 and made Aaron open the safe, from which he scooped out $100 in postal receipts and fled.

At 3 p. m. Louis was behind the counter in his store at 1959 Grand avenue when a well dressed man ordered a drink and then drew a gun. He fled with $11.

Not until a reporter, curious because of the similarity of the names, telephoned the brothers did either know that the other had been held up.

INJURED AT WORK; DIES.

COURTNEY JOINS JUDGE JARECKI IN VOTE WARNING

Mayoral Candidate Calls for Vigilance.

State's Attorney Courtney and County Judge Jarecki joined yesterday in discussing the "honest elections" issue in Courtney's mayoralty campaign. Judge Jarecki, who appoints and controls the board of election commissioners and has charge of the election, was followed by Courtney in what was termed a dual broadcast in the afternoon over a radio chain.

Then the two officials toured the city on a speaking campaign, appearing together at several meetings. Courtney's last meeting of the evening was in the 42d ward at 1016 North Dearborn street, where he faced an audience of 600. He told them he was confident of victory and said that his opponent is hiding behind billboards.

Winds Up Campaign Tonight.

The state's attorney will wind up his campaign for the Democratic nomination at 8 o'clock tonight at a meeting at 5711 63d street. It will be the only Courtney meeting of the day.

Judge Jarecki reminded voters that a year ago the Kelly-Nash faction of the party sought to defeat him for renomination. He recounted details of his fight with the so-called machine and told how Courtney had stood by him and helped him to victory.

"I have purposely deferred a discussion of the honest election issue in this campaign until the eve of the election," Courtney said on the radio after Judge Jarecki had introduced him.

"Above all else in American life that has to do with the system of government, the ballot is sacred. It is the only subject upon which I would feel justified in talking to you this Sunday afternoon.

Charges Machine Tribute.

"What assurances have you ever had from the machine Mr. Kelly built up on taxes, on the appropriations and allotment of federal funds, on tribute extorted from the workers in his own party machine, and from income that he dare not disclose to the public today that honest elections will continue in Chicago?

"On the contrary, you have had demonstrated to you that his huge, corrupt Kelly machine will not stop at one effort to defeat Judge Jarecki in order to control the election processes. They are only biding their time in the belief that the vigilance of the voters will lapse at some election or primary such as Tuesday.

"Thereafter, entrenched for four years, they will proceed to take away from the jurisdiction of Judge Jarecki the powers to supervise and administer the election laws.

"How will they do this? In just the same fashion that they passed the gambling bill and secured legislation permitting them to conceal from the public that 16 million dollars had vanished from the cash working fund of the city of Chicago.

Warns of Legislative Rule.

"Mark this warning! Retain Mr. Kelly, as his signboards implore, and you will surely have an act of the legislature, which is controled by the Kelly machine, taking away from Judge Jarecki all election machinery and placing it in the hands of the Kelly-Nash county clerk, Michael J. Flynn.

"You saw on two occasions pieces of legislation forced through by the Kelly machine licensing gamblers. You have heard me charge repeatedly during this campaign that a vast and vicious underworld syndicate, which really constitutes the invisible government of Chicago, was behind that bookie bill and that bookie ordinance.

"You have heard no answer to this charge, any more than you have had an answer from Mayor Kelly in reply to my demand that he reveal his income tax returns for the years he has been mayor, and which I have already offered to do for my years in public life.

Lashes Organized Gambling.

"Let me tell you how this syndicate of organized gambling and commercialized vice ties into the election problem in Chicago. It furnishes the man power, it furnishes the money, it provides the criminal cunning with which elections have been stolen in many wards and precincts in Chicago.

"The other evening I went into the 24th ward and was told of the intimidation, threats, and trickery that were being perpetrated by the Kelly-Arvey machine. I told the people the state's attorney would be in that ward on primary day. What happened immediately? My office was notified that the entire police detail will be withdrawn tomorrow, leaving not one policeman to guard a prisoner in custody in the Criminal court building.

The prosecutor was permitted by Commissioner Allman to retain the services of Capt. Dan Gilbert, his chief investigator, and Capt. Frank Reynolds, his bodyguard, the police official announced. All other policemen assigned to the prosecutor's office were given details at polling places.

POLITICAL NOTES

"Let us give Edward J. Kelly a vote of confidence," said Arthur Kruggel, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, in a radio speech. "Let us show our approval of the great work he has done and return him to office to carry on to successful completion the work he has started."

At 11 o'clock this morning State's Attorney Courtney will give a power of attorney to the Rev. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Church Federation and of the Chicago Theological Seminary, authorizing Dr. Palmer to look at his income tax returns. This will be done in Mr. Courtney's office in the county building and in accordance with instructions from Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that such a formality is a requisite to making public the income on which Mr. Courtney paid taxes during recent years.

The Committee of Ten Thousand will become the Committee of Fifty Thousand after primary day, backers of Dwight H. Green confidently announced yesterday. The committee is an organization of independent voters supporting Green.

Peter Hoban of Local 753 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters pleaded with fellow teamsters to "unite to defeat Thomas J. Courtney, tool of the reactionaries."

A. F. Lorenzen, manager of State's Attorney Courtney's campaign, yesterday predicted Courtney's nomination by 180,000 votes. Lorenzen said he had three long distance telephone calls recently from Miami Beach, Fla., from Gov. Horner's brother who also sent a letter containing a financial contribution and best wishes to Tom Courtney in his fight.

Mrs. Mabel Krutckoff, head of the women's division of the G. O. P. county committee, said yesterday that 5,000 volunteer Republican women will be out to watch the polls tomorrow. She declared this will be one of the greatest turnouts of women for such service in political history.

In a radio interview, Prof. Paul H. Douglas said he told Mayor Kelly that if he is elected to the city council he intends to be independent and that the mayor replied: "That's what I want in the council."

County Judge Jarecki in speeches yesterday said that the next mayor of Shicago will supervise the spending of one billion dollars of taxpayers' money. He said the annual expenditures of the city, the school board, and the park district are more than $250,000,000.

Julius H. Miner, chairman of the Constitution Day committee, yesterday issued a statement in which he contended that it takes a Republican to smash a politico-criminal machine. He pointed to the victory of Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey over Tammany Boss James J. Hines in the New York trial. This is reminiscent of the battle won by Dwight H. Green over Al Capone when Green was a federal prosecutor, Miner declared.

226 SEEK OFFICE IN PRIMARY RACES OUTSIDE CHICAGO

Waukegan Has Largest List of Candidates.

While Chicago voters are going to the polls tomorrow, primary elections also will be held in ten other communities in the metropolitan area. Names of 226 candidates for offices of mayor, village commissioners, and police magistrates, will be on the ballots. Most villages and cities holding general elections this year waived the primaries for the sake of economy. In most instances the elections are nonpartisan.

The largest list of candidates is in Waukegan. Forty-six candidates, of which only ten are Democrats, are listed for aldermanic nominations in seven wards. Clarence L. Brown, incumbent police magistrate, is opposed by Frank McManaman and Robert Coulson.

Mayoral Race in Highland Park.

Two candidates out of three will be nominated for mayor in Highland Park, the only other Lake county village holding a primary. Mayor William M. Dooley, a resident of the suburb for seventy-two years, is opposed by Attorney Samuel F. Knox and Maj. Frank J. Ronan. Maj. Ronan has just completed a two year term as a member of the Lake county board of review. Fourteen candidates are listed for nomination for village commissioners and four for police magistrate.

Five candidates are competing for two mayoralty nominations in Wheaton. Mayor William H. Caldwell is opposed by Henry J. Burt, Hugo J. Karstens, William W. Renton, and Frank Stetson. Seventeen candidates are listed for office of commissioner. Eight will be nominated and four will be elected in the general election. Police Magistrate Frank Earl Herrick is unopposed for reëlection.

Three trustees will be nominated in Glen Ellyn and three candidates are listed. They are Edward A. Himmelwright, Fred W. Reinhardt, and Harold E. Splon. Gale C. Marquess has no opposition for police magistrate.

16 Candidates in Naperville.

In Naperville, sixteen candidates are seeking the eight seats as commissioners. Two candidates for mayor, Mayor James L. Nichols and Commissioner John J. Bentz, have no opposition. Herman C. Hageman is unopposed for police magistrate.

Carlyle B. Stair and Mason E. Taylor are unopposed for the Downers Grove mayoral nomination. Eight will be nominated for commissioners from twelve candidates. Two will be nominated for police magistrate from a list of three.

In Forest Park Mayor Charles R. Hussey is opposed by Tom Collis Jr. and Charles W. Lellivelt. There are twenty-nine candidates for eight nominations for commissioner and four candidates for police magistrate.

Mayor J. W. Mahaffay of Palos Park is opposed by George V. Hermanson. Palos Park has eight candidates for commissioner and two for police magistrate.

Five Seek Nomination.

Five candidates have filed for mayoral nominations in Harvey. They are: Mayor Frank W. Bruggeman, George P. Fisher, Frank E. Foster, Harry A. Malone, and Frank G. Ring. Five have filed for police magistrate and twenty-one for nominations for commissioners.

In Chicago Heights Mayor Joseph Gannon is opposed by Dr. Ellis G. Klinger. There are two candidates for police magistrate and seventeen for the eight commissioner nominations. General elections will be held April 18.

Blizzard Snowslide Kills One Miner; Two Trapped

Ophir, Utah, Feb. 26.—(AP)—One miner was killed and two others trapped by a blizzard born snowslide that swept away mine buildings at the Hidden Treasure mine in Dry canyon near here today. The slide sheared off pine trees 75 feet high and demolished the superintendent's house and bunkhouses at the lead and silver mine.

SCAN DANCER'S PAST FOR CLEW TO HER MURDER

Link Her to Mysterious Friend Named 'Red.'

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Police tonight delved into the past of Anya Sosoyeva, exctic dancer, in an effort to find a clew to her mysterious murder on the Los Angeles City college campus.

Old and new friends were called in for questioning. Among them were Kermit Anderson, 34 years old, an accountant, and Mrs. A. L. Miller, who informed police that she often had seen Miss Sosoyeva in the company of "a large man, who, I have been told, is a member of a strange cult on the Los Angeles City college campus."

Anderson said he formerly had lived at the hotel where the dancer resided. They had been friends, he said, and "had kept company." He admitted he was fond of her. Miss Sosoyeva was temperamental, he said, and on two occasions scratched him. Once he slapped her, he admitted.

Accountant Is Released.

When Anderson first met her in May, 1936, she was receiving $40 a week from a San Franciscan identified only as "Red," according to Anderson's story. The weekly sums dwindled and finally stopped. Anderson last saw the dancer last June. Police released him. They said his story accounted for all but six months of Miss Sosoyeva's life since 1936.

According to Police Captain D. R. Patton the order referred to by Mrs. Miller is known as the Purple Cult. He said it is under investigation. One report hinted that the cult held strange rites at the home of a university attaché.

Another witness questioned was Miss Beulah Ann Stanley, a dramatics instructor and roommate of the slain dancer. She furnished detectives with the names of male friends of Miss Sosoyeva. Still another was Mrs. Esther Cahoon, manager of the apartment house where the dancer lived. Mrs. Cahoon said that Miss Sosoyeva told her of having had a quarrel with her "boy friend" in San Francisco before she came here in an effort to enter the movies.

Find Girl Is Not Raped.

Medical examination today by Dr. Frank Webb, county autopsy surgeon, indicated that Miss Sosoyeva, whose real name was Nina Susoff, had not been raped.

Investigation disclosed Miss Sosoyeva married Laurence Tulloch, actor and writer, when she was very young. He was twice tried for the fatal shooting in his San Francisco apartment of Mrs. Gertrude Hawkins Lavine, divorcée, but both juries disagreed. Tulloch died in 1932.

Miss Sosoyeva was killed by a blow from a 2x4 plank. She managed to stagger to the college auditorium, where she was to have appeared in an amateur play, and collapsed in the arms of a member of the cast, Wally Myar. Myar said she was unable to identify her assailant and cried out that "some one hit me over the head."

GLIDER PILOTS ASK U. S. FUNDS TO TRAIN FLYERS

Parley Stresses Value of Preparedness.

The young man on the flying trapeze was a piker compared with the 200 young men and women who gathered in the Hotel Sherman yesterday for the midwinter forum of the Chicagoland Glider council. They, too, float through the air, using motorless gliding and soaring airplanes, kept aloft by air currents.

Nearly all of the council members own their own planes. Conversation revolved around the delights of making loops and wing overs, of settling gently on a beach or a sand ridge.

Trains Future Aviators.

"It's a great sport and affords valuable training for future aviators," said Joseph Steinhauser, veteran glider pilot. In 1935 Steinhauser flew above the loop for forty minutes in a sailplane. He has been a gliding enthusiast for more than fifteen years.

For the novices, Steinhauser yesterday explained the various phases of gliding and soaring.

"A glider usually is able only to coast 'downhill' once it is launched from a bluff or high ridge," he explained. "A soarer, given good upward air lift, can stay up at the will of the pilot because of its large wing area."

One of the features at yesterday's meeting was the display of Stanley Corcoran's famous sailplane, Cinema. In this soarer Corcoran, a champion pilot, flew 202 miles in one flight last year, only eighteen miles short of the national record. Corcoran is director of a soaring and gliding school in Frankfort, Mich.—the only one of its kind in the United States.

The members drew up a petition asking that the government's contemplated aviation expansion program include appropriations for training prospective pilots in the gliding and soaring art.

Aeronautics Day Event.

"Knowledge gained by operating gliders helps aviation students learn actual flying faster than if they have only their classroom experience behind them," said R. F. Blaine, secretary of the council.

The forum is the first of several events to be held in Chicago in connection with Aeronautics day next Wednesday. On that day Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson will address the Chicago Association of Commerce on "The Business of Peace." Representatives of aircraft manufacturing corporations have been invited to the meeting, which will be held in the Palmer House.

Johnson is expected to discuss the possibility of transferring to the Chicago area the essential manufacturing operations involved in governmental plans for military aviation.

BEGIN TO INSTALL BIG TELESCOPE; WILL BE MANNED BY CHICAGO U.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Scientific history is in the making at McDonald observatory, seven miles north of Fort Davis in the heart of west Texas, where installation of the second largest telescope lens in the world now is under way.

The observatory, begun seven years ago as a joint project of the Universities of Texas and Chicago, was completed last week with the arrival of the great 82 inch mirror weighing 2½ tons. The mirror has been in the polishing process for five years and is accurate to one-millionth of an inch.

The observatory was built and equipped by the University of Texas and is staffed by the University of Chicago. The project was made possible by W. J. McDonald of Paris, Tex., who left almost a million dollars for it.

N.Y. MILK MARKET IN CHAOS AFTER PRICE MEDDLING

Court Finds Trickery in Wallace Compact.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Upstate dairymen and their organizers were perplexed and confused tonight as the result of decisions by Judge Frank Cooper of the United States District court in Utica, and Justice Francis Bergan in the Albany Supreme court, invalidating the federal government's milk control program and smashing the state law authorizing the establishment of bargaining agencies.

Sentiment of the divided and bewildered milk producers will begin to take form tomorrow at a meeting of dairymen in Syracuse. Other meetings are to be held at Canton, Fort Plain and St. Johnsville, N. Y. Charges are made by supporters of the government market control that the court decision will be followed by price cutting.

Upsets Wallace's Order.

Federal Judge Cooper's decision, returned Friday, found the federal-state marketing agreement for the New York City area confiscatory and discriminatory. He declared the order of Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace unconstitutional on these two grounds.

The judge said that the effect of the producers' settlement fund, required under Wallace's order, was to take money from one group without compensation and turn it over to another group, in violation of the constitution. The decision arose in Wallace's suit for a mandatory injunction to compel four upstate milk distributors to comply with the marketing agreement.

The federal ruling followed closely the Wednesday decision of Judge Bergan in Supreme court—a court of jurisdiction similar to the Circuit courts in Illinois—declaring unconstitutional the separate state milk control law.

Refuse to Contribute Funds.

The federal action was brought against the Jetter Dairy company, the Schuyler Junction coöperative, the Rock Royal coöperative, and the Central New York coöperative, on the grounds the four defendants refused to contribute to the mandatory producers' settlement funds, as required under the Wallace pact. Attorneys for the four charged heavy competitive advantage went to the state's larger and more powerful milk distributors.

Judge Cooper's decision gave weight to this contention. He said that after enactment of the Rogers-Allen law, enabling act for the federal-state order, the Dairymen's league, representative of the largest coöperatives, organized the Metropolitan Coöperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Inc., in conjunction with representatives of other coöperatives.

Dominate Bargaining Agency.

"It is clear," Judge Cooper wrote, that the coöperatives "exercised an important, if not the dominant influence over the activities of the bargaining agency."

Judge Cooper accused the bargaining agency and the Dairymen's league of making misrepresentations to get the marketing agreement adopted in referendum last August. This misrepresentation was based on use of quotations from a department of agriculture pamphlet explaining the order requires handlers to pay the uniform pool price, calculated by the market administrator, to all producers and operation of the pool assures handlers the same cost for milk sold and for that milk assured payment to all producers at uniform rates except for transportation.

Judge Cooper held these statements were incorrect. "There is nothing in the order requiring payment of a uniform price," he said, "or that the uniform price or any stated price determinable under the order be paid to producers of the coöperative association even for milk sold in the marketing area."

League Rules Voting.

"Had it not been for these misrepresentations," the judge said, "the order might not have had the approval of two thirds of the 38,627 votes counted as ballots." The milk order, in reality, affected 60,000 producers in seven states.

"So great was the power and voting strength of the dairymen's league," the judge continued, "that no order which it opposed could be approved, for it controlled more than one third of the entire number of producers entitled to vote."

The league, in the actual voting, cast two thirds of the favorable votes, the decision noted.

Study of the returns from the referendum shows that only 54 out of 193 coöperatives replied within the time allotted before the referendum was held, and thus did not participate.

The court noted that some of the misinformation was contained in department of agriculture literature sent to producer voters.

Judge Cooper upheld the defendant's challenge on the means set up in the milk control statute, in which the four companys claimed such gross discrimination as to drive them out of business and confiscate their property by arbitrary discrimination.

Judge Cooper also noted that the dairymen's league got $288,763 in September and October from the producers' settlement fund and that the Jetter company received nothing. The court concluded that the settlement fund took money without due process of law and that application of the AAA in the order was unconstitutional.

TAKE PRESIDENT AT WORD; MOVE TO AID BUSINESS

to the left more violently than before, the conservative Democrats are now proceeding on the assumption that he is genuinly alarmed by the failure of the New Deal to produce recovery and will not upset a business appeasement program.

Senator Harrison last year sought to obtain complete repeal of the undistributed profits tax and modification of the capital gains and other taxes burdensome to business, but was compelled to compromise by the President's opposition. The undistributed profits tax was down to 2½ per cent, but even then the President was so opposed that he would not approve the bill and it became a law without his signature.

The conservative Democrats guardedly commended Secretary Hopkins' speech as the proper approach to revival of business confidence. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] voiced the critical attitude of Republicans.

"The Hopkins statement," said Mr. Vandenberg, "is long overdue. I hope it means more than the other 'breathing spell' promises which, heretofore, have no sooner been uttered than broken. It will take more than sympathetic language to give American business the confidence which is a prerequisite to recovery.

"I am sorry to say there is no tangible encouragement in a speech which waves the olive branch on one hand and indorses deficit spending on the other hand. It doesn't help the railroads to give them an oral benediction in one breath and then give them an Amlie on the interstate commerce commission in the next breath.

"If Mr. Hopkins will reduce his conversation to a concrete and helpful formula which means what it says, I think he can be sure of great hospitality in both congress and the country."

Leaves the Track

YEGGS LEARN IT'S BETTER TO START AT THE BOTTOM

In their record books Central police wrote down last night that the safe crackers who visited the building at 223-25 West Lake street bungled a perfect opportunity.

They worked for hours in vain efforts to open safes in the offices of the Richard Pick & Heller upholstery company, on the fourth floor; Edgar S. Kiefer Tanning company on the third floor, and Nelson Mandus Lether Goods company on the second floor.

And all the time they had the free use of all the necessary tools to open almost any safe. The tools belonged to the Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe company on the first floor. Professional safe crackers would have had a field day with such tools, said police.

About the safe company? The thieves found five or six safes there, but they didn't have to work on them. The safes were already open—and empty.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Marilyn Hope, 18 years old, a brunette, has been chosen as nearest to the glamor girl of 1939 as conceived by the motion picture still photographers. She was selected from scores of young women by judges who sought a girl who looked most like a composite portrait of a number of film stars. In their search the judges were looking for a girl with the gray-green eyes of Danielle Darrieux, the facial curvature of Joan Blondell, the chin and nose of Ann Sheridan, and the hands and ears of Lucille Martin.

Mayor Compels 250 Pound Cops to Ride Dray Horses

Woburn, Mass., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The sight of Woburn's mounted trafic squad had residents of the town chuckling today. Two hundred fifty pound policemen were put astride dray horses obtained from the city poor farm. Mayor William E. Kane is wrathful because the police force has sued for back pay. Putting the men on draft horses was his way of getting even, and anyway, he said, men and horses needed reducing.

All phases of highway engineering and allied subjects will be discussed during the three day meeting.

Need Only New York for Victory in 1940.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—On the basis of an analysis of the November election returns the Republican national committee today claimed that twenty-one states with 221 electoral votes "are now unquestionably Republican." Only forty-five additional votes would be required for a majority of the electoral college.

New York and Idaho, with fifty-one electoral votes, were chalked up as "a toss up," so close was the vote. If the Republicans were to carry New York next year in addition to the twenty-one states they carried last November their candidate for President would be elected with two votes to spare.

Populous States Included.

States which the Republican national committee now claim as "unquestionably Republican," based on a combination of votes cast for governor, United States senator and members of the house of representatives, are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Oregon.

Classed as "Democratic but close to the border line," were Illinois and Montana. The remainder of the states were listed as Democratic, including Colorado where the Republicans elected a governor and California where the Republicans for house seats received 50.1 per cent of the vote cast.

Losers Get Heavy Votes.

The committee also pointed out that last November sixty-five Republican candidates for the house of representatives who were defeated received better than 45 per cent of the vote cast for that office. In the 1936 election sixty-six defeated Republican candidates for the house of representatives received better than 45 per cent of the vote cast. In 1938 Republicans were elected in forty-five of these congressional districts. With their present membership of 169 the Republicans need only forty-nine more seats to control the house of representatives.

The analysis showed that Republican candidates for the house of representatives made gains over 1936 in every state outside of the solid south, except in Maine, Maryland, and Oklahoma. In these three states the Democratic gain amounted to the margin of 3/10 of 1 per cent. The Republican gain over 1936 ran as high as 38.6 per cent in Wisconsin and averaged 7.1 per cent for the entire country.

Poll Majority of Votes.

Republican candidates for the house of representatives in 1936 received 43.6 per cent of the vote cast for that office in the thirty-eight states outside of the solid south, but last November the Republican candidates in that group of states received 50.7 per cent of the vote cast.

In the twenty-seven contests for governorships in states outside of the solid south, Republican candidates last November received 51.4 per cent of the vote cast, winning eighteen of the twenty-seven gubernatorial races. In twenty-seven states outside of the solid south where senators were elected last year, the Republican candidates polled 48.4 per cent of the vote cast, winning eleven of these races and securing better than 45 [but less than 50] per cent of the vote cast in five others.

Carry 1,135 Counties.

Taking the vote for members of the house of representatives as a basis, Republicans carried 1,135 counties as against 1,887 for the Democrats. Eliminating the ten states of the solid south, Republicans carried 1,123 counties as against 885 counties for the Democrats or 55.9 per cent of the counties. In 1936 Republican candidates for the house carried only 771 counties.

Republican gains in the various state legislatures more than kept pace with Republican gains in senatorial and congressional races. They gained control of the lower branch of the state legislature in fourteen states and continued Republican control in ten more. Thus Republicans now control the lower house in the legislatures in twenty-four out of forty-eight states.

FEEBLE-MINDED FILL MENARD; FEW ARE CURED

Most Criminals Returned to Society.

(This is another of a series of stories based on the observation of a reporter on Illinois penal institutions.)

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The southern penitentiary at Menard, Ill., in Randolph county is filled with feeble minded criminals. Some day most of them will be turned back into society. They are not insane. They are classified by the state diagnosticians as subnormal mentally.

A Menard product—Free tobacco for state prisoners.

Warden Joseph E. Montgomery presides over this prison. It is dropped in a natural valley in the hills of southwestern Illinois on the banks of the Mississippi. Montgomery is a man with positive ideas on the hopelessness of attempting to reform repeaters. He says most criminals are repeaters when they land in the penitentiary.

Maintains Strict Discipline.

He realizes that criminals should be treated as such and not pampered. However, under the system which has steadily brought about the coddling of criminals, he has had to fall in line. He maintains strict discipline over his charges, but only in a "humane way."

"I think we are working backwards," said Montgomery. "We should have at least one penitentiary in which to keep first offenders exclusively.

"The sentence for a first offender should be short so he does not become disgusted. But he should be put into a real prison where it is made so tough for him that he would not want to return. He should not be coddled. He should be given a real dose of prison life, even flogged within proper limitations, if necessary. If one trip to a penitentiary does not cure a criminal, then two or three will do him no good. One chance only should be given to reform."

Montgomery was an overseas sergeant of the 130th infantry of the 33d division. He is only 43 years old, but has a long record of law enforcement. He was chief deputy sherif of Jackson county and was drafted as chief of police of Carbondale to suppress the Birger and Shelton gangs when they ran wild in southern Illinois.

Army Life Harder.

"Under our system the discipline or work is not nearly so rigid for the convict as it was in the army for the soldiers," he said. "In the army you had to work. In our penal institutions we cannot work convicts too hard or force them, except by solitary confinement. They do not dread solitary.

"Some of the convicts purposely get themselves sent to solitary to get out of the work they have to do or to get a warm place in the winter months when they work outside. They know they cannot be physically punished."

The warden said that criminals from southern states do not go back south to commit crimes because they are really treated like criminals there.

"The warden of a penitentiary does more real work than its inmates," he continued. "He is tied down to his job without much time for recreation. In the olden times a warden's position was considered a gentleman's job with its principal duties being to entertain officialdom. With the walls bulging with criminals, a warden has a twenty-four hour a day responsibility."

Prison 60 Years Old.

Menard penitentiary, like the old prison at Joliet, has the appearance of a penitentiary. It was founded sixty years ago. It takes care of the criminals from fifty-four counties in the southern end of the state and those considered feeble-minded or insane. It has twenty acres within its walls, mostly natural enclosure from the high hills, and a farm of 1,650 acres lying among the hills.

Criminals are even thieves while in the penitentiary. The warden said he has to check his pigs in and out to prevent convict farm workers from selling the pigs to neighboring farmers. The farm employs 150 workers, who live in dormitories outside the walls.

The Menard institution is divided into two sections, the penitentiary and the psychiatric division housing the insane criminals. It has a population of 2,975 inmates, of which 2,223 are in the penitentiary section. Records show 37 per cent are repeaters, 24 per cent have one previous conviction, 8 per cent have two previous convictions, and 5 per cent have 3 to 5 previous convictions.

It costs the state $187 per year to support a convict in Menard. Most of the buildings are old, but they have been remodeled by Warden Montgomery. All except one cellhouse has been modernized. The modernization program made it more livable for the convicts. The cells are roomy and provide conveniences. The one old relic is to be remodeled soon.

Principal industries at Menard are a stone quarry, a tailor shop, knitting mills, and tobacco plant. The quarry furnishes stone for state roads. The tailor shop, soon to be moved to Stateville because the Menard type of prisoners is not considered qualified to turn out going away suits for the released convicts. The tobacco plant grinds out 5,000 pounds per week as the state's gift to its wards. This is only half the tobacco given away by the state. The remainder is bought.

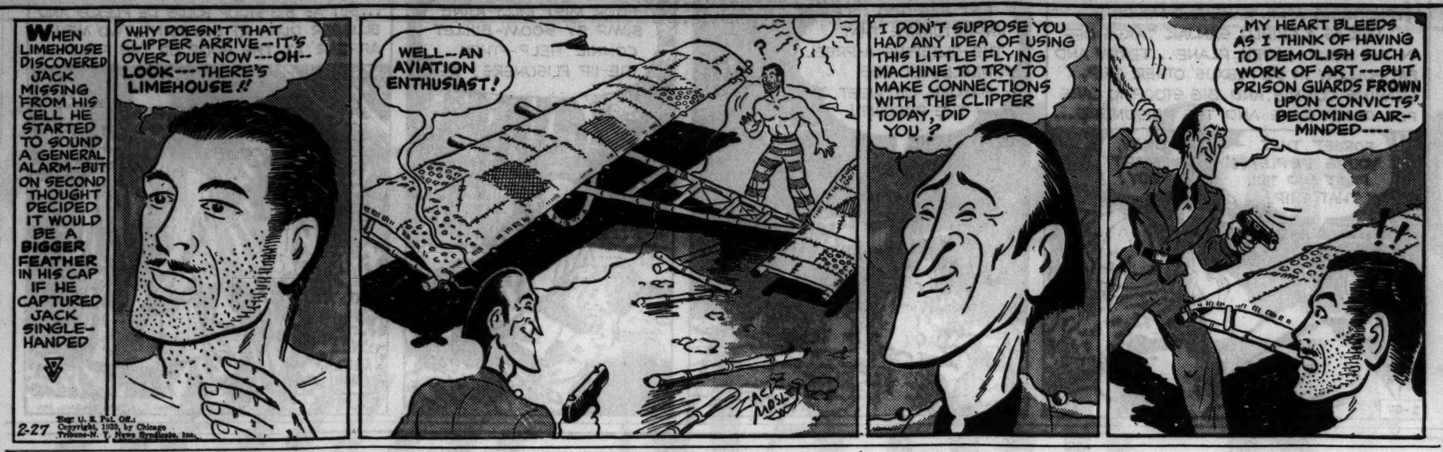
The psychiatric division has been modernized. It consists of two modern cell blocks, the prisoners in this division do not work, except to take care of themselves.

This division is equipped with all the latest scientific apparatus for the care and treatment of the insane. More than 1,200 treatments are given each month to keep the prisoners quiet. However, Warden Montgomery said few of the patients are ever termed "cured" by the prison alienists.

Gene Geary, who was snatched from the gallows twenty years ago by a last minute insanity plea, is among this group. He acts normal at times, but has hallucinations of a forthcoming trial. He is always ready to catch a train for Texas, Florida, or Maryland for his imaginary trial.

The prisoners in this division are kept in the outside yard as much as the weather permits. They kick a football, play softball, and those with enough intelligence make rugs and mats if they desire to work.

SMILIN' JACK—ABOUT TO BE GROUNDED



Wedding Announced

NANCY TORRES.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Nancy Torres, 24 years old, Mexican motion picture actress, and Frank Chester, Hollywood dress designer, were married in Tia Juana, Mexico, Thursday, it was reported today in film circles.

Known as the Carole Lombard of the Mexican cinema, Miss Torres is the daughter of a prominent Mexico City family. She and Chester have been acquainted for nine years, friends said. The bride and groom returned here after a brief honeymoon at Rosarito Beach, Mexico, and will spend a few days in Hollywood before Miss Torres returns to Mexico City to resume her film work.

SUBURBAN AREA SLOT MACHINES GO INTO HIDING

Downstate Drive by State Is Success.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy said yesterday that his drive to suppress the slot machine racket throughout the state appeared to be generally successful.

"There has been no letup in the campaign since we began it a month ago," said Cassidy. "I have not received any complaints of violations downstate, but I did receive some concerning slot machines in Cook county outside of Chicago last week. At my request, Walter Williams, chief of state police, made an investigation. I think most of the machines reported running last week are now closed."

TRIBUNE investigators, completing a state-wide tour, confirmed the attorney general's report. Slot machines in Cook county outside of Chicago were silent last night and Saturday night. But they were clinking with nickels, dimes, and quarters earlier in the week.

Ran Openly Up to Friday.

Up to and including Friday night there seemed to be no appreciable letup in slot machine play in Cook county. Nearly all taverns in the south end were operating them openly. Little attempt at concealment was made.

Twenty machines were doing a thriving business in No Man's Land—the section between Wilmette and Kenilworth—in Niles Center and Morton Grove. One Niles Center resort, a rendezvous for Northwestern university students, exhibited a machine that devoured five coins at one time.

Melrose Park disclosed nests of slot machines in various taverns. Taverns in River Grove and along River road operated the machines openly, in many cases close to bars.

The situation changed Friday night. The machines generally were covered except for two in Niles Center and a few others in widely separated saloons. South side machines were completely silent. Tavern keepers were asked the reason for the wide open play up to Friday night and the shutdown Saturday and yesterday.

Expect to Resume Soon.

"The word's out to close down," was the invariable answer. "The syndicate warned us the heat is on. But it's only temporary. We'll soon be going again."

Sherif Thomas J. O'Brien, who said he had given orders to clean out the slot machines, asked Chief Lester Laird of the county police for a report on the situation. Laird said yesterday that his men are doing their best.

"We've seized fifteen machines in the last week and 125 since the drive started," the chief said. "There may be a few operators cheating. We could stop them, too, if we had more men. Most of our men have to do highway patrol duty."

Investigators downstate found it as difficult to find a slot machine as it is to beat one.

Painstaking inquiries for an entire week in Lake, McHenry, Boone, Winnebago, Ogle, Lee, Bureau, La Salle, Woodford, Livingston, McLean, Peoria, Logan, Sangamon, Macon, Christian, Fayette, Marion, and St. Clair counties disclosed only one openly operated slot machine—and that in the back room of a tavern in East St. Louis.

Oppose Palestine Plan.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Jewish agency executive board decided today to recommend rejection of a British proposal for a Palestine state which, it was understood, provided for a "safeguarded" permanent Jewish minority.

At the same time the Jewish delegation to the deadlocked Holy Land peace conference agreed to boycott a British official dinner scheduled for tomorrow by Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald.

The final decision on the Palestine plan rests with the conference committee of Zionists and non-Zionists which advises the delegation. The committee will meet tomorrow to debate the plan. Britain's plan, in effect, involves the abandonment of the Jewish national home and an end to the British mandate in Palestine.

ARGENTINA BARS 68 JEWISH EXILES ON ITALIAN LINER

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Sixty-eight Jewish refugees from Europe were held virtually incommunicado aboard the Italian liner Conte Grande today. Maritime police were thrown about the ship as soon as her gangplank was lowered today.

The refugees arrived here from Montevideo, where Uruguayan officials yesterday refused to let them land. Uruguayan officials contended the visas of the refugees were irregular.

Jewish Leaders Pessimistic.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Jewish leaders in Berlin, pressed for quicker results in getting the capital's thousands of Jews out of Germany, tonight faced with faint hope the opening of the new "100 a day" emigration program.

CHICAGO WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH IN SOUTH

Mrs. Paul R. Klink, 2710 Greenleaf avenue, was killed and her husband and daughter were injured yesterday when their automobile skidded on a wet pavement and plunged into a ditch nine miles south of Valdosta, Ga. Dispatches from Valdosta said that they were on a vacation trip to Miami, Fla. Klink, who is 50 years old, and the daughter, Francine, 11, were taken to a hospital. Their condition was reported to be satisfactory last night.

An unidentified man who was struck by a hit and run automobile in front of 415 North Ashland avenue early Saturday died of his injuries in the County hospital last night. He was about 45 years old. Cards in his pockets bore the names Dan Morgan and George Sullivan.

Bogusz lives at 1708 Superior street. He told police he had borrowed the car from a friend whose name he did not know. The automobile had no license plates. Two men who were with Bogusz also were taken into custody. They were Walter Wanst, 939 Willard court, and Walter Glab, 816 North May street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 128 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 104 were killed in Chicago, where 2,827 were injured in the same period.

SERVITORS UNSEEN

By CALEB

DOWN we elevatored . . . fifteen stories in all—arriving in a region the public eye never sees, three floors below street level. And during the next half-hour I harvested a new concept of what it means to "maintain" a huge modern merchandise establishment's smooth, sequential service to many thousands of customers. . . .

On the corridor-wall as we enter, hang the framed licenses of a score of engineers. On our right are offices of the chief engineer and his staff; at our left we discover a great roomful of drills, presses, lathes and other power equipment, where mechanics are busy rebuilding trucks, reconditioning baking machinery, overhauling gauges, restoring gadgets innumerable. Tools are arrayed over benches; long aisles of bins and racks house supplies and replacement parts—here in active operation is a complete shop.

Another huge room—and we are amid the "steam headers": giant steel cylinders that supply heat to fifty acres of store area; and on brass plates under each of the master wheels one reads such legends as First Floor So. Wabash, and realizes that each is the passport to comfort in the enormous structure overhead. The titan rhythm of an automatic Worthington air-compressor echoes nearby, mingled with the hum of turbines in constant motion; a complex panel studded with glass knobs announces with three winking lights that engineers are busy on as many sprinkler-system mains; then the white-overalled, gray-haired engineer in charge takes us over to a group of electric dials, turns a tiny knob, and lo! we read the exact temperatures on every floor at that particular moment.

Next we pay our respects to the huge power-plant, where a battery of 550-h. p. boilers roars salute; and fascinatedly watch the continuous chain-grate which carries automatically-fed coal at the rate of thirteen feet in two-and-a-half hours across blinding gardens of flame in the fire box. Another engineer obligingly opens a furnace door, and through an oblong of blue glass mounted on a metal handle, we gaze inside. The azure medium we look through changes the vast expanse of fire to fluffy white sheets, like a cloud-range viewed from a plane window—but the blasting heat is that of Tophet itself! . . .

Here, far belowground, an army of technicians and specialists under the banner of Maintenance assures the continuing comfort, safety, convenience and business welfare of thousands of salespeople and hundreds of thousands of customers. Thanks to these invisible servitors, all is well . . . or, if aught goes wrong, will be speedily corrected.

DIPLOMATS TOUR SCENE OF SECRET PAPAL CONCLAVE

Alfonso Among Visitors; Chapel Nearly Ready.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain today visited the "city within a city" where the college of cardinals will assemble Wednesday to elect a new pope.

Former King Alfonso.

Alfonso, who as sovereign of Spain had the papal title "most Catholic majesty," expressed deep interest in preparations for the secret conclave. Workmen preparing for it observed a day of rest, but had advanced the work so far that all construction should be completed tomorrow.

After the former king's visit almost the entire roster of diplomats accredited to the holy see made a similar tour on invitation of the commission of cardinals now ruling the Vatican.

Shavings Replace Straw.

Among the objects visitors saw in the Sistine chapel, scene of the balloting, was a silver chest of wood shavings and a silver bucket of water, already placed beside the stove in which the ballots will be burned.

After each vote in which no cardinal has received the necessary two-thirds majority, some moistened shavings will be burned with the ballots to send black smoke up the famous chimney. When the new pope is elected, the ballots will be burned without the wood shavings to produce the white smoke signal.

Use of the wood shavings instead of straw as in previous conclaves marks a minor departure from the seven centuries of tradition in which the conclave is rooted.

Costumes on Display.

Thousands of sabbath strollers filed past a shop window near the Pantheon where three sets of apparel and the fisherman's ring for the new pope were on display. In keeping with tradition the costumes were made in small, medium, and large sizes so that one will be available immediately for whoever is chosen pope.

The medical staf which nursed Pope Pius in his long illness and which was with him at his death will play a part in the election of his successor. The college of cardinals named the late pontiff's physician, Dr. Aminta Milani, as one of the two physicians for the conclave.

BUTTONLESS COPS TRY TO SEW UP A BUTTON FANCIER

Jefferson Park policemen thumbed the statute books yesterday seeking the proper charge on which to book Charles W. Matheson, 37 years old, of 6410 Olympia avenue. Matheson was seized Saturday after he tried to snatch the buttons off the uniforms of several policemen.

Should they book him for petty larceny? They agreed it was no petty matter. How about grand larceny? The buttons weren't worth enough for that.

The policemen finally decided to charge Matheson with resisting arrest and assaulting a policeman. He will be arraigned in Shakespeare avenue court today.

A CHECK WRITER ADMITS LIQUOR GOES TO HIS PEN

William H. Singley's troubles start when he drinks. He admitted this yesterday to Policemen George Curleton, William Runge and Rudolph Mueller of the Shakespeare avenue station. They had arrested him on the complaint of several tavern owners whom he had allegedly defrauded. Police said Singley passed a dozen bad checks for amounts from $15 to $31. He is 41 years old, a salesman, and lives at 2463 Fullerton avenue. Police said he has served three Bridewell sentences for his check operations.

2 Boys Steal Cab and Drink Toast to Prank—Too Soon

Gene Clyne, 27 years old, and Charles A. Parks Jr., 25, were held by Niles Center police yesterday in default of $5,000 bond on an auto theft charge. James King, a cab driver, said he drove them from Evanston to a tavern in Church street, west of McCormick road. While King himself was in the tavern, they drove the cab to the nearby 3500 club, and went inside to drink a toast to their prank.

WALL OF CANYON COLLAPSES; KILLS 3 ON GOLD CLAIM

Big Bar, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Collapse of a Trinity river canyon wall near here killed three men, but their two partners in a hydraulic mining claim said today the search for gold would continue. The five had labored on the claim for three months, netting only $7.60 worth of gold.

Four of the men were moving some boulders late yesterday when a 40 foot section of the wall gave way, burying three of them under 150 tons of earth and almost catching the fourth, Wilson Caldwell. He limped to the hydraulic jet, turned the powerful stream of water on the pile of earth, and called for help.

Eighteen CCC boys came to his aid and they took out the bodies of Ben Dahlgren of Eureka, C. H. Barnhart of Redding, and Fritz Kriegbaum of Little Rock, Ark.

DREAMS OF BEING POLICEMAN; NABS FLEEING BURGLAR

Thomas Deere, a private watchman, was patroling his beat in Austin early yesterday. He was dreaming of the day when he would become a regular city policeman. His name had been posted on the last civil service list of eligibles.

Deere heard the sound of breaking glass. He saw a man flee from a bakery at 3321 West North avenue and started in pursuit, firing his revolver as a warning.

In an areaway nearby Deere caught his prisoner, who said he is Charles Majhowski, 18 years old, 3016 West North avenue. In one pocket was $7.60 which had been in the bakery till.

A PANICKY CREW.

Mr. Harry Hopkins, the secretary of commerce, opened his campaign for the presidency at Des Moines the other night. The platitudes flowed freely. Mr. Hopkins presented himself as a man persuaded that initiative and enterprise must be encouraged. The conception of government as a bone crusher distresses him. He couldn't bring himself to crush a cornflake. He believes in orthodox principles of economics and government, than which, etc. He looks to the free coöperation of big business, little business, labor, the farmers, and the government to solve all our economic difficulties.

On previous occasions the country has heard a good deal of this kind of talk from eminent New Dealers and lately it has come thick and fast. Mr. Hopkins carried on where Mr. Eccles and Mr. Morgenthau left off a few days before. The strategy is all too familiar. The administration by its acts makes business success impossible and by its words seeks to bamboozle the people into paying no attention to the acts. If the strategy succeeds the people will conclude that business men, not the administration, must be blamed for the continuance of the depression. As business has failed the government must step in; and so another step in the march toward communism finds its justification.

No doubt this design was in the minds of Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Morgenthau, and Mr. Eccles when they made their recent pronouncements, but a new note can also be detected, a note of alarm and confusion. The speakers were obviously trying to say things which industry would find pleasant but they seemed at a loss for the customary plausible suggestions of what they intend to do to bring about a prompt recovery.

What they are doing in contrast to what they are saying is all too apparent. Mr. Eccles, Mr. Morgenthau, and the other spenders are raising the national debt steadily toward the point where the choice between confiscation by direct seizure and confiscation by inflation must be made. Mr. Morgenthau pleads for an increase to 50 billion dollars in the debt limit. Mr. Eccles and Mr. Hopkins repeat the incantation about an 80 billion dollar national income to charm away the depression. Meanwhile various and sundry communists and Democrats are bawling for war.

It begins to look as if the men on the bridge are beginning to recognize the ghastly failure of the New Deal. The ship is going down. The opposition is gaining strength from day to day. There are evidences of panic among the New Dealers, as might be expected in the circumstances. The motto is every man for himself. Each of them is trying to make a record by which to dodge his share of the responsibility for the catastrophe.

THE CITY MANAGER BILL.

The advocates of city manager government are once more requesting the legislature at Springfield to pass a law which would permit cities to adopt the plan by referendum.

This bill should pass. It does not impose the plan upon cities, but merely permits them to try it if their citizens, by majority vote, favor the change. No American city as big as Chicago has adopted the plan and the experience of the larger cities which have undertaken the experiment is by no means conclusive as to its merits. The plan seems to have worked well in Cincinnati, but the high expectations of the good people of Cleveland and Kansas City were disappointed. Probably the explanation of these conflicting results lies in the circumstance that in Cincinnati the citizens who prefer honest and competent government have been organized politically, precinct by precinct, for the election of members of the city council, while in the other cities mentioned no such organization was effected and accordingly the manager plan left things pretty much where they had always been.

At any rate there is nothing inherent in the manager plan which condemns it. If the people of Chicago or any other Illinois city want their municipality to be administered by a manager, chosen and removable by a small council, the people should be allowed to have their way.

TROUBLE AT THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

The students involved in the affair at Champaign have been dismissed from the university. The authorities resorted to the conventional discipline approved for breaches which could not be condoned. It can and will be said in defense of this action that it was unavoidable even if unfortunate and even if unfair. Yet the responsibility for the tragic episode was not wholly upon the young men. They were the victims not only of a wayward impulse which need not be regarded as exceptional but of circumstances which made the worst of it.

It does not contribute anything to the peace of mind of the mature persons responsible for the conditions in the university and the university town that the most persistent protests against the small town vices have come from the student body. The young people objected to the toleration they were unable to overcome. It can't be said that the university organization was exceptionally militant against the complaisant town officials. There must have been a good deal of throwing up of hands.

The students were probably better aware of what might happen if the community allowed the small town variations of big city social evils to exist under arrangement with local authorities and if the university could not stop it. The school is the biggest asset the locality has. Its word if backed by the state government should have been final. One may be quite certain that the people of the state expected a better administration in a university town than in a place which assumed no unusual responsibility.

In view of everything involved in the affair it might have been fairer to the dismissed students if that record against them had been avoided by a request to their parents that they be withdrawn.

ONE RAILROAD DID IT.

It makes a whole lot of difference to Chicago if the railroads are prosperous. As the country's railroad center, Chicago is naturally the country's principal railroad supply center. When the lines are operating in the black there are orders for rails, cars, and other equipment and supplies, and jobs for thousands who look to this industry for their regular livelihood. When the roads are in the red they economize, and this city feels it.

And so THE TRIBUNE has believed that it could further the interests of the community in no better way during the long depression than by urging measures which would help the carriers to prosper. Our readers are familiar with our efforts to get back for the roads the trafic which has been taken away from them through the connivance of Washington with the shipping companies operating through the Panama canal. The authorization of lower rates for trainloads, and the reduction of operation costs through the purchase of modern equipment were also proposed for the same purpose.

Something over two years ago we began to urge upon the railroads a step which would improve their management. The move proposed was that management be brought to the point of operations. Lines whose tracks did not come within a thousand miles of New York were being managed from offices in the Wall street neighborhood. Railroads which depended for business largely on what they carried into and out of Chicago were controled by boards of men associated with the civic, social, and commercial life of Manhattan, but with no direct contact with Chicago business. They did not even allow themselves the contacts they might make by holding the monthly directors' meeting here. One railroad alone has done something about it, and the results already obtained in one year are greater than even we thought possible.

Previous to last year the Illinois Central railroad maintained its executive offices in New York. The say-so on any important matter was in New York, though this railroad was as much a Chicago enterprise as the packers, the Crane company, the mail order houses, or International Harvester. The members of the board included some of New York's best known names—Astor and Vanderbilt, and such. Last year the road closed its office in New York and announced that all the business was going to be done in Chicago. Some of the New Yorkers retired from the board, and representative business men in the territory served by the road took their places. The practice of holding directors' meetings down east was also discontinued.

And now let us see what happened. To make the comparison fair, we'll express the results in terms of net operating income, which is all the money taken in from running the business minus the cost of operating it. The net operating income of all railroads of the country in 1938 was 36.8 per cent less than in 1937, and 44.1 per cent less than in 1936. But the Illinois Central had net operating income in 1938 greater than in 1937 [leaving out of account a special credit from railway retirement fund taxes for 1937], and was only 1.1 per cent less than in 1936. The net from operations for all the roads in 1938 was 21.4 per cent less than in 1933. For the Illinois Central the net was 0.1 per cent less than in 1933. There are few, if any, lines which did as well in 1938 as the Illinois Central did when the management was put in the hands of the people on the ground, acquainted with its problems.

There are still many lines with impressive panels of New York directors, with New York bank control, and with the executive offices down east. The repeal of the long and short haul legislation may help them. A sustained business revival will enable them to make a better showing. But it is possible the railroad problem partly results from defects of management. The experience of the Illinois Central last year suggests that absentee management and absentee control are among the reasons why railroads are in the dog house.

Editorial of the Day

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The high technology of agriculture continues to hound the steps of Secretary Wallace. As fast as he is able to pay and otherwise persuade farmers to reduce their acreage of certain crops changes appear which make it possible for them to grow about as much on their lower acreage as they formerly did on the whole farm.

First it was the cotton growers. They avidly accepted government checks to reduce their acreage and then, by intensive cultivation and fertilization, raised their production per acre. Then the corn farmers found that increased yields from the new hybrid corn largely made up for the acreage the AAA paid them to retire from cultivation. Now Mr. Wallace's policy of not letting his left hand know what his right is doing is giving him trouble in the wheat belt.

From Langdon, S. D., comes news that the government subsidized experiment station has developed a new, high yielding, rust resistant wheat which increases the harvest per acre by a little more than three bushels. So, to keep the wheat crop down, Mr. Wallace will have to find more funds for the government to rent more land to keep this new variety of wheat from causing more wheat to be produced than his statisticians think should be grown.

As long as the administration is following an economy of scarcity in agriculture it would seem to be the part of wisdom to close the experiment stations and try to make the farmer forget what he has been taught about increasing his per acre production. This, of course, would be highly uneconomic, but is this not true of the farm program as a whole?

Our surplus farm population undoubtedly would be happier engaged in uneconomic farming than in uneconomic leaf raking and ditch digging on the WPA, or dispossessed in refugee camps along the highways.

A TRUE TEST.

It was told of a sage that one day, after the fashion of his school, he was questioned: "Master, what is the test of good manners?"

"It is being able to put up pleasantly with bad ones," was the quick reply.—Exchange.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW.

We are in favor of a law that will compel waiters in taverns, club lounges, cabarets, and restaurants to place large, legible signs upon each table, indicating the number and character of drinks that have been served to its occupants. These signs should read as follows: "One Round, Cocktails;" "Two Rounds, Highballs;" "Three Rounds, General Hard Stuff," etc.

* * *

First of all, these emblems will enable the occupants of the table to keep track of their condition, physical and mental; but that is not what we are aiming at. Secondly, and more importantly, the signs will serve as trafic signals, so to speak, for newcomers—warnings similar to "Winding Road" and "Railroad Crossing." One could tell the head waiter, "Keep us away from all Four Rounders," and thus escape one of life's minor nuisances.

Stretcher-bearers and the first aid corps among the help could take strategic positions near Nine Round tables, and thus would lose no time when the victims began to fall. An invitation to join a party of acquaintances which was showing a "Five Round, Hard" flag could be tactfully avoided.

* * *

We recently stepped into a group which was at least a Six Rounder although the night was young, and immediately regretted that we had not been warned. These friendly cusses looked normal, at first glance, and no doubt could talk normally, because they are gentlemen of capacity, but no one would listen to any one else.

Before four words of a sentence had been spoken it was interrupted by an irrelevancy, which was swept aside with equal speed and irrelevance; and this formless gabble went on like machine gun fire until we felt that we were in Bedlam. We managed to escape after ten minutes of mad verbigeration, but our nerves, somewhat tattered by the flu, are still shuddering.

SONNET TO A BROKEN LEG.

And thus absolved from duty's endless chore
I'll do the things I've always wished to do
But never had the time to do before.
I'll rest at ease, with plaster cast displayed
To prove my idleness is bona fide;
And with my every little whim obeyed
I'll pen poor verse, and sympathy deride!
I'll read the books long loved and long unread,
And write my friends, the way I've always meant;
But more than all, just once before I'm dead,
I'll have the time to think, and well content
I'll praise the Lord—if such thanks be allowed
By Him who silver lines each troubled cloud.

British Museum of Names—The End.

The Britisher shortcuts every word that will endure abbreviation or amputation—Herts for Hertfordshire, Lincs for Lincolnshire, for example, and I know that you've suffered in your innards when hearing an English actor bear down hard upon "medsn" when he meant bolus or nostrum. But the true museum pieces in their linguistic collection are made of their inability to speak the languages of any of the Latin peoples. I have encountered some honeys:

Rotten Row—La Route de Roi; sometimes Le Rue de Roi.

Shotover Hill—Château Vert.

Boston—St. Botolph built a monastery in Lincs in 654 A. D. The surrounding settlement became Botolph's Town, which in time degenerated into Boston.

Billycock Hat—Bully's cocked hat.

Tibbals—Theobald's Park.

Oombree—Properly Almondberry.

'Kyou [cue]—Thank you! This is well nigh universal in England.

O. L. [Doc] Hall.

KETTERMAN'S HIRED MAN.

This morning Mr. Ketterman said, "Ben,
Come with me to the upper field." We walked
Along the hill road to the upper ten.
He scooped some earth up in his hand, and talked
About the work we had to do outside;
He squeezed the soil, then crumbled it, and said,
"'Most dry enough to plow." At that I tried
To say—and failed—how thirty years I'd fed
His stock, and milked his cows, and plowed his land;
But, 'count of age and soreness in my knees,
I 'lowed to have him get another hand.
Odd Fellows have a home down at McKees,
Be fine for me—but, pshaw—how can I go,
With Ketterman dependin' on me so?

Tom Chekouras.

The Fillilloo Bird Writes History.

To all authorities on European affairs now holding forth at length in the press and on the rostrum, England is one of the "great democratic powers." But listen to this excerpt from Thomas Keightley's "History of England," published in 1839:

"The British constitution is not immortal, and democracy, the enemy by which it is eventually to be overthrown, is already making its advances. Yet the natural good sense of the English people, the proof given by America that democracy is despotism, the influence of well directed education, the writings of men of talent and virtue, and other causes, may, under heaven, long avail to keep off the evil."

On the Trail of the "Devil's Verse."

Perhaps Mr. Ebersold's "Devil's Verse" [2-22-'39] is the palindrome which is usually referred to as "The Devil's Definition of Hell":

In gyrum imus nocte et consumimur igni. [At night we go about in a circle and are consumed by fire.]

YES! YOU ARE DELICATE.

WE HAVE all observed the extraordinary sense of equilibrium which certain animals possess. If one drops a pet cat—regardless of its original position—the feline will alight on all fours. While we mortals are not provided with this turnover instinct, nevertheless to a very large extent the power of readjustment is inherent in human beings. True enough, it will not be maintained forever, and disease—as a destructive force—finally overcomes life. But when we think of the fragile materials of which most of our organs are constructed we marvel not only at their ability to function but at their length of days.

The eye, for example, capable of interpreting to the brain the panorama of nature, is composed of but little more than a teaspoonful of specialized albumin. It is far more delicate than a piece of Ming china. The nervous system, too, is so highly organized that it is superior to the most intricate electrical instrument. It can produce in a muscle an effect 200,000 times as great as the energy utilized in sending the message.

A minimal fraction of a grain of some element manufactured by one of the ductless glands can change the character, the thoughts, the behavior of a man or woman within a brief period. Cut off the blood supply to the pituitary, the parathyroids, and the adrenals and we will have a very different person. These tiny structures—governors of our destinies—do not secrete a thousandth part as much as the glands which supply saliva, and yet their products are so powerful as to be able to upset completely all of our bodily attributes.

As time goes on, with more knowledge of the rules of hygiene, we may anticipate that an increasing number of individuals will live even beyond the present life expectancy at birth of 61 years. In fact, it has been estimated that within the next half century more than 20 per cent of our living population will attain or exceed this age. If these figures work out—and they should in the absence of unforeseen epidemics — science will have to give more and more attention to the maladies which are now taking so heavy a toll in the fifth and sixth decades of life—the so-called degenerative diseases.

No one can last longer than his blood vessels, and a strenuous program inflicting extra wear and tear on these channels may prove to be a deterring factor. In other words, there is less chance for adjustment when these ducts become narrowed and rigid. As is well known, with advancing years pressure within the arterial system rises. All of which explains the incidence of apoplexy — a type of accident which may come on suddenly.

Means should be found of preserving the elasticity—the ability to stretch—of the blood carrying tubes. As it is today, at 70 they are less than one-third as competent as they were at the age of 5. In those who are elderly not only will the pumping organ beat less rapidly but less powerfully. This accounts for the common complaint of cold feet, deficient nutrition to the skin, lessened alertness of the muscles and mind, and sluggish elimination. There can be no contradiction of the fact that, if men and women could reduce the overload of labor—the punishment to which our systems are subjected—to exactly the level which can be performed without excessive fatigue, we would have less kidney disease, fewer cases of heart failure, and less nervous exhaustion.

But some one may ask, "How in the name of time can any of us survive?" The answer is that insults to the tissues may be repaired again and again, although some slight residue of damage may remain. We have all seen evidences of healing—even of bones—in those who are in their nineties, and the tendency of all cells is toward rebuilding; but we cannot regard those of the liver as made up of a platinum iridium alloy.

Because of the sensitive nature of our makeup it behooves none of us to demand the impossible of performance. This does not signify that we should encase ourselves in wool as we would protect a thin glass vase. It does imply, however, an understanding of the fact that no part of the human frame is indestructible, which may teach us to safeguard our organs a bit more carefully.

NOT INHERITED.

S. L. writes: A boy 14 years old contracted scarlet fever. His mother had the disease twenty years ago and his father claims that the son inherited the germ from his mother. Is this possible?

REPLY.

Scarlet fever is not inherited. The bacteria responsible for the mother's infection succumbed long ago.

LACKS GASTRIC ACID.

Mrs. G. writes: My son has frequent watery evacuations because of an inadequate supply of gastric acid. How can this acid be employed?

REPLY.

There is no way in which the supply can be increased by diet. It must be taken by mouth. This is easy to do and your physician can advise as to the proper dose.

CATARACT.

I. A. writes: Once cataracts are removed can they grow back?

REPLY.

No. During the operation the lens—which is the site of the cataract—is removed.

NO ONE KNOWS.

R. Y. writes: What causes ductless gland disturbances?

REPLY.

The same cause that produces outlaws in an orderly community. Really, no one knows.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON—A collapse in the financial and economic structure of the government of India if the present policy of expanding domestic production of manufactured goods is continued is predicted by Sir Thomas Ainscough, British senior trade commissioner in India, Burma, and Ceylon.

This grim forecast is made in a review of British trade with India. The review was issued by the department of overseas trade in London. It reflects growing uneasiness in commercial circles at the steady shrinkage in Britain's valuable Indian markets.

An extension of domestic production by India's industrialists cannot, Ainscough argues, be carried out simultaneously with the maintenance of a considerable excess export of agricultural produce on which the whole economy of the country depends.

He contends a serious clash of interests will develop with the agricultural element, which provides 70 per cent of the population. Furthermore, he maintains, it is bound to bring a crisis in the finances of the government, which depends on custom receipts for 60 per cent of its revenue. An excess of exports, he says, is necessary to meet India's financial obligations in London.

Meanwhile, the review states, many new industrial enterprises continue to be started in India. As an instance of the mounting industrial production of the country the review points out that while cotton mills of America, Britain, and Europe generally worked at a fraction of capacity last year, Indian mills increased their output by more than 500,000,000 yards.

Apart from the tendency toward self-sufficiency in India, commercial interests here are alarmed at the way Germany is crashing into the Indian market with subsidized goods and cutting out British traders.

"Export bounties received by German exporters enable them to quote much lower figures than any competitors," Ainscough reports.

"German firms are able to secure numerous government and private contracts at prices with which others find it impossible to compete, and which seem to bear little relation to the true cost of production.

"German industrial machinery of all kinds has made considerable inroads into this market. The number of German cars entering India has risen from 335 in 1935-'36 to 2,097 in 1937-'38, at prices which must be below cost of production."

Germany has increased her sales to India by 25 per cent while buying only five per cent of what India sells.

On the other hand, British sales in India have dropped by 3 per cent.

Ainscough advises British manufacturers to study the Indian market by going to India to see for themselves how trade can be expanded. There is still money to be made in India, he says, but it will be more difficult to make in the future because India is rapidly becoming self-sufficient in many branches of industry.

GARNISHMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If I have a judgment for a small or large amount and the defendant has no property but is employed, can I garnishee his wages, and how much may I take of his salary?

2. If the defendant pays part of it and I have to garnishee will I have to serve notice to the defendant and also his employer?

3. May same be delivered by mail or personally?

4. If the defendant refuses to pay any more and I have to garnishee, what must I do next?

5. Would this balance have to go to court again for regular prosecution?

6. Can the defendant, with the help of a lawyer, fight it down and reduce some of the bill?

7. How much is the defendant entitled to for living?

8. Will I have to engage a lawyer for same or can I do it myself?

9. When a lawyer assumes a case and is promising to prosecute a case, will say for $25, the case is once set aside by the other lawyer and my lawyer has to go for another hearing, can he charge more, and how much?

10. Can a lawyer charge extra for collecting when told to take the case for collecting?

11. If the amount is not correct and it is more than $1 too much, can I demand a statement showing the amount of the judgment with costs and his charges and a receipt for what I paid?

C. H. K.

1. His exemption is $20 per week if he is the head of a family, otherwise there is no exemption.
2. Yes.
3. We advise personal service.
4. As you state it, your next move is to garnishee.

6. Depends on his grounds.
7. See 1.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LOST WILL.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Where, besides Chicago Probate court, are wills recorded? The copy is gone from there.

2. Were they always recorded, even twenty-two years ago? There was property involved.

3. If there is any place to get it, how and who should I write to? K. G.

1. There is no other place than the Probate court where we would expect to find a will. It is not clear to us whether what has been lost is the original will. You say a copy. We suggest that you ask one of the deputy clerks whether either the original or a copy is available.
2. There never has been a regular procedure of recording wills in the recorder's office, if that is what you mean to ask.
3. See 1.

LIMITATION PERIOD.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please tell me how long I must hold a paid bill so that I will not have to pay it again. A. S.

The Illinois limitation period on oral agreements is five years and on written agreements ten years, but these periods are not conclusive for your question. Special facts might extend the limitation period and, in many cases, it is reasonably safe to destroy receipts before the limitation period in view of subsequent dealings between the parties, the reliableness of the party with whom you are dealing, smallness of the debt, or other facts giving you reassurance that no new claim is likely to be made.

SCAPEGOATS.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Five very young men have been expelled from the University of Illinois because they brought discredit and unfavorable publicity to the university by availing themselves, or, rather, attempting to avail themselves, of the disreputable accommodations which the university has allowed to flourish unmolested.

Certainly the university authorities have not been in complete ignorance of the situation; certainly these boys have not been the only ones to take advantage of the existing situation, but their crime was that they were unfortunate enough to get caught.

These boys are in the stage of impulsiveness, curiosity, and egomania which characterizes the young college freshman or sophomore. The university has done more than its share toward curtailing their careers and ruining their lives by expelling them [and probably eliminating the possibility of their entry into any other school of higher learning] for a crime for which the university and city officials are indirectly responsible through their apparent inability to remove temptation from the paths of these young men.

It would be wise for the learned gentlemen of the university to remember that we do not check a typhoid epidemic by killing off those individuals who have contracted the disease; we check the spread of infection by getting rid of the polluted source.

ARTHUR M. WEISS, M. D.

THEY DIDN'T GET IN.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Why all the fuss down at the University of Illinois? After all, the alleged house of ill fame refused admittance to those students. If those eggs had been admitted and then one of them had been shot there would be some grounds on which to raise a rumpus. But suppose they had tried to break into a more or less respectable household at 1:30 a. m. by shying a beer bottle through the window, you would have risen in righteous indignation and defended a man's house as his castle. Why not give the woman a break and support her for defending her property at such an ungodly hour and give her credit for trying to close at a decent hour? S. M. A.

THE CHOICE.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—"No ordinary misfortune or misgovernment will do so much to make a nation wretched as the constant progress of physical knowledge and the constant effort of every man to better himself will do to make a nation prosperous."

Thomas B. Macaulay wrote that several decades ago, but he didn't foresee such a phenomenon as a nation's leader seemingly bent on discouraging that spirit of enterprise which inspires men to better themselves, and thus prolonging conditions which doom millions of men and women to humiliating dependence. It is significant that when such a leader departs on a fishing excursion his parting speech, so far from inspiring hope, has the effect of a mild crash on a jittery stock market.

ROWDIES IN THE BALCONY.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Last night my wife and I attended "Seeing Chicago" at the Senn High school, but because of the rowdyism of the student body that occupied the balcony it was impossible to hear one bit of what the talk was about.

No matter what party we may belong to we should be allowed to enjoy some of the things we have to pay for without having a lot of showoff, misbehaved young people spoil it for us.

DISGUSTED.

THE STREET FIGHT.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—A contributor writes: "The average pedestrian walks as if he owned the street. The average driver drives as if he owned his car."

The pedestrian does that only once [see death notices]. The average driver drives as if HE owned the street. If he owned the car he would be more careful.

THE KING'S VISIT.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 22.—I do not think your correspondent who writes under the name of Taffy in your issue of Feb. 19 is quite justified in his resentment at Sir Ronald Lindsay's request for sureties of good behavior on the occasion of the king's visit to our shores. I imagine Sir Ronald had in mind organized acts of hoodlumism by radicals, Irish organizations, "workers," "student unions," etc. Taffy must have left England many years ago if he thinks he would be criticized, let alone imprisoned, for good natured and inoffensive hollering at the king. Today, when it is so important our country and Britain should be as close to each other as any two independent nations can be, it is to be hoped the welcome to the king will be both hearty and dignified. Our reverence for his office and person may not be "innate," but it is, nevertheless, very sincere.

J. D. HARPER.

GERMANY'S COLONIES.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—I do not think it was right for the allies to deprive Germany of her colonies at the close of the world war. No country as large or overpopulated as Germany can exist without colonies. The United States, France, England, and Japan all have resourceful colonies that they would fight to defend. The proposed fortification of Guam by the United States shows this fact. Germany needs the products of colonies to supply the needs of its 65,300,000 inhabitants. The former German colonies are quite important commercially. Those in Africa were large and productive, especially German Southwest Africa. The colonies in the Pacific are strategically located. For the good of the German people their colonies should be returned.

GERALD DELVES.

THE VOTE MARKET.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Political candidates and their supporters have been coming around to the hotel where I am residing and, after making a speech handing out the usual hogwash extoling the merits of themselves or their candidates, the haranguers have passed among the crowd in the lobby and offered inducements which ranged from a nip out of a bottle to a dime to two bits.

It seems that in days gone by the prevailing price was a buck, but I suppose owing to the current condition of unemployment the price has shrunk.

Racketeer labor unions are missing a bet in not organizing the denizens of the near west side so that candidates for political office will not be able to cut under each other.

ELECTION SIGNS.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Out my way in Portage Park and also in other parts of town I get to I have noticed that political signs on poles are conspicuous by their absence. It seems that THE TRIBUNE crusade has borne fruit.

JAPS OPEN DRIVE ON CHINESE FORT ATOP MOUNTAIN

55 Foreigners Periled by Heavy Shells.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Japanese launched their long deferred campaign today against Lushan on whose peak 55 foreigners, including 12 Americans, remained despite repeated warnings by the invaders to leave.

Arrow shows where Americans are periled.

An artillery bombardment was laid down and infantry attacks were directed against Chinese positions on the mountain side, below Kuling, resort town where the foreigners were located.

Turn Back Japs.

Chinese reported two Japanese attacks were turned back, at picturesque Blue Cloud convent and at Changkaishan, southwest of Kuling.

Meanwhile 39 other foreigners, who were among a group of 48 which took advantage of safe conduct through the opposing lines, were en route to Shanghai aboard a Japanese transport.

Elsewhere on the Central China front Japanese guns boomed again after a long silence. At Kingshan, 100 miles northwest of Hankow, a Japanese column reported Chinese were dislodged from entrenchments in the hills twelve miles southeast of the town.

Another column thrusting to the west announced the occupation of Tienmen after a twelve mile advance, again threatening Ichang and Shashi, 190 miles west and 120 miles southwest of Hankow.

Japs Take Shansi Town.

Renewing their drive eastward on the Tatung-Puchow railway in South Shansi province, Japanese reported the capture of Fowshan, twenty miles east of Lifen. Chinese acknowledged the loss of Fowshan, but said they beat off another Japanese column attempting to advance east of Hungtung.

The Chinese also admitted the invaders had occupied Siaohsien, seventeen miles southwest of Hsuchow in Honan province. Heavy casualties were said to have been inflicted on guerrilla forces which held the town temporarily after ejecting the Japanese garrison.

ONEIDA INDIANS LEARN TO WRITE OWN LANGUAGE

Green Bay, Wis., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Prof. Morris Swadesh of the University of Wisconsin is creating an alphabet for the Oneida Indians as a WPA project. After the nation acquires a written language he is going to teach them to write it.

With the aid of Floyd G. Lounsbury, a University of Wisconsin graduate, Prof. Swadesh is translating phonetically on paper the history, legends, folksongs, and stories of the Oneidas in upper Wisconsin. He also is teaching a class of twenty Oneidas living in the western part of Brown and Outagamie counties.

The Oneidas are descendants of an Iroquois tribe originally living in New York state. They settled on a reservation near here in the last century. Ten years ago there were 3,000 of the nation living in Wisconsin.

The Indians favor the idea, although they chuckle at the idea of a white man coming to teach them their language. Many of the young ones have abandoned the tongue of their forefathers and speak only English.

DIES WITHOUT KNOWING MATE PRECEDED HER

Mrs. Nora McElligott fell on an icy pavement Dec. 28 and fractured her right hip. Since then she had been in the Oak Park hospital, critically ill.

All last week Mrs. McElligott, 60 years old, wondered why her husband, John J., did not visit her. Yesterday morning she died. Tomorrow she and her husband will be buried together, for he died of pneumonia Saturday morning in the same hospital.

Both were natives of Ireland, but met in Chicago. They were married in 1906. McElligott, who was 58, had been night watchman at the First National bank of Chicago for the last sixteen years. They lived at 1728 North Menard avenue. Surviving are a son, John Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Helen Warrington and Mrs. Margaret Larson.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Angela church, 1322 North Massasoit avenue. Interment will be in All Saints' cemetery.

HIROSHI SAITO, 51, EX-AMBASSADOR, DEAD IN CAPITAL

Veteran of Japanese Diplomatic Corps.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Hiroshi Saito, 51 years old, former Japanese ambassador to the United States, died here today. His death was unexpected, although he had suffered from a chest ailment since last fall. Believing himself on the road to recovery, Saito had made plans to return to Japan within a few months.

Hiroshi Saito.

After previous service in the Tokio foreign office and in diplomatic posts in other foreign capitals, Saito came to Washington as ambassador in 1934. He was succeeded last fall by Kensuke Horinouchi, former vice minister of foreign affairs.

Offered Post in Cabinet.

Diplomats here reported that Prince Fumimaro Konoe, Japanese premier, telephoned Saito at the time of his retirement from the post here and offered him the appointment as foreign minister. Saito declined, they said, because of his health.

Funeral services will be held at the Japanese embassy on Tuesday and his ashes taken back to Japan by Mrs. Saito. Surviving are his widow and two young daughters, born in this country.

When Saito came to Washington from the Netherlands, where he had been Japanese minister, he was the youngest man ever chosen by the foreign office to be ambassador to this country.

Popular in Washington.

A master of the English language and possessed of a keen sense of humor, Saito soon became one of the best known members of Washington's big diplomatic corps and social set. Because of his directness in dealing with other diplomats and newspaper men Saito was dubbed the "indiscreet diplomat"—a title in which he delighted.

A reporter once solemnly asked him to what he attributed his youthfulness. Saito grinned and replied: "Whisky and soda—all afternoon—every afternoon."

Astoria, Ore., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Jubilant Chinese children barred gangs of longshoremen from the Japanese freighter Norway Maru today for the third day. They were confident their picket line would prevent loading of 21 cars of scrap iron and logs for Japan. Longshoremen continued to respect the "demonstration" of 15 Chinese children as a picket line. They said they had no intention of loading the vessel.

Child Violinist Shows Genuine Style in Debut

BY EDWARD BARRY.

That was a strange sight in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon—a tiny, grave faced girl of 10 manipulating a violin as easily and naturally as her contemporaries would a set of jacks. This was Patricia Travers, making her Chicago début as soloist with the Civic orchestra. Hans Lange conducted.

Plenty of children have a certain fluency of delivery, this one has genuine style to boot. She forms her phrases tastefully and gives them momentum and life by means of finely placed accents. At the conclusion of the first movement of the Mendelssohn concerto the audience tendered the little girl a noisy ovation. Another followed when the piece was all finished.

Immediately preceding the violinist's appearance Mr. Lange and his youthful orchestra gave a vigorous, sonorous performance of Arne Oldberg's "Paola and Francesca" overture.

Artur Rubinstein was busy at the Auditorium yesterday with his gigantic feats of pianism. In some modern Spanish, Hungarian, and Brazilian music he drove his instrument to the very limit of its sonority without ever becoming harsh or strident. Here was playing so immensely alive—so rich in all the thousand details of pace and accent and color by which a great musical intelligence can turn dead sound into terrifically urgent speech—that the performance became physically exciting again and again through the afternoon.

In the Chopin group with which the recital was concluded, and especially in the Nocturne with which the encores were begun, were several demonstrations of how intoxicatingly Mr. Rubinstein can make his instrument sing.

In the Beaux Arts salon of the Medinah club Florence Trumbull, pianist, and Paul Dennis, baritone, shared a Sunday afternoon recital. The former's performance of Liszt's "St. Francis Walking on the Waves" was richly textured and technically adept. The Chopin Nocturne, which followed, profited by the pianist's fine feeling for tone and by her determination to preserve both continuity and flexibility in the line of her music. Mr. Dennis displayed his resonant, well controlled voice in some unusual songs of the near east.

Under the hands and feet of an alert, active young man the ponderous pipe organ takes on color and variety. The playing of Mario Salvador in Kimball hall last night had plenty of majesty when the music called for such an effect, plenty of lightness and grace and delicacy of tone when another type of thing came along. In a program of classical and modern music the young organist included a charming and workmanlike prelude and fugue of his own composition.

Maria Kurenko, who was scheduled to give a song recital in the Civic theater last evening, was prevented by illness from doing so. She will appear the afternoon of March 12.

NEW DANCE BY KREUTZBERG

Still one of the greatest of living dancers, Harald Kreutzberg gave his only recital of the season in the Civic theater yesterday before a capacity audience. In addition to many favorite items of his familiar repertoire, he presented the first Chicago performance of "The Eternal Circle: A Legend of Death," danced to music by his sterling accompanist, Friedrich Wilckens.

In a day when most modern dancers have no reliable schooling in dance composition, it is a wonderful pleasure to see the basic simplicity and homogeneity of each of Mr. Kreutzberg's pieces. Here is no synthetic bringing together of unrelated stylized movements into a spurious unity. Each dance specifies a particular quality of movement—whether lyrical, agitated, or whimsical, and develops the movement with unbroken flow and with constantly accumulating force.

Mr. Kreutzberg's creative process must be fascinating to watch, as he works out a new composition. His audience never knows, or even guesses at, the ideas he must have discarded because he found them irrelevant to his artistic intention. He is a great creator in that each finished work gives the illusion of perfect economy; nothing should be added and nothing could be taken away.

Even the compositions that seem somewhat dated, such as the Brahms "Night Song," with its violently flopping draperies, still retain so much integrity that Mr. Kreutzberg, unlike most other dancers, does not need to keep weeding out his compositions of earlier years.

His dancing itself possesses the most aristocratic control imaginable. Yet he is no poker face prophet of dry technical exhibitionism. He is an arresting, communicative individuality, and one of the most engrossing solo performers the contemporary stage knows.

Agatha Lewis, Chicago soprano, covered herself with glory in a truly remarkable performance of Zerbinetta's aria from Richard Strauss' "Ariadne auf Naxos" yesterday afternoon in the Great Northern theater. In her achievement she enjoyed the collaboration of Izler Solomon and the Illinois Symphony orchestra.

To the subtlest and most difficult of modern coloratura show pieces, Miss Lewis brought the most gracious and charming musicianship imaginable. Her superior workmanship entitles her to a high place among vocalists, a place she will more surely command when she points her voice better and eliminates a frustrating breathiness.

The orchestra gave the American première of a percussively noisy, but enjoyable suite, "La Rebambaramba," by the Cuban composer Amadeo Roldan. Familiar works by Mozart occupied the first half of the afternoon.

BY CECIL SMITH.

On the heels of "Bachelor Born," which slunk unobtrusively out of town last Saturday, comes a new and infinitely funnier comedy of school mores and discipline, bearing as its title the appropriate ejaculation "What a Life." The locale this time, instead of a mild and rather mildewed English school, is a big American public high school generically called "Central High School."

"What a Life" has none of the reticence and attempted literary whimsy that made "Bachelor Born" such attenuated entertainment. It is a rawboned, guffawing farce of exaggerated situations and double-barreled gag lines. It has no intention except to elicit from its audience as many guffaws and snorts as possible, at no matter what loss of literary pretension and faithfulness to the facts of the American educational system.

The plot does not matter much. A constant stream of unexpected circumstances inundates the principal's office, in which all the action takes place. An appealing and rather truthfully drawn character by the name of Henry Aldrich is particularly close to submersion most of the time. He is one of those unfortunate boys who always is off on the wrong foot. If he is justly accused of cribbing in an examination, he is also falsely charged with stealing all the brass instruments of the school band. He always has to be the goat, simply because as yet he does not show the slightest sign of learning to live successfully in a world that contains other people.

Eddie Bracken, formerly the exponent of a similarly cubbish part in the southern road company of "Brother Rat," wins immense sympathy from his audience, along with a hundred or more laughs. His Henry Aldrich is so skilful that the sureness of his farce technique is largely hidden behind the unerring aim of his projection.

As the little girl who loves Henry in a world that cannot see him for sour apples, Connie Nickerson is completely charming — especially when she staggers under the weight of a huge Bible from which she must read a psalm in assembly.

The whole company accomplishes its hilarious duties with deftness and speed. The entire cast is fully adequate, and nobody muffed either his lines or his character type last night.

In brief, "What a Life" provides a good, carefree evening of virtually unbroken high spirits. It is a satisfactory family play, too, for it is the cleanest Abbott comedy I have ever seen. In every way the first night auguries for its local success were bright.

Looking at Hollywood

Rhythm and Humor

BY FRED ASTAIRE.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—Rhythm and humor are wed secretly. There is something about a good hot tune really well swung that makes one laugh—in fact, it can make you do more than that. According to its intensity, it can make you laugh, cry, scream, et cetera, if you've got rhythm. Hence the jitterbug. I speak from experience because I'm half a jitterbug myself. I know what they FEEL.

Rhythm and a sense of humor are most valuable to life's happiness. Without either of these existence must be a dreary affair. If a person has one and not the other he should try to get both, then he can't go wrong. Speaking of rhythm, Ed has asked me to name those who have it. There are too many to mention here, but if you insist I might give you my rough idea of a few who have it, excluding musicians.

For instance—Jimmy Cagney—one of the original perfect timing boys—he never misses a punch line, not even by a fraction of a second—his acting combines "smooth swing" and stomp sock. . . . Don Budge has it—he's definitly a "solid sender" as he shifts around that court in Buck and Bubbles fashion.

Joe Louis is strictly a down-beat man. Once the needle jumped the track and Joe went into a waltz, but since then he's been careful not to "unhot" himself. . . . Henry Armstrong, the mauling metronome. His punches take on all speeds. He wears 'em down with a series of dotted eighth notes. No matter how many rounds it may take, they can't weather the off-beat rhythms that Henry deals out.

Seabiscuit is positively a "swingin'" horse. He's a product of the times. He moves like a class hoofer who's "got the whole thing licked." . . . Stagehand, too. He seems to like to hit two tempos in a race. Ever notice how he is usually pretty far back until halfway, and then runs over 'em at the finish? That's because he likes to start with a fox-trot and finish with a one-step. . . . Joe Di Maggio, a timing artist if ever there was one. . . . Bobby Jones! It wouldn't have been possible to achieve that greatness at the game without a positive sense of rhythmic coördination.

Sonja Henie, a perfect example of sweeping smoothness, a streamliner on schedule—an orchestra of 100 swing fiddles. . . . Jock Whitney, unquestionably a rhythm rascal. A terrific dancer; he's still doing the Black Bottom.

Marlin swordfish. Let's face it: You can't walk on the water on your tail if you "ain't got rhythm," and that's what a Marlin does. However, I won't guarantee that there is much rhythm in the party on t'other end of the line after an hour or so's argument with said tap-dancing fish. . . . Bob Hope has rhythm. He swings that line of comedy in no uncertain manner. To me, "it rides," it times perfectly. . . . Gene Sarazen, the old master of tempo. He know what it's all about. Gene won all those big championships with clock ticking precision.

Ginger Rogers is quick on the upbeat. There isn't anything about it that Ginger doesn't understand, be it slow, or fast . . . she's Terpsichore's histrionic daughter. . . . George Raft, ex-hoofer. Plenty of 4-4 in George's work and then again there's a sleekness that suggests a sort of rhumba action, with occasional tub-drum outbreaks.

Douglas Fairbanks, a pioneer at the art of split-second accuracy. Doug spent as much time in the air [without benefit of an airplane] as he did on the ground in most of his pictures and that calls for what we're talking about. . . . Bill Robinson. The man's a walking jam session. He's nature's interpreter of starting out together and finishing together. . . . Bing Crosby. But definitly and how!! I might say that nobody in the world has it like Bing. He just laughs at effort—has never been "out of the groove" since he first got into it.

Eleanor Powell—without a wavering moment. . . . Sam Snead, "Slammin' Sam." That means the old one-two [two in a bar]. When he hits, he doesn't kid about it. He waits for nothing. Either that ball goes or else, and with Sam, you seldom hear of "else." . . . Mickey Rooney knows what a jitterbug feels, too. You can tell that by his youthful rhythmic showmanship.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle! Theirs was a conservative kind of rhythm, but masterful. In Vernon's day "swing" was immature, but he created a dancing style that was destined to be an important part of all ballroom dancing. An idol of mine when I was 14, Vernon will always live in my memory. . . . Walt Disney—Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse, etc. They're just never out of "sync," that's all.

You have it yourself, Ed, old boy. I'll bet that typewriter of yours would be in perfect "sync" with a Benny Goodman quartet record. So, so long, and a happy holiday.

Paderewski of Old Opens U. S. Tour with New York Concert

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A visitor from an older, grander era of music played again today in the land of his greatest successes. He was Ignace Jan Paderewski, now 78 years old.

He was the Paderewski of old, essentially, although details have changed, as he stepped slowly out on the stage of the largest National Broadcasting company studio. The yellow-blonde hair that once made him famous was mostly gone, but he still held his head in noble manner.

The lights were dim, for Paderewski always has disliked bright light. There were no drafts, for Paderewski still hates drafts. He wore again the long black coat with the satin revers. The piano stool was the familiar contraption decorated with red plush tassels. The long black piano was the same make.

The visible audience rose three times to greet his appearance and applauded and cheered at every opportunity.

Traveling in his own private car, the pianist leaves this week for a concert tour which will keep him and his entourage busy until May, when the tour closes with a New York concert. He will rest only once—a week off in California to visit his Paso Robles ranch.

Good Morning!

In the case under discussion, young marster [Mr. Tone] falls in love with the scullery maid [Franciska Gaal] in the home of the lady of his heart—[Rita Johnson].

He comes to meet this fascinating blonde of low degree while endeavoring to outwit his prospective papa-in-law, who will have none of him. He hopes to use Katherina as a go-between and, in order to meet her on equal footing, dons his chauffeur's uniform for trysts with the maid. She promptly becomes enamored with the supposed servant of her mistress' boy friend. . . .

Succeeding events reveal her as an intrinsically superior person, possessed of much delightful umph, and, lo, before he knows it, our masquerading gentleman is ensnared.

The manner in which the scion and the slavey work out their fate furnishes momentum for further action.

Mr. Tone, as is his custom, comports himself smugly and with tongue in cheek. He never quite gets down to earth or seems sincere.

Miss Gaal enacts Cinderella with charm and imagination. She has a sense of humor, too! Miss Johnson, as the discarded rich girl, is delightful. I like her twinkle. Walter Connolly portrays her choleric father with zest. An especially good bit is contributed by Robert Coote as Paul's valet.

Events transpire with dispatch and the film is technically well turned out.

The Blind Side

DISPOSSESSED.

Craddock House stands at the end of those streets which run between the king's road and the embankment. David Craddock built it with the money he made in railways just over ninety years ago. His son, John Peter, and his daughters, Mary and Elinor, were young and gay there.

Mary married her cousin, Andrew Craddock, and went away with him to Birmingham, and in due course she had three daughters. The others married, too. John Peter's wife brought a good deal more money into the family.

Elinor ran away with an impecunious young artist called John Lee, and was cut off with a shilling. Their daughter, Ann, made an equally penniless match with one James Fenton, a schoolmaster, and both, dying young, left their daughter Lee to fight for a place in the world without any inheritance except a gay heart.

John Peter had son and daughter by his plain, rich wife—the son, John David, and the daughter, another Mary. John David, marrying Miss Marian Ross, became the father of Ross Craddock, and Mary, marrying James Renshaw, produced also an only son, Peter Craddock Renshaw.

It was Ross Craddock's father who had turned Craddock House into flats. The big rooms cut up well, a lift was installed, and the flats brought in an excellent return for the money John David had spent on them. He retained the middle flat on the third floor for his own use, and installed his Aunt Mary's daughters, Lucy and Mary Craddock, in the flats on either side.

People laughed a good deal, his brother-in-law James Renshaw, going so far as to speak about John's harem. But John David had never cared in the least what anybody said about anything. Lucy and Mary were his first cousins, and he felt responsible for them. They had neither looks, cash, nor common sense. They were alone in the world, and Mary was in poor health. He put them into separate flats because, though sincerely attached to one another, they could not help quarreling. It never occurrerd to him to dream that his son Ross would turn poor Lucy adrift as soon as the breath was out of Mary's body.

Nobody could have dreamed it, least of all Miss Lucy Craddock herself. She had read the wicked, unbelievable letter fifty times and still she couldn't believe it, because they had lived here for thirty years, she in No. 7 and Mary in No. 9, and John David had meant them to live here always. And now Mary was dead and Ross had written this dreadful letter. She read it at breakfast, and ran incredulously to knock at the door of Ross Craddock's flat. There was no answer to her knocking on the door of No. 8.

She ran across the landing to No. 9. Peter Renshaw would tell her that it was all nonsense. Ross couldn't possibly turn her out. But she could get no answer there either, and then remembered that Peter was away for the night, gone down to stay with a friend in the country. Of course it was very tiresome for him being poor Mary's executor and having all those papers to sort through, but she did wish he wasn't away just now. Perhaps he would be back before she had to start on her journey. O, dear, dear, dear—how could she possibly go away if she was going to be turned out of her flat? But she had promised dear Mary. She had promised to go away as soon as possible after the funeral.

She went back to her own flat, and packed her little cane trunk, and then went trotting over to No. 8 in case Ross had returned, and to No. 9 to see if Peter had come back. She kept on doing this for hours. At intervals she read that cruel letter again, and about once in every half hour she rang the bells of No. 8 and No. 9.

"Like a cat on hot bricks!" Rush, the porter, told his bedridden wife in the basement. "What's she want to go away for?"

"Everyone wants to get away some time," said Mrs. Rush mildly. She sat up against four pillows and knitted baby socks for her daughter Ellen's youngest, who was expecting in a month's time. She was pale, and plump, and clean, with a very little thin white hair screwed up into a pigtail, and a white flannelette nightgown trimmed with tatting.

"I don't," said Rush, "and no more do you. A lot of blasted nonsense I call it!"

Mrs. Rush opened her mouth to speak and shut it again. She hadn't been out of her basement room for fifteen years, but that wasn't to say she wouldn't have liked to go. Men were all the same—if they didn't fancy a thing themselves, then no one else wasn't to fancy it neither.

Ross Craddock came home just before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He took himself up in the lift, and as soon as Miss Lucy heard the clang of the gate she opened her front door a creak and looked out. It was really Ross at last. Her heart bumped against her side and her breath caught in her throat. He looked as he always did, so very handsome and so masterful. It was ridiculous to feel afraid of some one she had seen christened, but there was something about Ross that made you feel as if you didn't matter at all.

She stood behind the door and gathered up her courage, a little roundabout woman with a straight gray bob and a full pale face. She wore a dyed black dress which had been navy blue and her best all the summer, and low-heeled strap shoes over thick gray stockings. When she heard Ross Craddock put his key into the lock she popped out of her door and ran after him.

Ross Craddock, removing his key, was aware that he had been caught. He said suavely, "You want to see me, do you?" and opened the sitting room door.

Miss Lucy walked in and stood there trembling with his letter in her hand. She saw him come in after her, remove his hat, and sit down at the writing table, half turned away. When she said "yes" in a loud, angry voice he swung his chair round a little and surveyed her with a faint smile upon his face.

Miss Lucy came a step nearer. She pushed the letter towards him as it it could speak for her. It was a hot August day and her skin was beaded with moisture. She said, her voice fallen to a whisper:

"You didn't mean it—you didn't."

He was smiling more broadly now. Such a good looking man, so tall, and strong, and handsome.

"A month's notice," said Ross Craddock, exactly as if she had been a kitchen maid.

Miss Lucy stopped trembling. She was too angry to tremble now.

"Your father put us here—he gave us the flats—he said he would never turn us out!"

"It isn't my father who is turning you out, Lucy."

Miss Lucy looked at him. There was a big photograph of Mavis on the table at his elbow. Mavis was her own niece—Mavis Grey. It was a new photograph, one that she had never seen before, and she was ashamed to see it now. It looked like one of those shameless pictures sent in for beauty competitions, only instead of being an enlarged snapshot as most of them were, it was beautifully posed, beautifully taken—Mavis in what she supposed was some sort of fancy dress—tights, and a sort of feather frill, and a bodice cut so low that it wasn't really a bodice at all. A dull, ugly red came into her face.

Ross Craddock laughed.

"Good photograph, isn't it?" he said.

"Did Mavis give it to you?"

"Had it taken for me, Lucy."

"It's a scandalous picture!" said Lucy Craddock. "She's my niece—she's my own niece. And she's your cousin, too, because my father and mother were cousins. And you ought to leave her alone—you know you ought. I begged and prayed you to before Mary got so ill."

He said, "Exactly," and turned his eyes upon the letter, which she still held clasped in her hand.

"And that's why you're turning me out?"

"My dear Lucy—what penetration!"

"How wicked!" she said.

Ross Craddock got up. He took her lightly by the arm and led her to the door.

"Old maid cousins should be seen and not heard," he said, and put her out.

Mother Who Trains Self to Be Patient Gains Rich Rewards

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Sometimes nothing short of parenthood will bring about real self-discipline. I have the greatest admiration for those women who, naturally quick tempered and impatient, conquer those traits for the sake of their children. I have some really good evidence of these "conversions."

One mother writes:

"Impatience used to be my besetting sin, but since I have had my two lovely children I have had to try to conquer it. When it still occasionally gets the better of me it works havoc, unhappiness and disobedience and tears my result. If I behave myself, as I express it, I have no trouble in managing the children."

Haven't you proved that to yourself again and again? Noises that are perfectly legitimate noises for children to make don't bother you if you're well and rested. Sometimes you don't even hear them. But when you're overtired it's a different matter. Duties performed at a child's pace, if you're nervously hurried, seem to be done deliberately at a snail's pace, and make you cross and scolding. Ordinary heedlessness changes color and becomes selfishness or disobedience once you get keyed up or flustered with too much housework or sewing.

A Stranger in the Dark

INSTALMENT XLIII.
LOVE'S MESSENGER.

Before Clancy got an opportunity to tell me what he did think was the trouble one of the bank secretaries entered with an unstamped but sealed letter which she delivered to me.

"There's a messenger waiting for an answer," she said.

I asked Clancy to excuse me while I read it.

"Dear John," it began. "Don't look for the signature. I'll tell you. This is from Josephine Bowman. Yes, I persuaded the dumb cluck to marry me at last. But don't feel sorry for him. He knows I'm a tramp. The funny thing is he realizes I'm a good tramp. We'll get along swell together—we always have.

"To get right down to cases neither my darling husband nor myself is really infatuated with ranch life. He is getting better—although not well enough to be out of control you understand—and we want to go somewhere and do something. But we need a manager to run the place and keep it from going entirely to pot, while we live in riotous ease. We're offering the job to you.

"There's a couple of catches in this proposition so think it over carefully. One of them is Aunt Matilda, but she's like the old gray mare, 'not like she used to be.' All she does now is sit around and paint. The old bean didn't stand the strain of last summer's fireworks and now she is only pleasantly nutty.

"The other drawback is more serious. I'm afraid you would have to marry the girl who seemed to cause you so much trouble last year. She doesn't want to leave the ranch and it might cause talk if you both lived there with no chaperone but a potty old woman. I'll propose to her for you if you are too dumb to do it yourself. Of course, if you don't like the wench the offer is off. But if you are merely holding back because you think she is a prospective heiress—the way the saps do in the books—you can set your mind at rest on that score. What will be left after my beloved and I get through won't amount to anything. Besides I am thinking of having a baby myself—just thinking, so far, you understand—but it's one thing I've never done yet.

"We're over at the Drake hotel right here in town. You can telephone your answer or, if you prefer, can give it to the messenger who is instructed to wait for a reply.

Josephine."

"P. S.: We've torn down the new house and carted the red rock back to the hills where it belongs. It improves the view a lot."

I put the note down on my desk and looked out the window. Instead of soot-grimy buildings, I saw windswept valleys, the glare of sun and broken wagon wheels on graves facing west.

Clancy stirred uneasily. I had forgotten him. "If it's something important———?" he said starting to get up.

"Wait a minute, Clancy. I'll find out." I pressed the buzzer on my desk summoning the secretary.

"Is the messenger," I asked her, "who brought this note still waiting?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is it a young woman?"

"Yes."

"What does she look like?"

"Well, she's little and kind of pretty."

I laughed as I got up. "Lady, you've reached the highest known peak of inadequate description. She's the loveliest woman in the world. Send her in."

To Clancy I said, "If it's all right with you, get t'hell out of here. We'll see you tomorrow."

"We?"

"Yes. Use the side door, will you?"

"Sure." He was as excited as I was myself and nearly tripped as he hurried to reach the side entrance. "I gotta arrest a coupla murderers over on State street anyway."

"Thanks, Clancy."

"It's a pleasure, Mr. Bowman."

He still sometimes called me that. Why not? My real name doesn't matter.

There was a tap on the other door.

"Come in."

My heart stood still!

The best thing about a stewing chicken is that, when it is cooked, you not only have chicken, but broth, too. You may serve them together as chicken and dumplings or separate them and have the broth one day as soup or salad and the meat another day as a hot dish.

Stewing chickens are economical to buy and, when properly cooked, furnish more than their priceful of eating enjoyment.

Chicken Stock

[Foundation for soups, jellied chicken, etc.]

1 4-pound stewing chicken
8 cups water
1 small carrot, sliced
2 stalks celery
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon peppercorns

Clean and wipe fowl. Remove breast meat, disjoint, and put the rest of the chicken in a kettle. Cover with the water, add vegetables and seasonings, and simmer slowly until meat is tender, several hours. Remove chicken and seasonings. Strain, chill, and remove fat from the top of the stock. If the stock is to be stored keep it in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

The broth may be heated and served alone or may be the basis of many another chicken dish.

Jellied Chicken Bouillon

[Serves Six]

To three cups of hot chicken stock, prepared by the previous recipe, add ½ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon salt, and a tablespoon of plain gelatin which has been soaked for five minutes in ¼ cup cold water. Chill until congealed. Break up jelly with a fork. Serve in bouillon cups with a teaspoon of salted whipped cream on each serving. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

Scalloped Chicken and Vegetables

[Serves Four to Six]

2 cups diced cooked chicken
2 cups broth in which chicken was cooked
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
Salt, pepper
1 cup dry bread crums
2 cups cooked or canned mixed vegetables

Blend butter and flour and add chicken broth. Cook until thickened. Arrange layers of chicken, vegetables, and crums in a greased casserole, season as necessary, and pour the sauce over them. Sprinkle a few more buttered crums over the top of the dish. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until browned and hot.

Curried Chicken

[Serves Three to Four]

2 cups diced cooked chicken
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon [or more] salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ to 1 teaspoon curry powder
1 cup milk or cream
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 egg yolk

Combine butter, flour, and seasonings. Add milk and cook to a smooth sauce. Add parsley and chicken and heat thoroughly. Beat egg yolk, add two tablespoons of milk, and pour into the chicken mixture. Cook two minutes longer, stirring constantly. Serve in croustades, patty shells, or on toast.

Dress for Hours at Home

WOMAN'S FROCK FOR HOME.

You know how perfectly equal to any social occasion you feel when you are dressed well for it. The same principle applies to your domestic duties. Dress the part with smartness and the day will fly, no matter how hard you work. To help you achieve this household chic we're presenting a lovely pattern today, one of those comfortable dresses that are every inch feminine.

If your figure is decidedly on the mature side, you probably will prefer the slenderizing styling sketched at the left. The square neckline and the left side of the bodice are trimmed with ruffling. The squared shoulders give way to full and flowing sleeves that extend only to the elbows. The slightly flared skirt is comfortable in width and has just the right amount of fullness for a wrap-around model.

The other version of the pattern is one ideally suited to the smaller silhouettes. Its square neckline may be edged with anything you like, although the illustration suggests the ever popular rick-rack. More of the trimming enhances the butterfly sleeves. Only two buttons are used on this design.

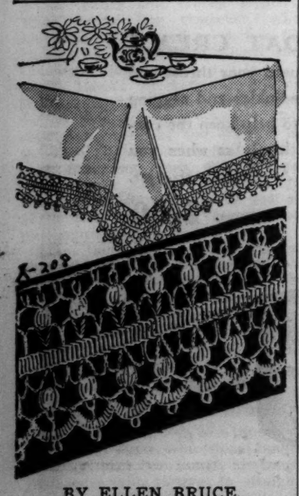
Style No. 2514 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of ruffling for the version with full sleeves.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Crocheted Edging Affords Dainty Finish to Linens



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Linen tea table or bridge cloths with a crocheted edge are a welcome change from the usual allover crocheted designs popular for such items. The crocheted edging around this cloth is made in one piece, the length around the cloth, and attached when completed. It is a simple pattern containing double crochet, chains, clusters, and picots, all of which are extremely easy to execute. A forty inch square of white linen is ample for a bridge cloth, and is obtainable in any shade.

For instructions for crocheting the edging for the table, bridge, or tea cloth No. X-208, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Soft Textures, Bright Colors in New Wools

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Wool gathering this spring promises a lot of pleased shoppers. If you crave color in unusual tones such as powdery pastels in yellow, luscious shades of rosy pink, the French colors in violet, cerise, and dusky orange you'll enjoy the record breaking assortments.

If you must have violent colors to contrast otherwise dull frocks, you'll find a wealth of eye catching tones in every imaginable shade. Striped woolens, scorching hot plaids, and checks provide other telling finds for unusual costumes. Never have the wool manufacturers presented such a fascinating collection.

Amazingly soft textures are featured. There is not a stiff, wiry, scratchy foot of wool anywhere in the shops and stores. And without sacrificing any of the cozy warmth of the wool the manufacturers have managed to present the thinnest, chiffonlike stuff that has ever been unpacked.

Companion wools will take the money. These consist of narrow striped stuff for a jacket or skirt and a plain solid color the same shade as the dark stripe for the contrasting piece of the costume. Fine small basket weaves are especially attractive because this is the sort of stuff that makes those delightfully feminine dressmaker outfits. The short jackets with tucks and folds and artful dressmaker details will be smart this spring.

There is an abundance of leaf green. And don't forget that good greens make ideal foundation suits, dresses, and coats with which to contrast unusual accessories. There isn't a shade of red you can ask for and not have in your fingers instantly. The assortment of beige, from the palest tint to the deep, golden honey tones, is virtually unlimited. So are the violet and mauve colors, and the mixtures or novelty woolens are breath taking beauties of unexpected and brilliant color effects.

Logical Confusion.

A Chicago 6 year old found the coincidence of Ash Wednesday and Washington's birthday last week a little confusing. She came home from kindergarten with a little wooden hatchet that had been given her. Her father asked for an explanation to see if she understood its significance.

"Why, daddy," she said, "don't you know it's Axe Wednesday?"

Civil War Echo.

When workmen were tearing down an old unused freight depot on the Illinois Central railroad at Nora, 125 miles west of Chicago, they were puzzled to find withered branches of trees nailed to the rafters and timbers. Upon inquiry it developed, according to our informant, Charles Sughroe of Stockton, Ill., that they were put up as part of the decorations for a reception to the neighborhood boys when they marched back from the civil war.

Overheard:

An old janitor in the neighborhood relates that the building was a play spot for all the youngsters of the neighborhood while it was being erected. The landlord's only child, Ionia, age 4, was hit and killed by a speeding motorist. The heartbroken father had an enlargement of her picture set into a glass panel and placed over the entrance and called the building Ionia.

Children Learn Grooming from Adult Example

After stressing the importance which business men place upon the personality of their employés Alice Crow, dean of a girls' high school, tells that educators agree that desirable personal habits are best developed indirectly through imitation in home environment.

Since 90 per cent of promotions or discharges resulted from personality characteristics, rather than because of skill factors, according to the report of an association of business men, Dean Crow says:

"If we wish our children to develop desirable habits of personal attractiveness we must ourselves be models of cleanliness and good grooming. Our voices must be pleasant and well modulated. Our own emotions must be completely under control. Our behavior toward others must demonstrate the principles of courteous consideration, sympathetic understanding, and consistent sincerity."

There is also a need, says Dean Crow, for direct and definite instruction in the "modus operandi" of developing specific habits and attitudes of personal charm.

"One of the first personality characteristics which should be stressed is that of careful personal grooming. Young persons should be made to realize that the size of their mouth, the shape of their nose, the color of their eyes, the texture of their skin, and so on, are relatively unimportant, but what they do with these physical features is what counts. In this way it is possible to make the individual conscious of his own ability to develop himself."

Simple habits of courtesy and thoughtfulness, two potent ingredients of charm, are developed in the young girl by constant insistence upon politeness to the members of the group. In the home environment, politeness to parents and to other members of the family group is urged as invaluable training in building a pleasing personality that will insure future gains.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"My dear Mr. Culbertson: I have a tale to relate. It is, as you might expect, about a bridge hand and it concerns your favorite sermon, Safety. I warn you in advance that this story comes to you with malice aforethought, because the heroine [or victim] happened to be, and still is, my favorite partner in bridge—my wife.

"Like most wives, she is a shade conservative and tries to make a nickel do the work of a dime. She will travel to the other side of town because she can buy soap there a cent a cake cheaper. [The fact that she spends bus fare to save 6 cents doesn't enter into the matter.] You know the type.

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 spades	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

"My frau was sitting South and I was kibitzing her. Apropos my kibitzing, I have a suggestion for the new rules that are coming out in 1940: Every bridge game should consist of five players. The inactive player's duties shall be twofold: [1] mix the drinks and [2] kibitz intensively and report all interesting hands to Ely Culbertson.

"After the reported bidding [which I approved], West opened the club king. His partner encouraged him with the eight spot and West carried on with the queen and the jack. My wife ruffed the third round and led a small heart to dummy's king. She came back to her ace and then played the heart six and ruffed with the spade eight. East overruffed with the jack and, with a mean grin, returned a trump. My helpmate was finished, of course, and, with an unladylike glare, conceded the setting heart trick to West.

"Now I ask you, Mr. Culbertson, have you ever seen such a hoarding of natural resources, even when the hoarder was starving? She had the simplest safety play in the world waiting for her, but, because of that fallacious theory of 'not wasting a spot,' muffed the entire hand. All she had to do was ruff the third heart with the trump queen, return to her hand via a diamond ruff, and then attempt to ruff the fourth heart. If it went through, all well and good. She could enter her hand with another ruff and then draw the trumps. If the jack fell, she would make five odd. But the main play could not lose. If East overruffed the fourth heart, she could spread her hand, with game safely tucked away.

"Once again her love for bargains had run away with her common sense. Do you agree?

My correspondent has pleaded his case very neatly. Defendant is found guilty of penny-pinching, short-sightedness, and disregard of safety principles. However, I am inclined to believe that the prosecuting attorney was a bit too harsh in the presentation of his case. Every one of us, at some time or other, has overlooked simple safety plays that could not help but produce dividends.

"Let him who hath never overlooked the correct play cast the first stone."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

An anguished friend, in despair because her skin would remain rough as sandpaper in spite of prayer and concentrated creaming, sent us on a hunt for a cleanser with pronounced softening qualities. She is one of these women with fair hair and skin thin as tissue paper. She's been warned that unless that particular type of skin is kept lubricated zealously she'll be wrinkled as a prune before she's 50. So she wanted a cleanser that was more than a cleanser; it had to be a lubricant as well.

We made a bet we'd find exactly what she wanted, and we did. We won the bet. Our find was a preparation that's been under our noses for quite a long time — a liquid cleanser created especially for skins described as "super sensitive." It's a cream in liquid form and it's extremely oily. So much so that the bottle must be shaken well before using, since some of the oil floats to the top when it's been left standing for a long time. Once shaken, it is the loveliest, smoothest texture any heart could desire.

We've seldom found a preparation that so adequately fills the need of the woman with very thin, easily chapped skin. It cleanses well. You pour a little out of the bottle, work it in well with the finger tips, and allow it to remain on for a moment or two. When you remove it with tissues you find that it removes the grime and makeup thoroughly. And even with this one cleansing application the parched skin feels relieved. We gave our friend instructions to use a second coat of the liquid cream, just for the added benefit of the extra softening obtained in this way. She can now keep her skin beautifully moist and softened — and she finds that this extra oiling makes it easier for her to use soap. She'd always believed she couldn't use soap on her skin, though she hated not doing it. Now she uses it whenever she likes, using the creamy liquid cleanser either before or after to replace any oil the soap and water may have removed. It works like a charm.

FOUND THE GAME BUT LOST THE GUN

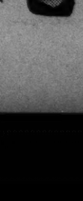
A LOT of things can happen on a hunting trip — guns, ammunition, clothing, watches and other valuables are frequently lost. If this happens to you, there is one logical thing to do.

Whenever you lose anything of value, be sure to telephone a Lost and Found want ad to the Chicago Tribune. Thousands of dollars' worth of property is restored each year to owners who advertise in the Lost and Found column of the Tribune.

Regardless of what you may have lost, or where in Chicago or suburbs you may have lost it, there is a good chance that a Tribune reader will find it.

Every day of the week, the Tribune is read by more than 725,000 families right in metropolitan Chicago. This is practically as many as read any two other Chicago newspapers combined.

Further, the Tribune is Chicago's big want ad marketplace, carrying far more want advertising and, as a result, attracting far more want ad readers than any other Chicago newspaper.



Call SUPERIOR 0100—WANT AD-VISER and ask for Miss Miller if you have lost something recently. Miss Miller will help you word your want ad. If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ad.

LIBERTY'S SEEDS SOWN IN SOIL OF OLD JAMESTOWN

Their Growth Unchecked by Hardship and Pain.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—An archæologist of ideas would find in the historical terrain of this little peninsula, where the course of the American republic was set, many valuable contributions to present day thinking.

Map shows Jamestown area, where liberty outlived hardship.

A short, short history of Jamestown, where Anglo-Saxon civilization was first planted on this continent, is given in the line on the tall white monument that marks the spot: "A series of difficulties successfully surmounted."

Smith Kills a Traitor.

A misery, a ruin, a hell, was what Capt. John Smith called it in a moment of despondency. Then he arose and did something about it, killed a traitor or two, threatened to shoot deserters, stole corn from the Indians, joked with the sick. Once there were only five men able to walk in the colony. Another marker in the old Jamestown church indicates what came afterward:

"To the glory of God and in grateful remembrance of the adventurous English and ancient planters of Virginia who through evil reports and loss of fortune, through suffering and death, maintained stout hearts and laid the foundation of our country."

The Church of England was here in the person of the Rev. Robert Hunter, and it was the warning of Chanco, a Christian Indian boy, that saved the colony from the massacre of March 22, 1622, when many in the outlying plantations were scalped.

Growth of Liberty.

First, look at the people who came after the original 105 settlers, most of whom died.

Prof. R. Bennett Bean of the University of Virginia has studied them. The French Hugenots began coming in 1610, planting vineyards and mulberry trees for silk raising. The knotted, decaying old trees may still be seen in the yards of Williamsburg. The Hugenots, fleeing religious persecution, came by the boatload during the next twenty years and set up a colony of 200,000 acres. As the Indians were driven back they spread along the upper James river.

The Germans were there in the first boatload, and by 1623 there were 109 Germans, Swiss, and Dutch, all artisans or farmers. During that first century thousands came in from the Palatine country of the upper Rhine, Lutherans from Württemberg. Later they moved in to the Shenandoah valley and were joined by Dunkards, Mennonites, United Brethren, the Holiness group, and others of serious, hard working religious sects.

Hard Work and Religion.

There is no substitute for the combination of hard work and religion. For a time they made the valley of Virginia the granary of the world. The Scotch and the Irish came. They took the most dangerous positions and started churches and schools.

Later there was Scotch Tom Nelson, who became a merchant prince of Yorktown, but who gave his fortune to the revolution and begged Washington to send a cannon ball through his own house, where British officers had quartered themselves. And who can forget Col. Dan Morgan and his Irish sharpshooters from the hills, who marched east to join Washington at the outbreak of the revolution, with jaunty caps on which they had written "Liberty or Death"?

To return to the early struggles. There was not much liberty there, despite the wide woods and waters that lay before this little band. They were hemmed in by fears and old ideas. They were under "divine, moral, and martial laws," perhaps necessary for their existence, but exasperating. Twice a day upon the tolling of a bell they had to repair to church service on pain of losing a day's allowance of food or being whipped.

Joint Stock Scheme.

The plan of the colony at first was a joint stock scheme, all labor and food in common. It was a scheme, Matthews Page Andrews points out in "The Old Dominion," which, tried again and again in every stage of the progress of mankind, has yet to succeed—over any length of time. It is recorded in the old records that "the most honest among them would hardly take so much time and pains in a week as now for themselves they will do in a day. They reaped not so much corn from thirty as three or four now provide for themselves." For the plan was changed in 1609 to private ownership, under which men braved dangers and spread far and wide over the hills.

The idea of liberty grew swiftly but almost unnoted under this new sun. It was not a definit stand against England. It was at first a stand for the rights of Englishmen which the new king was seeking to ignore.

Look at the European genesis of this for a moment. Elizabeth was dead and James I. ruled by divine right. Raleigh was in prison. His Roanoke colony was a failure and the ghost of Virginia Dare was haunting the American wilderness. The sea was full of terrors, but the English had sunk the Armada and were bent on a vast colonial autarchy. In mysterious America the Alleghanies were thought to be an extension of the Andes, filled with gold, opening to rich south seas.

Europe was the scene of a struggle for democracy, religious and political. It was emerging from the darkness of a thousand years. A million Protestants were ready to die rather than surrender their beliefs. Geneva had become a reformation center. Freedoms and intellectual energies centered there and in London. The inquisition lingered on in Spain.

Democracy Takes Root.

There was no chance of a medieval state here. The ferment started by Sir Edwin Sandys and his followers for the application of democratic principles of government in Virginia had begun to work. Once started it never stopped. He was the son of a Puritan bishop of York. Under his plan the freemen of the colonies were to be elected the legislators. The company lost its charter and Virginia became a royal colony, but the right of elected representatives was never given up. The colony became a dangerous seminary of sedition.

While thousands of noble blood were there, two-thirds of Virginia and Maryland, according to W. E. Dood, historian, were indentured servants who became freemen, farmers, and small owners. They lived in log cabins, the chimneys built of sticks and lined with clay. They became vestrymen, justices, members of the house, and a new social order based on suffrage, at first limited, gave the first promise of the republic.

Control of crops was tried out long ago in Virginia. The small farmers would not submit to the "tobacco stint" of 1664.

Gloats Over no Free Schools.

Sir William Berkeley became governor of the royal colony. One hundred years before the revolution he said:

"I thank God there are no free schools nor printing, and I hope we shall not have these for a hundred years; for learning has brought disobedience, heresy and sects into the world, and printing has divulged them."

Nathaniel Bacon was a first cousin of Francis Bacon, the philosopher. He was born in England and reared during the contest of the Puritans against royalty. He was a master of arts of Cambridge. He lived on the frontier of Virginia where the Indian menace became too heavy to be borne. Gov. Berkeley would not act and so Bacon became the leader of irregular forces which were declared in rebellion against the king. The outlying counties followed Bacon but the governor had the home forces and the planters.

The little war did not last long. Bacon captured Jamestown and burned it. The governor fled, but reorganized his forces and returned in triumph. Bacon died of illness soon after and Berkeley hanged twenty-three rebels and cast others into prison without trial. It was the foreshadowing of the revolution, without a clear cause being apparent except that of rebellion against tyranny. A memorial in the Gloucester county courthouse to Bacon gives this estimate:

"He organized the so-called Bacon rebellion whose influence in the formation of the spirit of Americanism is immeasurable, the Washington of his day, popular, patriotic, whose magnanimity strongly contrasts with the malignity of Berkeley, soldier, statesman, saint. Gloucester honors the noble dead and cherishes the memory of kingly men."

The attempt to make a colony agreeable to monarchy and to avoid the growth of a numerous democracy failed because of the spread of still more potent ideas from Europe. The rights of Englishmen became a narrowing phrase, for this was a crucible of all races. It was an easy step to the rights of man, as expounded by French pamphleteers, as advanced in the reasoning of the philosopher, John Locke, and in the dreams of More's Utopia. The dream of a spiritual heaven was brought closer to earth. The English revolution had worked to a crest here.

Patrick Henry Emerges.

Men were being prepared to implement these ideas. One was Patrick Henry, a raw country boy of Hanover county, woodchopper, bartender in his father-in-law's tavern, at 27 a failure in life, slow to develop, like Lincoln and Grant who were raised up for a later crisis.

This young Henry was a great reader and people did not know how much he knew or what fire there was in him until the famous parson's case came up in 1763. The clergy were paid by the state in those days, at a fixed rate based on tobacco prices. The clergy sued for more money and young Henry opposed and defeated them, widening the cause to defy the king and firing what has been called the opening gun of the revolution. Later he became a pillar of fire for this struggle, giving its slogan of "Liberty or Death," becoming the first governor of the commonwealth, aiding in secret the strategy of the young Gen. George Rogers Clark in his conquest of the northwest territory.

Democratic Spirit of Church.

It has been said that it was mainly the democratic spirit of the Congregational church of New England, the Dutch and German Reformed church in the middle colonies, and the Presbyterian church in Virginia and North Carolina that made the war for independence successful.

But it was recognized long afterward that it was the education of the middle classes in the principles underlying all liberty that made their demands effective.

The development of the republican feeling in Virginia twelve years after the landing went on until the royal governor and the council, which had at first ruled with unlimited control, were put on the defensive. When the governor refused to call the legislators in session, they met in a tavern. The principle to which they clung stubbornly was control of the purse strings—that they could not be taxed without their own consent. It was a fusion of politics, economics, religion, out of which the clear idea of the American republic finally took wings. And then they had to fight.

Companions to Testify in Champaign Quiz.

Assistant Attorney General Walker Butler and T. P. Sullivan, chief of the state bureau of criminal investigation, left for Champaign last night to resume the vice and gambling investigation before the Champaign county grand jury. The state has taken charge of the investigation because University of Illinois students were permitted to patronize the resorts.

Before leaving Chicago Sullivan conferred with Acting Governor John Stelle. Stelle sent Sullivan to Champaign when Attorney General John E. Cassidy decided to supersede Fred Hamill, the state's attorney of the county. he acting governor directed Sullivan to coöperate with the prosecutor and agreed to give any other aid needed by investigators.

Slaying Causes Inquiry.

The inquiry grew out of the slaying of William Spurrier, a University of Illinois sophomore, early in the morning of Feb. 16. Spurrier was shot by Mrs. Margaret Strothers, colored, when he and five companions sought to enter a resort operated by her.

Chief Sullivan said he reported to Mr. Stelle on what had occurred during the last week and what the prospects were for a continuation of the inquiry. Because considerable time is expected to be required by the investigators, he said, the question of financing the inquiry would be taken up early in the week.

The students who were with Spurrier when he was shot will tell their story to the grand jury this morning. It was expected that Mrs. Strothers would be indicted on charges of murder or manslaughter.

C. W. Swick, assistant to State's Attorney Hamill, will appear before the grand jury only for the case against Mrs. Strothers, Butler said.

All other phases of the inquiry will be directed by assistants of Attorney General Cassidy. Mr. Butler said several subpenas may be served today and that he would question witnesses during the next few days.

The primary election tomorrow in Champaign will not interfere with the inquiry, he said. Mayor James D. Flynn of Champaign is a candidate for reëlection. A year ago Flynn declared that vice in the college city was controled and regulated and could not be suppressed.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhaws last night moved into the basement of the National Hocky league, strange lodgings indeed for a team which won the world's championship last April. The transfer was arranged by the big, bad Boston Bruins, who administered to the Hawks a 5 to 1 licking, the Chicagoans' seventh in seven meetings with Boston this season.

If the 11,000 clients who saw the game last night left feeling that their boys may very easily be out of the Stanley cup playoffs, they also had the knowledge of seeing in Boston the team which doubtless will be the world series favorite. The Bruins, who have lost only ten games out of forty-one played thus far, had everything, certainly far too much for a Blackhawk team whose diligence throughout the 60 minutes of play practically was foredoomed to failure.

Master Brimsek Shining Light.

It is now apparent that Master Frank Brimsek, Boston's rookie goalie, is the league's bright boy of the year. He has permitted only fifty-six enemy pucks to pass him, and seems certain to win the Vezina trophy for net minding as well as the season's rookie award.

But Master Brimsek can well thank the most impregnable defense quartet in the business—Eddie Shore, Jack Portland, Dit Clapper, and Jack Crawford. There is a suspicion that these four gents have as much concrete as muscle in their makeups, so stubborn are they about allowing any one to get within firing distance of young Brimsek.

The Hawks officially went into seventh and last place in the league with 24 minutes left to play. The Montreal Canadiens passed them at that point with a 3 to 0 victory over the New York Rangers, thus taking over sixth place by one-half game. The Chicagoans are scheduled for two road games this week, the Rangers on Thursday and Toronto on Saturday.

Schmidt Opens Scoring.

Milt Schmidt, Boston center, waited no more than 21 seconds to bat in the first goal of the evening. He had the assistance of his line mates, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart. Then young Roy Conacher, who seemingly is destined to such a future as his big brothers, Lionel and Charley, enjoyed, made it 2 to 0.

The Hawks wrecked any dreams Brimsek might have had for a shutout as Earl Robinson delivered Chicago's only goal of the evening in the fifth minute of the first period. Jack Shill and Russ Blinco were credited with assists. Then the huge Clapper came through with a goal at 12:31, lest the Hawks become too presumptuous.

From there on the Hawks played hard and willing hocky, but couldn't make a dent in Brimsek and his guardians. The last period saw Ray Getliffe and Dumart come through with goals to run the final score to 5 to 1.

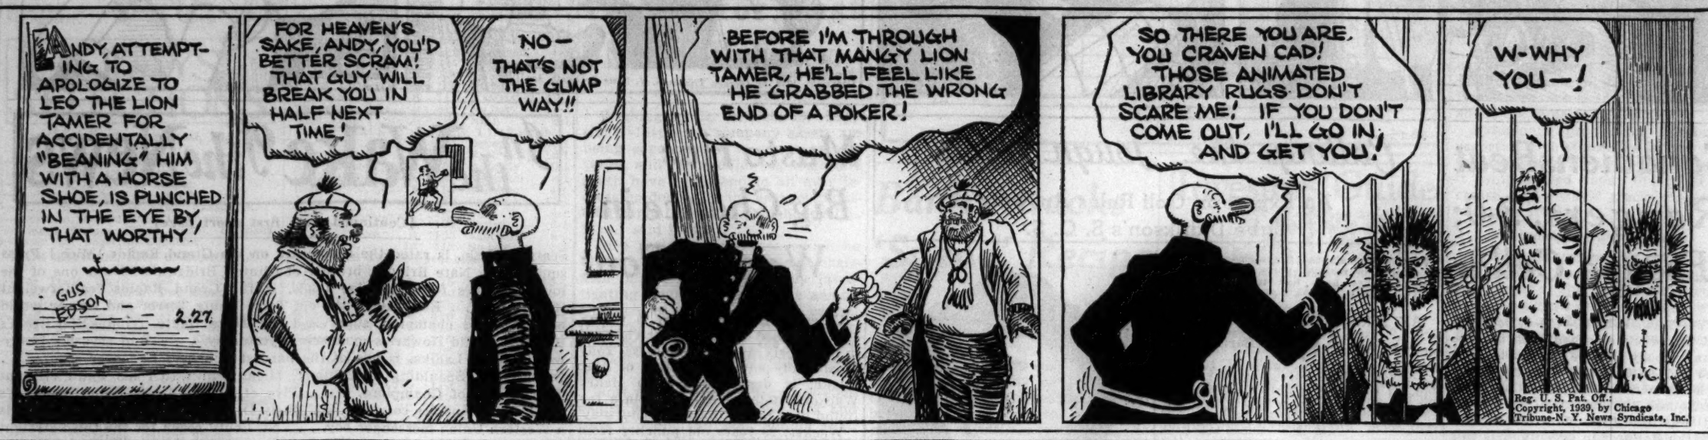
THE GUMPS—The Challenge!



DIZZY JUST CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY HE SHOULD REST

He's Hardest Worker in the Cub Camp.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 26.—Bill Lee, the National league's leading pitcher in 1938; Clay Bryant, the National league's most improved pitcher, and Larry French, the National league's most harassed caster last season, started to put something on the ball today in the Cub's third day of practice. Dizzy Dean tried to join the procession of regulars in their stepping up process but was chased from the center of the diamond before he had a chance to throw a ball.

Despite the fact he is and is to remain a non-pitching pitcher for many days, Dean has been one of the hardest workers in camp to date. He has been in every pepper session and he claims to have trotted around the field more times than any one. He snags flies, makes a great deal of noise, autographs while catching his breath, but is fast losing his west coast reputation as a popoff guy. At the same time he exudes optimism about Cub pennant chances in 1939.

Gabby Is Very Happy.

Manager Hartnett, as his first personally conducted training program went to a new peak, gave vent to a few words and phrases in which he revealed that his greatest source of pleasure to date is not based on the excellent physical state of his chattels, but on the personal harmony that exists.

Said Gabby: "In fifteen years of spring training, I never have seen such general friendliness among fellows who are rivals for the same kind of jobs. A big, happy family gag is a good one, but rarely represents the truth.

Everybody Is Happy.

"I have seen many cliques on the Cubs, but this year there apparently are no jealousies and no insurgents. If, when the eventual team is selected, I find that old cliques have been broken up and new ones are discouraged, I will feel that a problem equal in importance with the skilful playing of baseball will have been solved. It will mean a new kind of Cubs and a new spirit of cooperation is bound to bring better results on the field. The way things are starting, I have no fears of the old clique menace, but if I see any new bolshevik programs blooming, I'll lose no time pinning back the ears of the plotter or plotters. There will be no clubhouse lawyers on the team if I can spot 'em."

They're a Great Pair.

Among the gents mentioned by Hartnett as being especially zealous in the matter of displaying a spirit of coöperation is Gus Mancuso, for many years a catching rival of Hartnett's. Mancuso, as captain of the Giants, exercised a great deal of executive authority in directing pitchers. He has been given a free hand by Hartnett and has told several of the Cub regular pitchers some of their weaknesses which the Giants looked for and pounced upon.

Mancuso and Hartnett, alternating behind the plate, are bound to give the Cubs the same great catching they have had for years with Gabby carrying the main burden alone.

PAUL BIETILA, 20, WISCONSIN SKI JUMPER, IS DEAD

Madison, Wis., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Paul Bietila, 20, of the five skiing Bietila brothers of Ishpeming, Mich., died tonight from penumonia which set in after he was injured in the national ski jumping meet in St. Paul Feb. 12.

Bietila, class A rider and second youngest of the brothers, sustained broken ribs and a broken jaw when in making a 200 foot practice jump he crashed into a steel post along the runway.

A University of Wisconsin student, he won the intercollegiate ski championship in 1936. His brother Walter was on the 1936 United States Olympic team.

Whitehead Is, as Usual, Big Sox Problem

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 26.—Old Prof. Jim Dykes of the White Sox baseball college was pretty nice about everything today when part of his 1939 class reported with full intention of going to work immediately on the subject of spring conditioning.

After noting that twenty of his boys had arrived safely from various directions, the professor surprised them by announcing, "Have your fun today, because tomorrow the levity ceases."

Whereupon, some of them went golfing, others journeyed down into Arroyo Seco for a glimpse of the training field, still others sat around spinning huge lies about their winter's activities, and still others went in search of dictionaries. The latter wanted to learn just what the professor meant by "levity." They were relieved when they found out it had nothing to do with cutting down the portions in the dining room.

Surprise! The Sun's Shining.

Dykes' refusal to take advantage of the sun beaming down today was an indication that he still believes spring conditioning should be a matter of leisurely conduct. His attitude is that when you have weeks in which to prepare, why attempt it in twenty-four hours, thus inviting unhappy incidents. So, when the first assembly call is sounded tomorrow the fellows, most of them battery men, will be instructed to confine themselves to calisthenics, running in pursuit of fungoes, and bits of harmless throwing.

The manager, who has been vacationing here for a couple of weeks and who timed his breakfast appearance so that he would be properly greeted, suppressed his habitual desire for oratorical exercise to concentrate on the waistline dimensions of his battery men. He saw none of alarming circumference, but refused to wax enthusiastic about John Whitehead, who claims he has been training for two weeks. Prof. Dykes will take care of Big John later on and hopes that the results will be better than they were in the last two years.

Whitehead, who, if he could utilize his natural pitching ability, would be as good as anybody in the league, announced when his teammate, Monty Stratton, lost his right leg as the FOUR hundred and eight amateur boxers, each a champion in his home town, stand today on the threshold of a great experience. . . . Tonight they climb into the ring in the Chicago Stadium, stand for a moment beneath the glare of the lights above to receive final instructions from the referee and their handlers, then the gong will sound, and each will be on his own—his sole weapons of offense and defense the weapons of primitive man—his fists. . . . The fortunate thirty-two who survive the three furious nights of battling in this Tournament of Champions will return on March 10 to compete for places on Chicago's intercity squad, which will meet the champions of New York on March 29. . . . The 376 who fail will return to their homes—but not empty handed. They will take with them the experience gained in the most trying competition known to amateur sport and the applause of thousands still will be ringing in their ears. . . . Win or lose, they will give a good account of themselves. Youths of the type which win places in the Tournament of Champions may lose, but they will not quit. . . . That is why the tournament becomes more popular with each succeeding year. . . .

Toss more than 400 red-blooded youngsters from almost every part of the country together, as does the Tournament of Champions, and there is no end of interesting items. . . . There was yesterday's snow, for instance, which excited Featherweight Leroy McAtee no end. . . . Leroy is a student at McGill institute in Mobile, Ala., and a member of the Nashville [Tenn.] Tennessean team. . . . It was his first glimpse of snow. . . . The team representing the Nashville Tennessean has no boy from that city on it. . . . Four are from Alabama. . . . One of them is Jack Revolta, who doesn't play golf. . . . Revolta won the national junior A. A. U. bantamweight title in 1936.

George Byers, sports editor of the Vincennes [Ind.] Sun-Commercial, brought the team here on the 160th anniversary of the day a colonial hero, George Rogers Clark, captured the little French village of Vincennes from the British during the American revolution. . . . The Texas champions, crowned in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram's state tournament, proved a colorful lot, as usual. . . . The heavyweight, Bob [Country] Owens, admitted to weighing 235 pounds, including his overalls and moccasins. . . . Some one asked Bob how long he had been fighting. . . . "Three years," he replied, "but I was out two of those years on account of a broken jaw." . . . Fort Worth claims the biggest out of town delegation, what with eight boxers, two sports writers, a photographer, three trainers, and a coach. . . . Included are three old time fighters of note, Scotty McLaughlin, Dick Dixon, and Sully Montgomery. . . . Montgomery was once a heavyweight contender and before that a member of Centre university's famous Praying Colonels. . . . The Texans would rather talk about Texas Christian university's football team than anything else. . . . On the first day of the Horned Frogs' spring drill, so they say, Jack Odle, slated to be Davey O'Brien's successor, completed his first pass for an 80 yard touchdown, then completed four out of his next five passes. . . . Odle is a 6 footer and weighs 190 pounds. . . .

The influenza epidemic caught up with two of the Memphis Commercial Appeal's eight champions after they arrived Saturday. . . . They are Etney Fontenot of Alexandria, La., and Cliff Milton. . . . The latter, a light heavyweight, will box, but Fontenot has been withdrawn. . . . William Levy and Marion Miller came from Kansas City, Mo., to officiate. . . . Lew M. ONLY INDIANA AND OHIO STILL IN BIG 10 RACE

Each Plays Same 2 Foes This Week.

Games Tonight

Ohio State at Michigan.
Chicago at Illinois.
Minnesota at Wisconsin.
Northwestern at Iowa.
Indiana at Purdue.
De Paul at Illinois Wesleyan.

A week of furious battling has left Indiana's league leading Hoosiers and the second place Ohio State Buckeyes as the only teams in the Big Ten basketball title race.

Three teams were definitly eliminated—Illinois, Purdue, and Minnesota.

Both the contenders will finish their title schedules this week, playing the same two teams. Indiana engages Purdue in Lafayette tonight while Ohio State is playing Michigan in Ann Arbor. Saturday the order is reversed, Michigan and Indiana playing in Ann Arbor and Purdue and Ohio State in Columbus.

Maroons Meet Illinois.

Other conference games tonight send Chicago's Maroons against Illinois in Champaign, Minnesota to Madison, Wis., to meet the Badgers, and Northwestern to Iowa City to engage the Hawkeyes. Besides the final games on Saturday involving Indiana and Ohio State, Wisconsin will close its season against the Maroons in Chicago.

The Illini shoved Purdue out of the picture last Monday, 35 to 26, only to be accorded similar treatment Saturday night by Northwestern. The Wildcats upset Illinois, 36 to 34, despite the scoring efforts of Forward Bill Hapac and Center Pick Dehner, wholesale point makers, who scored thirteen points each.

Indiana managed the elimination of Minnesota in impressive style, the Hoosiers handing the Gophers a 49 to 37 defeat Saturday night for their ninth consecutive league victory. Bill Menke, lanky center, was the chief scorer for Indiana with twenty-eight points, only two short of the conference record for a game.

First Victory Over Major Team.

It was Indiana's first victory over a first division team, the schedule having given them nothing but second division competition in their last four games. But the Hoosiers indicated that the opposition all looked alike to them.

Despite its obvious class, Indiana hasn't been able to shake the Ohio State aggregation which has won eight of ten games compared with Indiana's nine out of ten record.

Ohio State, with Forward Jimmy Hull taking over the conference scoring lead with a total of 138 points, defeated Wisconsin, 46 to 38, Saturday night. Hull contributed twenty-seven points to pass Dehner in the individual scoring race.

In the other Saturday night game Purdue, fighting for also ran honors, defeated Michigan, 29 to 28.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The greatest amateur fighters of 26 states will gather in the Stadium tonight to launch the twelfth annual Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions. Through three consecutive nights of unremitting slugging these boys will struggle to survive against the toughest competition amateur boxing has to offer. Three rings will assure continuous action. When the last bout is over Wednesday evening, the original field of 408 will be cut to 32—four in each of the eight weight divisions. These 32 will return to the Stadium on March 10 for the semi-finals and the title bouts.

In the Tournament of Champions, boxing fans will get a look at every style of fighting. Among the 408 boxers are boys from remote ranches, from prairie farms, from the steel mills of industrial towns and from the offices of big cities. Every one is a champion in his own part of the country.

Every Style, Every Type.

Each was a winner in one of the 46 centers where newspapers coöperated with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the sponsorship of elimination tournaments. Champions from four Chicago sectional events and the Catholic Youth organization will complete the field.

These youngsters will provide a show of endless variety. No two boys are alike in temperament, ability, stamina, and courage. It takes more than boxing skill to win a Golden Gloves fight against an opponent who won't stay down when he's hit. Nobody ever knows what's going to happen in a Tournament of Champions bout.

Many of the participants will find that out before the fighting is over, though many of them know it already from experience in past events. As the various teams gathered in Chicago yesterday Golden Gloves headquarters buzzed with hot tips on fighters who are likely to go a long way in the tournament. Some of them will, others will leave their chins open at just the wrong fraction of a second—and that will be the end of their quest for Golden Gloves. The going is rough in this tournament and only the great amateurs can survive.

Cleveland Strong Again.

The Cleveland team, nearly always among the strongest in the Tournament of Champions, seems likely to run true to form again this year. This city has taken nine titles in previous Golden Gloves events.

The Cleveland delegation is enthusiastic over its light heavyweight representative, a colored boy named Jimmy Reeves. His partisans consider result of a hunting accident that he would step in and take up the slack. He went to Mineral Wells, Tex., where the Sox trained years back, drank the waters and took the baths.

Then he came out here and has already put in a couple sessions of voluntary training. But he remains portly, hence the Dykes skepticism.

Eric's Pretty Cute.

Eric McNair, taken from Boston in trade for Boze Berger, was included in the first squad for no other reason than that he wanted to be enrolled. He didn't appear in the Red Sox lineup last season, supposedly because of an injured knee. The Cleveland club tried to get him, but during the December meetings he told Oscar Vitt, the Indian manager, he couldn't hit in the Cleveland park and that his knee was beyond repair. Vitt finally went to Dykes and exclaimed, "The guy is nuts!" Thus McNair attained a job with Dykes, his former mate with the Athletics.

If the leg ailment was a myth [the White Sox club physician could find no unnatural conditions] McNair may prove quite a valuable fellow. He can play either short or second and in a pinch could take care of third base. At second base he faces the competition of Jack Hayes and Aloysius Bejma, ex-Brown, purchased from St. Paul.

These Are Ready to Work.

Calling the Tough Ones

An Expert on Golf Rules Answers Babe Didrikson's S. O. S.

[This is the eighth of a series of articles by officials in various sports on the difficult decisions they have had to make during their careers.]

BY MRS. JOSEPH E. NEFF.

[As Told to Charles Bartlett.]

[Mrs. Joseph E. Neff of South Bend, Ind., is one of the ablest authorities on the rules of golf the game has ever seen. She has been chairman of the rules of golf committee of the Women's Western Golf association for the last eleven years, following two terms as president of the Indiana association. She has spoken on the rules in leading cities throughout the central states, and has conducted schools on the rules in Chicago and Kansas City. She is the author of a course, the first of its kind, on the training of referees.]

MRS. J. E. NEFF.

Notwithstanding an experience of eleven years of officiating as chairman of the Women's Western Golf association's rules committee at all of the association's major tournaments, I fail to remember a single instance when it was necessary to make what might be called a "tough" decision. There were, however, numerous occasions when unusual happenings created doubt in the minds of contestants and spectators as to the rule, if any, that would determine the consequences. In all such cases, it was found that some rule of golf was clearly available by which they could be settled.

To me, the most interesting of these occurred in 1935 on the 438 yard ninth hole of the Sunset Ridge Country club in the Chicago district, during the women's western open tournament. It was interesting because of the importance of the contestant involved, and perplexing because of the mystery of it in the minds of the large gallery.

Stymied on Rule She Sends Out S O S.

The player was Mildred [Babe] Didrikson, the Texas girl athlete who had become a professional just before the tournament. She came to me and said she was not especially informed on the rules. We made an agreement that if she should be uncertain as to her rights at any time, she should send for me.

On the aforesaid par five ninth, Miss Didrikson drove her second shot into a water hazard. Knowing that it was there, she dropped another ball at the spot from which she had hit the other, and hit what she assumed to be a provisional ball. This ball came to rest in a playable position about five yards short of the green, just back of a hazard, but not in it.

When she arrived at the spot where the ball lay in the water hazard and found she could play, she became uncertain. Voluntary advice of all kinds was showered upon her. A trained athlete, she knew that mental confusion is fatal to physical execution, and sent out an S. O. S. for me. Then signaling the following players to go through, she stood on the tee and nonchalantly juggled tees until I arrived.

Babe Plays It Like a Champion.

She pointed to her first ball. "It is in the water hazard," I said. "You may play it as it lies, if you choose, or you may drop a ball about here [pointing to a spot] with a penalty of one stroke. Then she pointed to the second ball, and said she had played it provisionally. "No, I said, "a provisional ball is not permitted when a ball has lodged in a water hazard. The second ball is now in play, and you are lying four." I cited the footnote to Rule 27 of the U. S. G. A. rules, which does not permit the playing of a provisional ball, under the circumstances attending Miss Didrikson's play on this hole.

"Very well," answered the Babe. Then, with her mind at rest and her muscles free from the tension which always accompanies doubt, she addressed the ball, which on the stroke rose over a bunker and landed on the green, where, after a couple of hops and a short roll, it plunked into the cup.

Ty Cobb Scoffs at Proposals to Break Up Yankees

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Ty Cobb, greatest of all the baseball greats, thinks it would be a "silly idea" to break up the Yankees in an effort to make more equable competition in the American league.

Because the Yankees have been cleaning up both American and National league opposition with astonishing ease, the idea has been advanced that the New York team should be weakened to give all a chance. But in Cobb's book it is a case of everybody for himself, and may the best man win.

"Each club must protect its own investment," said the old-time star. "Breaking up an outfit like the Yankees would be about as wise as putting your money in a pocket that had a hole in it. The club's drawing power would be diminished for one thing. Other teams might win a few games but they probably would start losing revenue more than they're losing now.

"The Yankees are the outstanding attraction of baseball. They make money for the other clubs. There are some cities in the league where a team couldn't draw sizable crowds day in and day out with nine Babe Ruths in the lineup. I doubt whether any of the other club owners would like to see the Yankees broken up."

NORTHWESTERN'S SWIMMERS MEET MICHIGAN TEAM

Northwestern university's swimming team opens a busy week tonight when it meets Michigan, national collegiate champions, at Patten gymnasium, followed by Saturday night's meet with Ohio State, Big Ten champions, at the New Trier High school pool.

Northwestern, defeated 44 to 40 by Illinois Saturday, lacks sufficient all-around strength to offset Michigan's power. In Tom Powell, diver, and Lynn Surles, sprinter, the Purple has a pair of sophomores who may win points.

St. Stanislaus Quintet Wins Bishop Sheil Meet

The St. Stanislaus Kostka basketball team defeated St. Mary's Training school of Des Plaines, 24 to 17, last night, to win the Bishop Sheil Parochial school tournament. Henry Ciura of St. Stanislaus led scorers with eleven points. Joseph Wescott counted seven points for the losers.

Musto Has Big Chance in Wacker Bout

Unless gymnasium form is wrong and his record of twenty-four victories in twenty-six starts is worthless, Tony Musto, roly-poly heavyweight of Blue Island, is destined to snap Henry Wacker's string of triumphs in a ten round bout in the Coliseum Thursday.

Wacker, 26 years old puncher from Taylorville, Ill., has scored nine straight victories, eight by knockouts.

Musto showed his apparent superiority in a five round workout yesterday in Kid Howard's gymnasium against Al Globe and Buddy Stark, light heavyweights, and Selman Martin, heavyweight.

Tony was the only one of the six principals in the three matches of ten rounds heading the card who worked out yesterday.

After sparring five rounds Saturday, two each with Altus Allen, north section Golden Gloves 175 pound champion, and Orlando Trotter, 1938 Illinois Athletic club light heavyweight title holder, and one round with Cowboy Clancy, Wacker was pronounced in excellent condition by Trainer Izzy Kline. Consequently, Kline gave the big fellow a complete rest yesterday.

Kline also laid off his two other charges, Pete Lello, 1936 Chicago Golden Gloves lightweight winner, and Johnny Barbara, former Golden Gloves welterweight finalist. Lello meets Billy Marquart, hard hitting Winnipeg, Man., fighter, and Barbara tackles Milt Aron, also a Golden Gloves product.

Young Armando Santiago, local junior welterweight, has been obtained as Verle Davis' opponent in a five round bout. In another Ed Garlow, Kenosha, Wis., 155 pounder, faces Dick Kist.

Bob Tinsley, west side 136 pound boxer, and Tommy Pallatin, South Bend welterweight, will share headline honors in two matches in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Tinsley meets Earl Gibbs and Pallatin boxes Tommy Howell. Each bout is set for eight rounds. Preliminary encounters:

Joe Lubin vs. Marion Mosley [4], heavyweights.

Andy Canal vs. Patrick [Cocky] O'Brien [4], 138.

Paul [Frenchy] Amnotte will wrestle King Kong in a one hour match in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. Supporting matches include:

Bob Wiley, south side bantamweight, will meet Chester Nat in an amateur boxing show tonight in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street. . . . Gene Ward, local lightweight, has been substituted for Willie Ross against Nick Castiglione of the Italo-American Youth organization in a four round preliminary on the card topped by an eight rounder between Frankie Kainrath and Joe Law in Aurora on Thursday. VON CRAMM TO PLAY IN CAIRO TENNIS TOURNEY

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Baron Gottfried von Cramm, star of Germany's Davis Cup team in 1937, today confirmed reports he was returning to international tennis competition—but not for Germany.

The star, who was released from a Nazi jail four months ago, has entered the Egyptian tennis tournament in Cairo this winter.

Tennis experts agree that Germany would have little trouble winning the Davis cup this year if Von Cramm, back in top form, were allowed to represent his country.

Von Cramm was arrested on a morals charge on March 7, 1938. He remained in jail until his trial opened in May, 1938, and started serving a ten month sentence in June of that year. He was released Oct. 16, 1938.

PLATAK WHIPS DI RE IN STATE HANDBALL FINAL

Joe Platak of the Lake Shore A. C. retained his Central A. A. U. state singles handball championship by defeating George Di Re of Medinah yesterday in the Midwest Athletic club.

Platak, four time national singles titleholder, triumphed by scores of 21-11, 21-8. In the playoff for third place Chuck Ravas of Postl's defeated Joe Frank of the Hyde Park Y., 21-4, 9-21, 21-16.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Ernie Lombardi, 1938 national league batting champion, and the league's most valuable player showed up for the Cincinnati Reds' spring training today with influenza, and was immediately ordered to bed. The big catcher said he was confident he would be all right in a day or two, despite a fever of 103 degrees.

If Reeves is as strong as his backers believe, it will mean that there will be terrific competition in the light heavyweight class, for two of Chicago's representatives, Altus Allen and Frank Greene, showed outstanding ability in winning the north and northwest side titles, respectively.

Chinese Lad a Star.

Cleveland also has a strong lightweight, George Toy, a Chinese boxer. Toy has a terrific right hand punch that he shoots without telegraphing the slightest warning. It earned him knockouts in three of the four bouts he won while taking the Cleveland title.

Kansas City is solidly behind Charley Miegel, a featherweight who has proved himself a masterful boxer. Miegel is a veteran of Golden Gloves competition, having come to Chicago twice before as a member of the Omaha team while a student at the University of Nebraska. He reached the National A. A. U. finals in 1937. His followers are convinced that he's going all the way to the Golden Gloves title this time.

The Omaha delegation has confidence in Vic Marker, a welterweight, who comes from Scotts Bluff, Neb., about 400 miles farther west. Marker has a good left jab and knows how to protect himself so well that he seldom gets hit.

Terre Haute Has Slugger.

Terre Haute is strong for its heavyweight, Paul Ladika. He won the sectional championship by scoring a one round knockout over Joe Trout, who represented Terre Haute last year.

Advance sales indicate that a crowd of approximately 15,000 will see tonight's bouts. Five thousand balcony seats at 25 cents will be placed on sale at 6 p. m. at the Stadium box office.

Sam Snead Is Third in Thomasville Golf.

Thomasville, Ga., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Henry C. Picard of Hershey, Pa., winner of the recent Crescent City open in New Orleans, took the big prize today in the Thomasville open.

He came down the stretch late in the afternoon to add $700 to his bank roll with a winning score of 211, five strokes under par for the 54 hole $3,000 test, to defeat a young Chicago pro, John Bulla, by one stroke.

Picard, in a tie for third place as the last round began, started firing his approaches dead to the cups to take the lead through 45 holes. Bulla, needing only par golf over the last four holes to win, lost two strokes by overshooting one green and driving into the woods at another.

Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., leading money winner last year, put on the greatest exhibition of shot making of the tournament, scoring a last round 67, five under par, to come from far back and take third money.

Fourth money was divided by six golfers, three of whom beat par. Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., winner a year ago, and Ky Laffoon of Chicago had final rounds of 69, and E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Oak Park, Ill., leading purse getter of the winter campaign, took a final 71.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

SEES INSURANCE FIRMS PILING UP CAPITAL IN EAST

Problem for West, Says O'Mahoney.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Insurance company assets are being concentrated in seven eastern states, and the middlewest, west, and south have to depend to an ever increasing degree on the east for industrial capital, Senator O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] said tonight.

In a review of evidence which he termed "amazing," O'Mahoney, chairman of the federal monopoly investigating committee, said "the administration of the tremendous capital reservoir represented by life insurance assets is one of the most important economic questions of our time."

Most of the largest insurance companies are located in New York and New England, he said, adding that, because of this, "commerce and industry of forty-one states must look to seven states for a large proportion of all capital finance."

Calls Funds Life of Industry.

"The west and south, and indeed the middle west, in a constantly increasing degree, are dependent upon the east for the capital resources without which the revival of free and independent industry is impossible," he added.

Declaring that "never in the history of the world has there been such a concentration of property assets as that which supports American insurance policies," the senator added:

"No Reflection on Integrity."

The senator stressed tonight that the inquiry developed no evidence reflecting on the integrity or ability of the officials administering the insurance companies, and that there was no evidence of law violations.

"Generally speaking," he said, "the companies are governed by self perpetuating officers and boards of directors. In the case of the largest of all the companies, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, it was developed that the New York law was apparently expressly designed to permit the officers and directors to perpetuate their own control."

Denied by Ecker.

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Frederick H. Ecker, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, replied to Senator O'Mahoney tonight with a statement that insurance company assets "are not in the main concentrated in New York and six other eastern states as stated."

A study has shown, he said, that the ratio of investments by life insurance companies to legal reserves required by states is as follows:

Calls Probe Incomplete.

"From these facts," Ecker added, "it is clear that instead of there being a concentration in New York and the New England states, the other states throughout the country have more investments in comparison to the required reserves than the states which are said to have this concentration of life insurance assets."

Terming the monopoly committee's inquiry "very incomplete," he said Senator O'Mahoney also overlooked the fact that the $27,650,000,000 assets of the 308 companies he reviewed are held for 65 million policy holders, plus possibly 35 million beneficiaries, in every state.

Bank Attacks 'Spend' Recipe for Recovery

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Guaranty Trust company of New York, one of the nation's largest commercial banks, took issue today with the argument for government spending to promote business revival.

The bank, in its monthly business survey, challenged the "persistent idea that the government can spend its way to prosperity."

The Guaranty's discussion of federal spending and the proposal to restore a national income of $80,000,000,000 was regarded as reflecting views in financial quarters on subjects brought up by spokesmen of the Roosevelt administration.

The spending idea, the bank said, has appeared in a "new and more extreme form," taking the slant the government should raise the national income by means of long range "investments" in wealth creating public works.

Mentioned by Roosevelt.

Apparently this was a reference to the recent stress by President Roosevelt on "the investment" character of part of the New Deal expenditures.

"There is no question regarding the possibility of a national income of $80,000,000,000 a year in the United States," the bank said.

"The estimated income in 1929 slightly exceeded that figure and the income in 1937 was less than 13 per cent below it.

"But it is of fundamental importance to recognize that a national income stated in terms of dollars is the product of two factors—a volume of production and a price level. An increase in either factor—the other remaining unchanged—would raise national income.

"The effects of the two types of increase, however, would be entirely different. A mere rise in prices would not, in itself, enhance prosperity or increase employment."

Tells Basis of Sound Rise.

Enduring business improvement, with solution of unemployment, the bank said, must come through expansion of industrial production. In the past, it observed, this has been achieved through private investment, encouraged by government policies.

"The borrowing and spending program itself, while it may stimulate business and increase the national income temporarily, provides no effective substitute for private investment. It is limited for the most part to nonrevenue producing projects that make little or no permanent contribution to industrial productivity and earning power."

The "pump priming" policy, the bank held, "tends to defeat its own purposes by shaking confidence in the future of currency, credit, prices and costs and thus discouraging private investment."

Louis Moore Jr., for five years assistant to the president of the Kalamazoo Stove, has been elected president of Walker & Pratt.

DIVIDENDS ON C. I. T.

Investors' Guide: On April 7, 1936, I bought some common stock of Commercial Investment Trust, but have kept no record of the dividends received since that time. Please tell me the dividends paid. Also, how do you rate the stock?—M. H.

Answer: Since you bought the C. I. T. stock, dividends per common share have amounted to $13.20 in cash and 20 per cent in stock. The stock is rated a business man's risk—good grade now, but needs watching closely.

ENTITLED TO MONEY NOW.

Investors' Guide: I am a widow. My husband died last month. Until the end of last year he had been employed by a small company, and I know that a social security tax was taken out of his pay check every week. Under the social security act am I entitled to anything, or is the money just gone when an employé dies? My husband's salary was $2,800 a year.—Mrs. R. T.

Answer: You are entitled to a lump sum payment at once and should send your application for the payment to the Social Security board, Washington, D. C. The amount of your benefit depends on the total wages paid your husband from Jan. 1, 1937, until he stopped working. In your case it will be about $190.

WHAT ABOUT HUPP?

Investors' Guide: I should like a few facts about the Hupp Motor Car corporation, which seems to be having trouble. Why has the stock never sold at more than $5 a share in the last four years? What is the value of the plant and equipment? Does the company have many debts? What is your opinion of the stock as an investment?—D. R.

Answer: Hupp has just this month obtained a loan of $900,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation in order to carry on 1939 operations. Production was resumed in July, 1937, after a suspension of a year and a half.

The answer to the low price of the company's stock is found largely in its failure to make a profit. Losses, ranging from $900,000 to $4,500,000, were shown in every year from 1930 through 1937. Loss was $757,000 in the first nine months of 1938.

Hupp's total assets on Sept. 30, 1938, were carried at $5,150,000, but the profit and loss deficit amounted to $2,700,000. Current assets of $1,057,000 were largely in inventories and included cash of only $74,000. Current liabilities totaled $813,000.

The stock is purely speculative.

SANTA FE HAS REVENUE GAIN FOR JANUARY

The Santa Fe railroad yesterday announced that its net railway operating income in January was $143,218. In January, 1938, the road had a deficit of $866,461.

The statement, issued by S. T. Bledsoe, president of the Santa Fe, showed that the system's gross operating revenue for the month was $11,309,763, an increase of $185,162 or 1.66 per cent as compared with the results of a year earlier.

$1,944,632 Kreuger & Toll Debenture Payment Ready

The protective committee for the 5 per cent secured sinking fund gold debentures of the Kreuger & Toll company announced yesterday that $1,944,632 will be made available today to holders of certificates of deposit.

U. S. Industry Dips in Month; Tops Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The federal reserve board reported today that the January volume of industrial production, as measured by the board's seasonally adjusted index, was at 101 per cent of the 1923-'25 average. This compared with 104 in December and 80 in January last year.

At steel mills, where production usually increases substantially at this season, output in January and the first three weeks of February was about the same as in December.

Automobile production, the board reported, fell seasonally in the first two months of the year. Retail sales, it said, showed about the usual decrease and dealers' stocks "reached adequate levels."

Petroleum Output Rises.

Production upturns by cotton, silk, and tobacco factories were smaller than usual at this season and woolen mills recorded a decline. An upswing in mineral production in January reflected an increase in output of crude petroleum, the board said.

Factory employment and pay rolls showed the usual decline between the middle of December and the middle of January. In most individual industries, as well as in the total, changes in the number of employés were approximately seasonal. In trade, employment fell somewhat more than is usual after Christmas.

Store Sales Down Sharply.

Department, variety, and mail order stores recorded the usual sharp seasonal drop from December to January. In the first two weeks of February department store sales held at the January level.

Wholesale commodity prices generally remained about unchanged in January and the first three weeks of February. Grain prices slid somewhat, following December's rise. Hog prices rose seasonally.

REPORT ON MIDWEST

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago yesterday announced the first favorable year to year comparison in employment and wage figures that has been recorded since November, 1937.

Based on reports from 13,155 firms in the seventh federal reserve area, the bank announced 1,346,772 employés received $37,030,000 in wages in the week ended Jan. 15. These figures represented declines of 3.4 per cent in employment and 4.7 per cent in pay rolls by comparison with those of December, 1938.

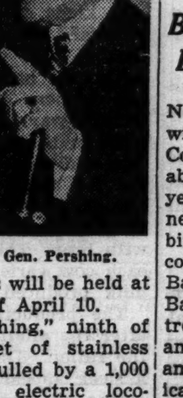
Smaller Drop from December.

"Although the declines for all reporting industries combined were of considerable proportions, they were much smaller than took place in January, 1938," the bank's bulletin said. "Consequently the comparison with a year ago showed improvement, employment increasing 2 per cent and wage payments as much as 13 per cent. These favorable margins over year-earlier volumes were the first recorded since November, 1937."

Employment in automobile factories increased over the Dec. 15 level, and the number of jobs in the construction and merchandising groups showed a normal seasonal recession.

NEWEST ZEPHYR NAMED IN HONOR OF GEN. PERSHING

The Burlington railroad's new St. Louis-Kansas City Zephyr train has been named the "General Pershing," officials announced yesterday. The train will go into operation early in April.



Gen. Pershing.

Edward Flynn, executive vice president of the road and long a friend of the man who was commander in chief of the American expeditionary forces in France, has asked Gen. Pershing to help dedicate the train. The ceremonies will be held at St. Louis the week of April 10.

The "General Pershing," ninth of the Burlington's fleet of stainless steel trains, will be pulled by a 1,000 horse power Diesel electric locomotive.

GENERAL FOODS REPORTS SHARP RISE IN PROFITS

Radio Corporation's Earnings Drop.

Sharply improved operations both for the final quarter of 1938 and for the full year were disclosed yesterday in the annual report of the General Foods corporation. The corporation was one of several large companies which issued earnings statements. The Scott Paper company reported record 1938 profits. Radio Corporation of America and the New York Telephone company showed lower earnings than in 1937.

C. M. Chester.

The General Foods report was signed by C. M. Chester, chairman. The company's quarter profits were $3,515,421, equal to 63 cents a share on common stock. Inventory writedowns in the final quarter of 1937 resulted in a net loss of $584,979 for the period.

For the full year the company earned $13,577,075, equal to $2.50 on the common stock, compared with $9,206,295, or $1.75 a share in 1937. Last year was one of the most profitable since organization of the company, which is one of the country's largest food manufacturing and distributing enterprises.

Sales Show Upward Trend.

"Sales in every quarter during 1938, except the first, exceeded the volume of any similar quarter of previous years," said Chester. "Total case sales volume for the year was the largest in the history of the company."

Radio corporation's 1938 net profit was $7,412,072, equivalent after preferred dividends to 30 cents a common share. This compared with $9,024,858, or 42 cents a share in 1937.

James G. Harbord, chairman, and David Sarnoff, president, said in their report that each of the services [broadcasting, manufacturing and communications] "operated on a profitable basis, and made new advances that hold encouraging promise for the future."

Diversification Held Beneficial.

"While the decline in the nation's business resulted in reduced gross income and net profit, the company benefited from the broad diversification of its activities," they added. "Increases in some divisions partly offset declines in others."

The Scott Paper company's 1938 net income established a record of $1,379,950, equivalent to $2.30 a share. This compared with 1937 earnings of $1,254,281, or $2.20 a share.

The New York Telephone company's annual report for 1938 showed a net income of $29,377,181, or $6.97 a share. This compared with $34,415,352, or $7.96 a share, in 1937.

Bancamerica-Blair Will Become Blair & Co. Today

The Bancamerica-Blair corporation, New York investment banking firm, will resume today the name Blair & Co., Inc., by which it was known for about forty years of its forty-nine years of existence. In 1929 the business of Blair & Co., Inc., was combined with that of the Bancamerica corporation, securities affiliate of the Bank of America, under the name Bancamerica-Blair corporation, control of which passed to the Transamerica corporation. Recently Transamerica sold its interest in Bancamerica-Blair, whose stockholders voted to resume the old name.

USERS OF STEEL RELY ON PRICES HOLDING STEADY

Consumers Continue Buying for Nearby Needs.

Belief among consumers of steel that there will be no important price boosts in the second quarter is one of the causes of continued buying for nearby delivery instead of anticipated needs, the trade magazine Steel said yesterday in its weekly review.

The restricted purchasing programs have retarded a broadening of steel activity, the review indicated. The fact that the mills have been able to deliver promptly on small orders has encouraged short term buying. has encouraged short term buying.

The sustained demand for steel, although only for short range needs, has supported steel making, the magazine said.

Ingot Production Steady.

The national ingot production rate was unchanged last week at 55 per cent of the industry's theoretical capacity. A year ago the rate was 30.5 per cent.

Improvement in operations was registered in the Chicago district, where the ratio gained 1 point to 53.5 per cent. Pittsburgh mills also advanced 1 point to 48; Youngstown, 2 to 47, and Wheeling, 2 to 68 per cent. Operations declined at Buffalo, Detroit, and Cleveland.

Steel scrap prices remained strong last week. The magazine's scrap composite price was unchanged at $14.96 a ton and the finished steel composite held steady at $56.50 a ton.

Auto Plants Buy Less.

Contemplated revisions of prices on some steel products were intimated last week, the journal stated. Barbed wire prices have been advanced and jobbers' allowances on galvanized sheets and formed products have been practically eliminated.

Consumption of steel by the automobile industry has been slowed by the heavy purchases made late in 1938. New orders, therefore, are expected to be light for another month.

Railroad purchases have moderated. New buying, the magazine said, will depend on the trend of income.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Alfalfa Silage Fine

February 26, 1939.

SILAGE made from alfalfa and molasses is being praised highly by dairymen in charge of a legume silage feeding test this winter on Sydney G. McAllister's farm, two miles northwest of Elgin. Other practical silage tests also are being made by McAllister, who is president of the International Harvester company.

Preliminary reports indicate this new feed has so many points in its favor that an increasing number of farmers, particularly dairymen and beef cattle raisers who have silos, will utilize more and more alfalfa as silage instead of hay.

Save Third on Grain.

Dairymen on the McAllister farm find it enables them to save the alfalfa crop which often suffers heavy losses from poor harvesting weather, especially at the time the first cutting of the crop is made into hay. Their experience so far indicates that perhaps as much as one-third of the dairy cow's grain requirements may be saved through the use of alfalfa silage.

The test has demonstrated that by using alfalfa silage dairymen can cut down materially the amount of protein feed they normally buy. Men who are following the test believe that by using alfalfa as silage dairymen in this region will be able to shift their cropping plans so they can save the fertility of their soil. By being able to store legumes in a silo farmers may grow more alfalfa, clover, and similar legumes on sloping land that erodes easily and raise corn and other soil depleting crops on the level fields that do not wash so readily.

52 Milch Cows on Test.

Fifty-two milch cows are getting their share of the alfalfa silage in the McAllister farm test. For several weeks each cow has been given a daily allowance of from 35 to 40 pounds of corn silage and alfalfa silage mixed at feeding time. Approximately 15 pounds of alfalfa silage is used in the mixture. Where both kinds of silage are fed it is necessary for a farmer to have two silos so that the crops, alfalfa and corn, may be stored separately, unless farmers can work out a satisfactory way of combining the two crops in the same silo.

In addition to the silage, the cows are fed about 15 pounds of alfalfa hay daily. They are given a mixture of ground ear corn and oats, mixed with bran. The grain mixture given each cow varies with the amount of milk produced.

The production of milk increased after the alfalfa silage was added to the ration. The cows' coats took on a sleek appearance as they do after eating oil meal.

Dairymen in charge of the test believe it would be wise to have alfalfa silage ready to feed cows as soon as they are taken off pasture in the fall.

Plan 240 Ton Storage.

Plans are being made to fill a 240 ton silo with alfalfa this year on the McAllister farm. During the summer the silo will be refilled as it settles. This is practical because farmers in this region cut alfalfa at least twice a year.

Favorable results with silage made from alfalfa and from soy beans this year have encouraged these dairymen to try out other crops ordinarily cured as hay. If they have space in the silos this summer timothy will be harvested and made into silage.

"How I Got a Loan of $100

"I needed $100 in a hurry. I dreaded to ask friends for a favor. And I had no security for getting a loan at a bank. What was I to do? Fortunately I heard about Household Finance and so went to a nearby office. The manager was courteous and friendly. He merely asked me a few simple questions. The next day I got the money with 20 months to repay. Only my wife and I signed the papers. I was delighted to get a loan so simple and promptly."

Whether you are married or single, if you need a loan of $20 to $300 the manager of the Household office near you will be glad to discuss your problem with you in complete privacy and without obligation. Why not phone or visit him today?
